MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

March 8, 9, 11, 12, 13 and 14.

The most desirable class of tenants are those who can afford to pay a good rent. They usually wont unless the store has all the modern improvements. If it hasn't Luxfer Prisms it is not up-to-date. Make your property more valuable by increasing the amount of real daylight into it. Let us explain matters to you either by mail or personally.

WALL Street this week cannot be said to be "suffering a recovery." Changes have been rung on activity, great irregularity and dulness. These have been daily characteristics, the market being each of one of these by turns and nothing long, consequently doubt and anxiety may still be said to reign. Reports of large firms in difficulties have been shown to have no foundation in fact, which is a great disappointment to chronic bears who contended that failures were in order and would have cleared the atmosphere. The first decade of the twentieth century has clearly proved that former experiences and precedents in Wall Street go for nothing, for no such decline, or what practically amounted to a panic, ever took place without a record of disaster to banking or stock exchange houses. Yet they have all apparently weathered thé storm, which serves to show the generally sound condition of business and the financial situation. An interview given by John D. Rockefeller to a daily newspaper did not take a roseate view of the situation, and undoubtedly caused some considerable selling of stocks from all parts of the country. Views of a man of such monumental prominence have great weight and are naturally to some extent authoritative, but a curious feature of the Standard Oil monarch's utterances is that other members of that powerful institution do not seem to be in accord with their chief. At any rate, stocks in the Standard Oil group and others declined all along the line. American Smelting dropped from 122½ to 115 and did not recover its loss. An attack was made on Tennessee Coal and Iron, but it failed to succeed, and the stock quickly rebounded to its former figure. It is said that the bulk of this stock is firmly held by one concern in a safe-deposit vault without a single dollar loaned on it, which would account for the failure of the traders to break the price. Opinions among Wall Street men differ as to the future course of the market. Bears certainly have made money and are not easily cowed, but their manipulations for the decline cannot be prolonged indefinitely. Money, after all, is the all important question. As a well-known stock exchange says, "money does not discriminate between weak positions in railroads and those in industrial issues, and we have seen stock coming out which had to be liquidated because loans were called by certain institutions in order to put their affairs in shape for the money demand of April." Call and time money worked easier in this market though there was some anxiety displayed among bankers regarding the raising of the Bank of France's discount rate.

SPRING has arrived, and if building and real estate in New York san be said to still have their special seasons, it is time for another round of building operations. At this writing steamers are forcing open navigation on the Hudson, and brick will be coming in next week. A slight advance in the price of brick accompanied the advent of fair weather, but even so, the best price is low compared with last Spring's. On the whole building materials will be cheaper this year than last, and wages are no higher. As to the character of the building to be undertaken, there is a strong likelihood that builders will return from the northern parts of the city to some of the older sections, particularly on the East Side, where there is a great field for larger and better apartment houses than the prevailing type at present, and with all the assurances in favor of financial success. When the projects of the present year are compared, not with those of 1906, but with the record of plans filed in 1905, it will be perceived that the building outlook is fairly good. The year 1905 was the greatest building year on record, and projects in Manhattan are only about four millions short of the record for the corresponding period in 1905; whereas, the Spring of 1907 was sensational in promises, but deficient in performance and execution. A great many buildings for which plans were filed in 1906 were not built. If these plans should be worked out this year, 1907 will be a bigger year than a record of plans filed will reveal. Furthermore, a large number of skyscrapers, whose estimated cost swelled the total for 1906, are still in course of construction. The New York Central and Pennsylvania stations alone will be employing nearly half the available mechanical force of the borough before many months have passed. Tenement alteration work is going to be very heavy this year in all the boroughs, and in Brooklyn the new buildings planned exceed in value those projected up to the corresponding date last year by nearly three million dollars. Wall Street reactions ought to help rather than harm real estate interests. They ought to have the effect of making mortgage money easier to obtain for sound propositions. This is the way builders now view the situation. One great thing to their advantage is the peaceable labor situation. Most wage schedules are settled for a year or more to come, and all the signs in the industrial sky is for continued fair weather.

THE report of the committee of the Retail Dry Goods Association calls attention again to the curious and significant fact that, whereas the population of New York doubles itself in less than twenty-five years, the number of passengers carried by the local transit companies doubles itself in a little over ten years. Travel, that is, increases twice as fast as population. In 1895 there were about 1,850,000 passengers transported daily in what is now the greater city. In 1906 the total for the Greater New York was a little over 3,400,000. In Manhattan and the Bronx alone 2,500,000 passengers were carried each day on the surface, elevated and subway lines. An extraordinary aspect of this increase is, there has been no improvement in means of transit corresponding to the increase in its amount. One new bridge has been opened between Brooklyn and Manhattan; but its terminals are so badly connected with the rest of the boroughs, that it has been of comparatively little use. The subway has been added to the Manhattan transit system, but it carries only 400,000 passengers a day. In Manhattan the surface lines have been very little improved during the past ten years. The use of electric power on the elevated roads has made that means of transit very much more useful, but when every improvement is counted, it can hardly be claimed that the twice-told traffic of 1906 has been created by the encouragement which it had received to travel more conveniently. The number of passengers travelling every day in the greater city could probably be increased within six months by 700,000, in case the means of communication were suddenly and largely improved. The interest in these facts consists in their bearing upon the plans for new subways and tunnels. In the first place, such figures indicate plainly that the Interborough-Metropolitan Company would show a very small understanding of rapid transit conditions and opportunities in case it refused to accept the proposed leases for forty years. By 1917 the Manhattan traffic alone will be not far from 5,000,000 a day and by 1928 it will be almost 10,000,000 a day, three times as much as the total existing traffic of the Greater New York. With travel increasing at such a rate, it would be criminal negligence on the part of the municipal authorities to lease the subways for a longer period than the one proposed. In the second place the assurance that such an enormous increase in traffic awaits the opening of new transit routes makes it desirable that not merely a part but the whole of the plans for new subways, should be carried out at any early date. The mere extension of the present subway north from Forty-second Street along Lexington Avenue and south from Forty-second Street along Seventh Avenue is not enough. These extensions would probably something more than double the capacity of the existing subway, but inasmuch as the existing subway carries only 400,000 passengers a day, such a moderate increase in carrying power would not be sufficient to take care of the normal increase in traffic during the four years that the extensions were under construction. The object of the commission should be to let contracts during the next few years for at least three four-track longitudinal subways in Manhattan with their appropriate connections and extensions in the Bronx. Three new subways would, in case they were not completed until about 1913 or 1914, merely give the inhabitants of Manhattan and the Bronx in 1915 a means of communication about as good as they possess today.

The Court House Site Question

Views of Charles T. Barney, Charles S. Brown, Robt. E. Dowling and Francis E. Ward.

IN relation to the Union Square site for the new court house, and whether it would be possible for the city, when condemning that, to condemn a larger plot of land than is proposed to be used, with the expectation of realizing a profit on the part not taken for public purposes, the Record and Guide has taken counsel of four of the leading men in real estate financiering. Some of the elements of the proposition were stated last week. The Court House Commission has reported in favor of taking the three blocks on the east side of the square between 14th and 17th sts. Mr. Charles S. Brown, of Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown & Co., has appraised the value of the properties to be taken at $8,913,500. Other costs and expenses connected with condemnation proceedings would add several millions more to the total, before a stone could be laid in the building. As this enormous cost might postpone or defeat the proposition, it has been proposed by the City Improvement Commission to reduce it by permitting the city to derive the benefit of the enhancement of value of the surrounding properties.

Mr. Robert E. Dowling, president of the City Investing Company, leaving aside the question whether it is a feasible proposition, considered that it would be decidedly undesirable for the city to engage in the purchase of land with a speculative expectation of realizing a profit on the sale of the part not needed for public purposes, either in Union square or anywhere else. In his judgment, the city is having difficulty enough in raising funds for necessary improvements, without attempting to engage in speculation.

Referring to the statement that this method has been adopted in at least one other country, Mr. Dowling said that in his opinion this example should not affect our decision. On the theory suggested, the city might continue in the speculative field and buy land at the outer edges of the city in anticipation of later building rapid transit roads, which would be expected to increase the selling price of the land. Such speculative transactions should be left to individuals or corporations engaged in such business.

Mr. Charles S. Brown, who was selected by the Court House Commission to appraise the value of the property within the selected bounds, is opposed to this larger method of condemnation, as he believes the principle is wrong.

I would state that in my opinion it is very unwise for the city to enter into such a procedure. It is unusual, and, I think, unconstitutional, and would make great cause for scandal. I am told that this method has been adopted in one other country, but I think in principle it is wrong, and I very much oppose it.

Mr. Charles T. Barney, president of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, took the affirmative side of the question.

In all condemnation proceedings, I am in favor of having a larger amount of land than what is actually needed condemned. I think in some cases this is absolutely necessary, in order that the improvements contemplated can be effected.

As to how much additional land should be condemned in the matter of the Court House proceedings, I am unprepared to say. I am not sufficiently familiar with the ground.

Mr. Francis E. Ward, once president of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, and very intimate with real estate interests in that part of the city in which Union square lies, was found to be opposed to most of the aspects of the proposition as presented. He is opposed, in the first place, to the city going into the real estate business, and he thinks it unlikely that with the expenses of a special commission, legal costs and other disbursements, that the net return to the city would warrant the undertaking. But even if it should, Mr. Ward would not favor the city pursuing such a method.

"Possibly the greatest public improvement ever made in any city was the removal of the fortified wall surrounding the inner city of Vienna and the creation of the Ring Street, with its array of public buildings, theatres, concert halls, cafes, etc., in its place," said Mr. Ward. "The city, however, owned the ground, so the profit direct and indirect was enormous."

"If the building of the Court House on the site proposed is consummated, creating thereby a new centre of activity, should not the increased taxation of adjoining and neighboring properties be sufficient in the future to have warranted the undertakings as planned without additional purchasing on the part of the city? Yes."

However, if he erred in his conclusions, and was asked what method should be followed to acquire the property, he would say that instead of appointing a political commission the Comptroller should apply to the Real Estate Board of Brokers for a certified appraisal of the properties in question, such appraisal being made with the knowledge of the improvement contemplated, and the properties should be condemned in accord with the figures submitted and bonds issued for the purchase.

Real Estate Interests Oppose New County.

For a number of years an agitation more forced than spontaneous has been kept going to simulate a popular desire for a new county, to be called the County of Bronx. At length a bill has been prepared and introduced into the State Legislature authorizing the setting-up of this new political division, and in view of this, real estate interests in the Bronx, acting through the Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers, have resolved to strenuously oppose the separation, and have requested their representatives in Senate and Assembly to defeat the bill.

The Bronx has developed as rapidly as it has mainly because it is a part of the great County of New York, and for the same reason mortgage loans have been easy to obtain on real estate within its borders. Money can also be borrowed on the bonds issued for the benefit of the Bronx, as part of the great County of New York, at the lowest rate of interest, and its tax rate has been low, whereas in a separate county the rate would certainly be higher, for there would be a separate organization to provide for.

All these reasons against the policy of forming a new county are noticed in the resolutions passed at a meeting of the brokers on the 19th inst., and one more which they stated in these words:

As a separate County, we should be at once shut off from an enormous amount of money now supplied to us for mortgage loans by estates, savings banks, trust companies and corporations who are not allowed to loan, by the State and their own corporation laws, outside of the County of New York. Many mortgages now on property in this Borough would be called in if said Borough were a separate County, and that it would greatly depreciate the value of real estate in Bronx Borough. The only resulting benefit would be local County offices in the Bronx, but all the benefits claimed from these could be obtained as well if not better by branch county offices, the same as is done by the branch municipal departments in this Borough.

In an address which the Hon. James L. Wells delivered before the Committee on Internal Affairs of the New York State Assembly, on Tuesday, March 19, in opposition to the "disannexation," he read a preamble with resolutions adopted by the Bronx League at a meeting on the previous evening. The League protests against so radical a change until it has been clearly demonstrated that it is for the benefit of the whole people and not "for light and transient causes," and until the propostion has been submitted to the people and approved by a majority of the legal voters of the present county of New York. What the people of the Bronx need are more facilities for rapid transit.

"They are not in any pressing need for more county court-houses, more county jails, more county penitentiaries, and more county almshouses, or more palatial offices for judges, court-criers, special deputies, and assistant special deputies. Surrogates, with their numerous probate clerks and court attendants, Sheriffs with their counsel, deputies, prison-guards, van drivers and keepers, or District Attorneys with their assistants, hall clerks, indictment clerks, process servers and messengers; or Commissioners of Juries, with their deputies, enrollment clerks, and jury notice servers, and the host of other employees."

Attention is also called to the fact that the expenses connected with transferring and mortgaging real estate would be multiplied by the necessity of having searches made in three counties.

Proportion of Cash in Real Estate Operations.

A correspondent of a daily paper, in making a suggestion for the burned-out Upton Sinclair colony, alleges that it is "a well known fact in real estate circles that almost any apartment house in New York City can be bought for a sum equal to 100 times one month's rental by paying 10 per cent. down, 1 per cent. per month for thirty months, and the balance of 60 per cent. to remain on a long term mortgage at a low rate of interest."

In commenting on this a leading real estate broker who has effected many sales of apartment houses in Manhattan said: "Although the practice is not general, good buildings of this description in fair locations are sold upon a payment of about 15 per cent. of the purchase price, the balance over and above this deposit and first mortgage being liquidated in convenient periodical instalments, with interest on remaining balances at the rate of from 5 to 6 per cent. per annum. There are few builders, however, that would consent to a long term second mortgage in a sale on this basis, as in the majority of instances they need their funds for other operations, and cannot, therefore, tie up working capital for long periods."

The first annual dinner of the Queens Borough Real Estate Exchange will be held on April 11, at 8 o'clock, in the Manhattan Hotel, Madison av and 42d st. From a number of prominent speakers it is expected that much valuable information concerning real estate in Queens Borough will be given out at the dinner. Tickets can be secured from the treasurer, H. A. O'Brien, Jamaica, N. Y.

Skyscraper Construction

THOMPSON-STARRETT COMPANY'S periodical, "The Skyscraper," has a new typographical dress for each occasion. The February issue is the handsomest of all. Among the cream-colored reading pages are inserted leaves of chocolate hue, attached to which are real photographs of the skyscrapers which the construction company has erected within a season, either in New York or some other place. There is a chapter by Mr. Starrett on "Twentieth Century Construction" in which he notices the tendency in city building operations to combine many small properties into one larger. Horizontal expansion is the order of the day.

"When the confines of a building are the streets which surround the block, then and then only shall we have the last word in building construction. The days of small offices are passing. The largest buildings are rented by floors nowadays. There are corporations whose offices, spread out, would cover a large block or more, and offices for such on one floor are demanded wherever possible. Of present day buildings covering entire blocks, one of the greatest examples in the city will be the Metropolitan Building, at Madison avenue and 23d street. John Wanamaker's store, at 8th street and Broadway, is another single block building, or will be when he carries out his plan and takes in the southwest corner of the plot, on which, by the way, stands a modern building. The Trinity Building and the United States Realty Building cover entire blocks, though small."

In the album of photographs the United States Express Building is seen in course of construction, the beautiful Crescent Club House in Brooklyn, James McCreery & Company's store in 34th and 35th sts, the Tichenor-Grand Building, 61st st and Broadway, the New York Central's power house at Port Morris, the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio terminal station at Washington, the Batterman store in Williamsburgh, and two of the great Sears-Roebuck buildings in Chicago. There are also reproductions of letters from Mr. Frank Freeman, architect of the Crescent Athletic Club, and Supt. Wilgus, of the New York Central complimenting the Thompson-Starrett Company on the high character of the work done in connection with the Crescent Athletic Club and the Port Morris power house.

In the course of an article on "Feats in Construction," Mr. Starrett says there are two ways to get good building work done nowadays. One is to employ only the highest price subcontractors—never the lowest; the other is to do it with your own workmen. The latter is his plan. It has been assumed by many that speed in construction is a terrifically expensive proposition. The following account of the McCreery store operation would indicate that quick time can be obtained without extraordinary expense, provided good management is present:

"On the 12th day of year 1906, the erection of the steel skeleton on the 35th street side was started from the sub-basement, 45 ft. below the sidewalk. The setting of the steel had begun on 34th street before that time, but owing to the housesmiths' strike, little had been accomplished. On the 2d of April the highest point of the building was reached, 13 tiers of steel having been erected in 50 calendar days. On May 4th the stone front on 34th street was completed, and on May 11th the stone front on 35th street was completed. Meantime the work of finishing the interior was going on apace, so that by July 1st the upper stories of the building were finished, and on July 12th were occupied by the owner for the erection of the store fixtures."

Every one of the hundred or more operations that go to make the completed building is studied out in advance and is done on schedule. By anticipating each operation sufficiently, it has been found possible almost entirely to do away with night work and reduce the cost of quick construction to a reasonable figure.

Points on the Material Market.

The spruce market is firm at the present list with a very fair demand, but the West Virginia mills are handicapped in the matter of cars, which is interfering with local receipts.

The inquiry for hemlock is good, and the $22 base price is governing on a majority of sales. The mills are well supplied with orders, and the prospect for spring is in line with higher prices.

Brick shipments from Hudson River points will be resumed next week. At this writing the river is open to Rockland Lake, and the Newburgh steamers are about to open a channel from that city. Good bricks are this week quoted at $6 and $6.75 per M.

Hudson Tunnel Co.'s Purchases Now Complete.

The suit brought against Mary J. McDonald by the New York & New Jersey Railroad to compel her to dispose of her holding at 120 West 33d st to the McAdoo interests has been settled, and in exchange for the "Patch" she received the sum of $65,000, representing a net profit of $49,000 on her investment of a little less than three years ago. The property has a frontage of 25 ft. on 33d st, with an irregular depth. The sum obtained in the settlement is said to be one of the highest ever paid for property in condemnation proceedings in Manhattan, and enables the Tunnel Company to proceed with the construction of their tubes. The company now owns one-half the block bounded by Broadway and 7th av, 32d and 33d sts.

Tenement House Alteration Will Be Heavy.

Alteration work has been rather slow this winter, compared to what was being done last year at this time. The work scheduled in Manhattan has been only half as much as last year. While the severity of the weather may have given this line of work a temporary setback, there will in all probability be an immense amount of it when the season is fairly open.

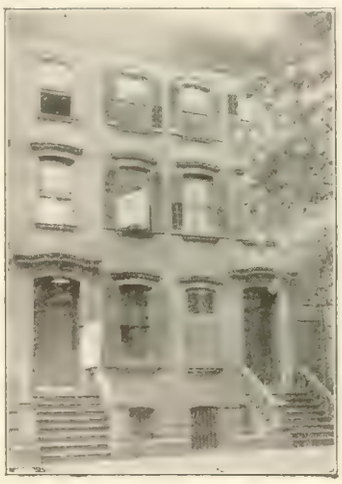

Fig. 1.

A great amount follows from the enforcement of the Tenement House law, requiring changes in plumbing and sanitary arrangements, so as to do away with school sinks. The United States Court recently upheld the constitutionality of the provisions of law requiring this, and Commissioner Butler of the Tenement House Department is unhesitatingly enforcing the law. As several thousand tenement houses must be altered, the work could not all be done at once, and the Commissioner is therefore advancing it in regular stages. The attorney of the House Owners' Association, which fought this law to the highest court in the land, estimated during the trial that this one class of alterations would cost ten million dollars in the aggregate.

Fig. 2.

Much alteration work proceeds from the demands of commerce and manufacturing. These are steadily encroaching on the best residential streets, and one after another dwellings are being altered into stores, oftentimes requiring the most skilful kind of workmanship, and the most expeditious. A large number of mechanical firms make a specialty of alteration work. Some devote their attention almost exclusively to removing violations, and others to fitting up stores in dwellings. The accompanying illustrations are typical of the latter line of business. Fig. 1 is a Madison av house as it originally looked; Fig. 2, as it was during the course of the alterations, and Fig. 3 the completed work. The contractor in this case was William Collins, of 336 West 24th st, one of the firms making a specialty of tenement house alterations.

Fig. 3.

Alteration work in the Borough of Manhattan to this date is not far behind, compared to the number of plans filed with the Bureau of Buildings, to what was being performed last year from January 1 to date. The totals are as follows:

1906, January 1 to March 1: Number alteration plans filed, 604; number slip applications filed, 399.

1907, January 1 to March 1. Number alteration plans filed, 589; number slip applications filed, 310.

In Manhattan Borough, from March 1, the number of plans filed for alterations has been exceedingly large, and to this date the exact number is greater than for the same period last year. But in Manhattan and the Bronx together, the total cost of the alteration work for which plans have been filed is about two million short of last year.

THE REALM OF BUILDING

Prospective Building.

The following is a continued list of building enterprises for Manhattan and Bronx that may be expected within the year 1907. The first name is the owner's; the second, that of the architect; the third, the contractor's; the date is the date of announcemen in the Record and Guide.

New Orleans Court House Contract.

The court house commission of New Orleans has finally awarded the contract for the building. Ambrose B. Stannard, of New York, was the successful bidder for the sum of $1,024,500, which covers the whole cost of the structure. The building will be four stories high and the first two stories will be faced with Georgia marble. Seven bidders submitted estimates on four different methods of construction, and it was not only necessary to decide on the lowest bidder but also to determine what sort of material should be used. Mr. Stannard built the government buildings at Elmira, N. Y., Newport News, Va., Hartford and Bridgeport, Conn.; the United States powder depot at Dover, N. J.; the home office of the Orient Insurance Co., Hartford, Conn., and the high school building at Greenwich, Conn. He has just completed an $800,000 sewerage pumping station at Washington, and is now building for the Department of Agriculture at Washington a building representing the expenditure of $1,250,000. Mr. Stannard has sublet the contract for the piling to a New Orleans firm and expects that this part of the work will be finished within sixty days. He expects to employ New Orleans labor exclusively on the building, and will buy all his builders' supplies from New Orleans dealers.

The Cement Industry in 1906.

The following statement, issued by the United States Geological Survey, shows the approximate production of hydraulic cements in the United States for the calendar year 1906.

This statement is exact within a small fraction of 1 per cent. and is issued in advance of the annual report on the production of cement which is now being prepared in that bureau. The returns on which it is based are complete with the exception of those from four small plants.

The total production of all kinds of hydraulic cement in 1906, including Portland, natural rock and Puzzolan cements, was 50,027,321 barrels, valued at $54,015,713.

Of the above total amount of cement manufactured in the United States in 1906, 45,610,822 barrels were Portland cement, with a value of $51,240,652; 3,935,275 barrels were natural rock cement, with a value of $2,362,140; and 481,224 barrels were Puzzolan cement, valued at $412,921.

Prices were good in 1906, and showed an advance over those of 1905. The total production of cement in 1905 was 40,894,308 barrels, valued at $36,012,189. Comparison of totals for 1905 and 1906 shows an increase in 1906 of 9,133,013 in production and $18,003,524 in value.

It Defied the Flood.

The building world is at present not a little interested in the remarkable effectiveness during the recent flood of Winslow's Hydrolithic Cement Coating as installed last December in the basement of the Union Bank Building at Pittsburgh, Pa. Over thirty thousand feet of this waterproofing was laid by the Waterproofing Company of New York. Although the Hydrolithic Cement Coating and the thorough manner in which it was laid successfully resisted the rush of water, the engineers of the waterproofing company expressed no surprise. They point to the achievement of the Winslow product at Pittsburgh as only one of a long list of proofs of its effectiveness in their hands. The Union National Bank Building, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was designed by McClure & Spahr, architects, and the builder is the A. & G. Wilson Co., of Pittsburgh.

Choice Residential Bronx Quarter.

Stebbins av, in the vicinity of 169th st, has remained dormant for some time; that is, so far as building and conveyancing are concerned. At the northeast corner of Stebbins av and 169th st stands a 4-sty select apartment house on a plot of 41 ft. in 69th st, with 100 ft. on the avenue. It is substantially built of red brick, and artistically finished with hardwood wainscoting in the front vestibule, and the ground floor hall tiled. The house is equipped with every modern improvement, but is not in the market for sale. It is said the architect received $1,000 bonus for the workmanlike manner in which the plans were laid out.

The abutting property to the north, which is about ten feet below grade, and has a frontage of about 150x130 ft. in depth, is owned by one Chas. H. Griffin; adjoining this is another vacant plot of approximately 71x125 and owned by a Geo. W. Godward. Frank Belsky owns the next parcel, having about 50x125 ft., while J. U. Audebert owns the corner strip at Chisholm st, 35x110x irregular.

Mr. A. Gerhards, of 1070 East 169th st, near Stebbins av, says that these inside lots are held at about $6,000 each. Abutting the northeast corner of Stebbins av, in 169th st, we find a row of four 3-sty frame, 2-family houses, with ranges and baths to each apartment, one of which is in the market for sale at $8,500, being situated on a lot of 18x106 each. Adjoining these are two 3-family 3-sty frame houses, 20x106, with all improvements, individually owned, but not in the market.

David Gutman owns the northeast angle of Lyman place and Stebbins av, being 157x197 on the latter thoroughfare x 129 in the rear, which is held for $28,000. On the southeast corner are two 3-sty frame buildings, 40x100, with stores, and 3 families each, the owner of which is asking $25,000 for the same.

Charlotte F. Trowbridge owns the northwest corner of Lyman pl and 169th st, having a frontage of 150 ft. on Lyman pl and 200 on 169th st, x irregular. The southwest corner of 169th and Stebbins av, occupied by a 3-sty frame building, with two families and store, is not offered for sale. The adjoining 3-sty frame has two families and store, also steam heat, the owner of which is asking $18,000. Adjoining this on the west is another 3-sty frame, on plot 20x100, and held for $12,000, having steam heat and averaging $28 to $30 per month rent for six rooms and bath. To the west is another frame 3-sty structure, with two families and store, for $16,000—no heat nor hot water. Abutting this is also a 2-family frame 2½-sty building, with no store, which sold for $10,500 a short time ago.

How Interest in Brooklyn Real Estate Started.

It is announced that A. E. Mueller, general manager of Garden City Estates, has resigned his position with that corporation, to take effect April 1. Mr. Mueller probably is one of the best known experts in the suburban real estate field, and his experience has been gained not only in the New York market, but through the handling of properties in a dozen important cities throughout the United States. For more than twelve years he was engaged with Wood, Harmon & Co., first as manager of their Washington office, later as a general manager engaged in the closing out of a number of properties in Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities, and then as business manager in the New York office. Probably one of his most important achievements was the organization of the out-of-town agency force of Wood, Harmon & Co., during which more than 12,000 agency applications were handled.

This firm unquestionably was responsible, through the genius of William E. Harmon, for the great interest that was created throughout the country in Brooklyn real estate. The methods of Wood, Harmon & Co. were of a decidedly novel character, and their merit was recognized to an extent which induced other prominent operators to adopt them.

With such able men as Gage E. Tarbell and Major Ernestus Gulick in charge of the affairs of Garden City Estates, one of the greatest successes ever achieved in the suburban real estate field may be looked for.

The Real Estate Exchange of Long Island.

The transfer of the assets and liabilities of the association known as the Long Island Real Estate Exchange to the recently incorporated Real Estate Exchange of Long Island will doubtless result in stimulated interest on the part of the members, more particularly since a membership in the newly incorporated body offers immunity from personal liabilities beyond the limitations prescribed by the stock corporation law. Besides, it places the exchange on a better footing to transact business coming within its province, and entitles it to many inherent advantages not enjoyed by a joint-stock association. The governors of the old association have been elected directors in the new exchange and have chosen Stewart H. McKnight as president. It is the avowed purpose of the directors of the new institution to endeavor to interest all owners of suburban Long Island realty in the exchange work, and to maintain close relations with property owners and taxpayers' associations throughout the island. The exchange has in mind the introduction of a bill in the State Legislature calling for the appointment of a commission with powers to regulate the practice of promoters in opening up new tracts of land in remote sections, thus protecting the uninitiated lot buyer from the sheer robbery methods employed by many of the so-called home site and investment companies.

Highway Tunnels—A New Idea.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Dear Sir: Trusting to its merits to justify me for calling your attention to it, I enclose herewith a print copy of a design for a submarine tunnel 100 ft. in width which provides for four railroad tracks for standard size railroad cars, one roadway for automobiles, one roadway for teams and two sidewalks for pedestrians.

Such a tunnel I can build either under the East River or the Hudson River by the method I used in constructing the Rapid Transit Railroad tunnel under the Harlem River. It can be built for much less money than it has cost to build any one of the bridges already built across the East River.

By having the railroad chambers of this river tunnel connect near the river bank with a double track tunnel loop circling around on easy grades between the river and the vicinity of Broadway, and having several passenger stations located around this loop the congested conditions for handling passengers such as now exist at the terminal railway station at Brooklyn bridge will be avoided.

By having the team, automobile and pedestrian chambers of this river tunnel terminate in a large open shaft (say 100 ft. or more in diameter) located near the bulkhead line or river bank, and at this place have elevators and escalators sufficient in number to handle the traffic, to hoist the teams, automobiles and pedestrians from the river tunnel roadway level to the street level, will avoid having open approaches from the street level to this tunnel, and also avoid the heavy land damages usually resulting therefrom.

The cost of maintenance and renewals of such a tunnel would be trivial in comparison to that of a bridge.

I am endeavoring to call attention to the fact that such tunnels under our rivers are practicable and would like to have the opportunity to prove it by building one or more of them. Yours truly,

DUNCAN D. McBEAN.

A bill introduced by Senator Saxe in the New York State Legislature will, if passed, make it incumbent on the New York and New Jersey Inter-State Bridge Commission, which recently submitted its report to the Legislature, to investigate and submit a supplementary report on a scheme to connect the two states by a highway tunnel built according to the McBean method, under the North River, to take the place of the prospective bridge.

LAW DEPARTMENT

COMMISSION NOT EARNED.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A broker has introduced a purchaser to the owner of a block front of houses, and after dickering on same for some time, they finally agreed as to the price and mortgages. Then the owner had to consult his mother, who is also interested in this property, and it was then discovered that the mother had a life interest, according to the deceased father's will. Now, then, the owner of this property knew of his wrong, and he then offered the purchaser in the broker's presence three houses on East 33d st. The broker then took the purchaser up to the three houses and showed them to him, and then the purchaser decided that he did not care for property in that location. Several months have elapsed and he bought the said houses in 33d st, through the owners, rent collector and his personal plumber. Is the broker entitled to the commission, and from whom can he collect it?

Answer.—No.

WHEN CONDEMNED FOR BRIDGE PURPOSES.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you kindly state what standing I have in a piece of property that I have a lease on for ten years. The property has been wanted for bridge purposes. I have my business there and make my living there. Will the city have to compensate me for my lease and business? What will they allow in case the property is purchased by city?

Answer.—The loss and damage to the owners of leasehold estates is fixed separately from that of the owners by commissioners appointed for that purpose, and upon the confirmation of their report the leases cease and within two months thereafter the awards are paid by the City of New York to the owners of the leasehold estates. (See sections 1438, 1438a, 1440 and 1441 of the city charter.) The commissioners are within certain limits the sole judges as to the sums to be awarded as above, and in that award the value of permanent improvements put upon the property by the tenant, the cheapness of the rent, and the length of the lease, go far to make up this award. It is unusual to allow anything for a business which can be carried on elsewhere.

The well-known Doherty estate in Manhattan and the Bronx, consisting of the real property owned by the late Patrick Doherty, will be sold at auction by Jos. P. Day on March 26, at the Exchange Salesroom, 14-6 Vesey st. Although the property is free from encumbrances, easy terms will be offered to purchasers. The holdings of the estate, many of which are corners, include 609 to 617 8th av, 619 to 627 8th av, 305-307 West 40th st, 612 to 616 8th av, 671 to 677 8th av, 694 and 696 8th av, 779 8th av, 1563 Broadway, 607 and 609 9th av, 714 9th av, 463 10th av, 410 West 42d st, 410 West 50th st, 514 West 37th st, 341 West 56th st, 686, 688 3d av, about 32 lots in Ogden av, Summit av and East 162d st. The assessed value of the property amounts to $1,500,000. The offering of the Doherty holdings at auction at this season of the year indicates a desirable condition of the realty market, and a good attendance is looked forward to.

The total number of sales reported during the week in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx was 154, which about equals the number of transactions announced for the previous week. With the exception of a sale on lower 5th av, and the tendency on the part of builders to purchase old buildings for improvement in the district below 59th st, the trading has not been marked by any distinguishing characteristic.

It is a 4-sty structure occupying a plot of 50x100. A few years hence and 59th st will become one of the greatest crosstown thoroughfares in the City of New York. It is on the edge of the wealthiest residential avenue of this great metropolis, namely, 5th av, with Blackwells' Island Bridge to the east, soon to open up communication with the Borough of Queens and all of Long Island, together with the prospects of a Hudson river bridge on the west side, which would make it more accessible to reach all parts of New Jersey and surrounding States, especially for vehicular traffic. Besides this, all the rapid transit roads have stations at 59th st. Eighth av is an amusement centre, and 5th av, with hotels on all three corners, and the St. Regis near by, will make it a wonderful and grand transit centre. The greatest problem is how can 59th st be widened? Its traffic congestion is already distressing. The sooner this undertaking is begun, the cheaper it will be for the city, as well as beneficial to property owners who are interested in this street, and are now holding back to await developments.

Apply to WM. O. PLATT, 56 Wall St., R. 401.

Oscar L. Foley announced that he will continue the business heretofore conducted under the firm name of John R. & Oscar L. Foley.

It is said that the property recently sold by the Apostleship of Prayer at 27-29 West 16th st brought about $100,000. The parcel is 50x92.

William B. Davis Co., real estate brokers, announce that they have moved their offices from 127 East 86th st to the Yorkville Bank Building, 85th st and 3d av.

One Hundred and Fourth st, west of Columbus av, is giving way to retail business enterprises. Almost half the block on the south side is occupied by ground-floor stores.

At the office of Wm. T. Lavelle, near Freeman st station, Bronx, hopes were expressed for the success of the pending amendment of the present tenement house law.

Mr. Paul Weber, having an office on 3d av, near 169th st, Bronx, says he is now having more calls from clients who seek to purchase property than he has had for some time.

Mr. Uren, of the firm of Kurz & Uren, says that while things are a little quiet, he looks forward to a very active spring market. He will soon have an important sale to announce.

New York real estate auctioneers are making bids for suburban business. One prominent member of the auctioneers' association is even canvassing nearby New Jersey for spring listings.

A. Shatzkin & Sons (Inc.), real estate brokers, of 3d av, corner 174th st, have opened a branch office in the Realty Building, at 149th st and 3d av, and will make a specialty of Williamsbridge lots.

The new Carnegie library which is to be built on McKinley sq, Bronx, will no doubt have a beneficial influence on the surrounding property. Mr. J. Clarence Davies was the appraiser of this site for the county committee.

Mr. A. J. Huke, of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co., returning from a week's trip through New England, reports that except at Meriden, Waterbury and Bridgeport, jobs in being are not particularly numerous at present in most cities.

Land speculation on a large scale has in the opinion of some authorities about run its course on Long Island, and the proposition is now up to the builders; and the best development cannot come until the Pennsylvania tunnel lines are in being.

Mr. J. W. Kellum reports things coming around all right. Great demand for advertising space on roofs and fences along 3d av and in 138th st is manifest, which indicates that the traffic on these thoroughfares are appreciated by those expert in the business.

Wetmore & Magill have added to their mortgage loan and real estate business an insurance department, and will make a specialty of fire insurance. Mr. William T. Cornu, formerly of the Niagara Fire Insurance Company, will have charge of this branch of the business.

Francis E. Ward, ex-president of the Real Estate Board of Brokers of Manhattan, is to deliver the principal address at the 17th annual dinner of the Boston Real Estate Exchange, to be held April 3d next. The subject will be a Review of the Metropolitan Real Estate Market.

All the buildings contained in Blocks 121, 158 and 159 are again advertised to be sold at auction. The new date is Monday, April 1. These blocks are immediately north of the Manhattan entrance to the Brooklyn Bridge and are needed for the terminal. (See Record and Guide, Dec. 29, 1906.)

Mr. A. Trube, of 1141 Freeman st, says the renting outlook in Freeman st is good. As evidence, apartments are rapidly filling up before completion. Furthermore, nearly all the stores on this thoroughfare are already rented. Freeman st, between Intervale and Stebbins avs, is now but 60 ft. in width, but is soon to be widened 40 ft. additional.

Denzer Bros. have opened offices this week at No. 433 Broadway for the rental, sale and management of business property between Canal and 34th sts. The firm consists of Sydney W. Denzer, formerly with Fred'k Fox & Co., and M. Raymond Denzer, late president of the Altman Neckwear Co. Associated with them are Alfred J. Rowantree, Albert B. Root, W. E. Relihan, Vincent Woytisek, Jr., and Irving G. Rothschild.

Jacob Kronenberger, of 1353 Boston road, near 170th st, says that things are beginning to pick up. He called attention to the abutting building to the north of his office which is being transformed into a 5-cent cinematograph auditorium which, he believes, will bring numerous people to the neighborhood, who, of course, will patronize other stores and likewise increase the business of confectionery stores and saloons, and as a consequence enhance the value of the property for business purposes.

The plot sold by Melvin J. Chisum to the Rev. Hutchens C. Bishop at 213 to 219 West 133d st and 210 to 216 West 134th st, will be utilized some eight or ten years hence for building a church edifice thereon for the congregation of St. Phillip's Protestant Episcopal congregation. The present place of worship is at 161 West 25th st. The plot which they purchased through Mr. Chisum will not change hands nor in any wise be altered until the rector and vestry decide to build. Then the buildings, but one, which will be used for the rectory will be razed.

A Square Deal at Bay Ridge.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

No alluring advertisements have attracted the buyers to the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn, still it is the prettiest and probably the most healthy section of this borough, the very heart of her itself, with its industries, both manufacturing and shipping being increased yearly by the advantages offered by man as well as by nature.

The beauty and industry of this glorious section have been touched upon, and enough, for a man owes it to himself before investing, to investigate, and one visit to the section will unfold more merits to the average man's mind than a whole library on the subject could picture.

It is very strange that the daily papers of New York City have not called the public's attention to existing conditions there and to the opportunities offered, scarcely any mention is to be found of even facts which should be given as general news; the building records show that the building done in the Eighth and Thirtieth wards of Brooklyn the past two years equals in volume that done in all the other wards combined, and all this going on unnoticed as far as the general investing public is concerned. Values are steadily advancing, no hurrah, no boom, all on merit. The flatowner gets a good return on his investment, the owner of the two-family house, and there are thousands of them, enjoys the security of his own home, with a small investment and at a small cost, and the rent obtained from the rentable portion of the house goes far towards caring for the fixed charges, taxes, interest, etc.

Various lines traverse this section; one can reach any part of it in from 30 to 45 minutes from the New York Side of the Brooklyn Bridge, and for a five-cent fare. A new trolley line will before long be built and operated from 36th st and 8th av, through 8th av to 72d st and 7th av, thence through 7th av to 79th st, passing McKinley Park. (Have you ever seen it?) Thence through 79th st to Stillwell av, and then on to Coney Island, passing through a section as yet little built up and still affording to all a chance for safe investment. A beautiful modern school, occupying a whole block front stands as a landmark at 79th st, 7th av and Fort Hamilton av. Lots through this section can be had at from $750 up in side streets, whereas within the same radius, about five miles from the New York City Hall, one cannot find their equal for many times this sum.

CHAS. M. ANDERSON,

71 West 125th st, Manhattan.

Large Lofts in 33d St. Not in Demand.

Property owners in the 34th st section are interested in the conversion of the new loft building 43 to 47 W. 33d st into a semi-office structure. The change has been decided upon owing to the past unsuccessful attempts to secure tenants. At the suggestion of Benj. R. Lummis, who now has charge of the property, plans were drawn for the alteration, and the work of sub-dividing is now going on. While conceding the ultimate necessity of large lofts in that locality, Mr. Lummis does not believe that present business demands warrant the construction of buildings like the above. As proof of the correctness of this reasoning, reference is made to the unoccupied lofts in 34th st and elsewhere in the vicinity. Mr. Lummis has already furnished the owner of the building in question with proof of the wisdom of the alteration by leasing a large office space for a term of years. This demonstrates the theory pointed out by him that "33d st is purely an office street, and not a street for lofts."

A Harlem Improvement.

The S. & R. Construction Co. has about completed three 6-sty walk-up apartment houses of the better type, one of which occupies a flatiron site at Macombs lane, 8th av, 150th and 151st sts. The exterior finish is of red and black Pennsylvania Howard brick. The house has three and four rooms to each apartment, with all modern improvements. The rents average $6 per room a month. The store at the point is to rent for $3,500, the one at 8th av and 151st st is listed for $2,000, and inside stores will rent for $50.00 to $60.00 each. The other two houses are in 150th st, between 8th and Bradhurst avs, and are similar in construction.

Activity at 125th St. and 8th Avenue.

The Bishop building, situated at the northeast corner of 125th st and 8th av, will be ready for occupancy by April 15th next. It is a 4-sty fireproof structure, equipped with two passenger elevators and covers a plot of 150x120, the latter dimension being on the avenue. Mr. Arthur W. Mead, who has sole charge of this plant, has already rented 17 out of 49 offices, as well as all the stores, there being nine in all. These bring from $1,800 to $3,000, the stores in 125th st commanding the higher rents.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & C. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Cliam deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existingg ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

The most desirable class of tenants are those who can afford to pay a good rent. They usually wont unless the store has all the modern improvements. If it hasn't Luxfer Prisms it is not up-to-date. Make your property more valuable by increasing the amount of real daylight into it. Let us explain matters to you either by mail or personally.

THERE has been a better feeling in the stock market this week, although on Monday and Tuesday many operators got a scare again. Business has been active, dull and irregular. In the mornings there was strength only to be succeeded by weakness in the afternoons and at the close. Those financiers whose opinions have weight say that the flurry is over for the present and that an understanding has been reached in the struggle and differences between the Federal Government and the corporations. These individuals tell us that stocks are dirt cheap and say that they should be bought. This is well. Let it be borne in mind, however, that this advice is not for the margin trader. The latter at present should give Wall Street a wide berth unless he plays for a gamble. Big people with large means may purchase stocks with comparative safety, as they can buy outright as an investment with no fortune or great advance in the immediate future. As has been well said, Wall Street at the moment is the gambler's paradise, consequently whoever buys stocks on margin should now realize that he is gambling and not investing. For a time at least there will be declines and rallies and it may be months before there will be normal conditions in the street. The course of particular stocks, whether industrials or railroads, is not important in the light of the disastrous ups and downs all along the line in which the downs were in the large majority, but undoubtedly the decision of the Supreme Court of Minnesota in the Great Northern Railway stock issue case exercised a favorable effect on the market. The decision is in favor of the company on all important points. The company proposes to proceed with the issuing of the $60,000,000 additional stock upon the terms as originally announced. A part of the proceeds of the new issue will be used to pay for extensive construction work, some of which is completed. On the announcement of the decision Great Northern rights on the curb sold off over four points because it was said that the company would require the payment of the first four instalments, $24,000,000, on April 9th. Another fact that merits notice is that Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred stock (Clover Leaf) has, as was predicted in this column months ago, declared a half-yearly dividend of 2 per cent. The stock at its present price (about 50) thus returns 8 per cent. a year. It is said a pool has been formed to advance the stock. The money market both for time and call loans has been easy.

THE real estate interests of New York will breathe a sigh of relief at the prospect that the contracts for the new Seventh and Lexington Avenue subways will be let before the existing Rapid Transit Commission is superseded. The city administration is to be commended for acting vigorously and efficiently in this matter. The routes which are about to be opened for public competition are the result of almost three years' careful and thorough work on the part of the Transit Commission and the Board of Estimate. They embody the findings of the best expert opinion in the city as to those subway extensions, which are most likely to be immediately practicable, serviceable and profitable; and there is not the slightest reason to believe that a new commission could in any way improve on these plans. But if the contracts were not let before the existing commission is superseded, the new State Board would undoubtedly consider it necessary to review the whole situation and to make up its own mind independently as to the number and kind of subways which the city needs, and such a review could not consume less than a year and might easily stretch over a longer period. The present administration is right in seeking to avoid such a delay. Additional subways are as immediately necessary now as the first subway was in 1899, and the delay of a year or more would cause immense public inconvenience and loss. It is very much to be hoped consequently that the contracts both for construction and operation will be let under the existing law and New York assured of the completion within four years of two new subways, besides the subway connecting the bridges. One could, indeed, consider this result as certain, were it not for existing disturbances in the financial machinery of Wall Street. The condition of the municipal finances is such that the bidders for the new subways will probably have to raise a large part of the cost of construction on their own credit, and the present is a very bad time for any large scheme of corporate finance. Even a railroad in such an impregnable financial condition as the New Haven is obliged to retrench, and a corporation, whose credit is as bad as that of the Interborough-Metropolitan Co., would, of course, have a hard time in raising many millions of dollars for new construction. It remains to be seen whether this obstacle will prevent the appearance of bidders, and in this way lose for New York the result of the last three years of preliminary work.

THE sale at auction of the properties included in the Doherty estate was attended by surprising and gratifying success. The properties fetched an aggregate of some twenty per cent. more than the figures at which they were appraised—a fact which was all the more astonishing, inasmuch as the most of the parcels were not situated in the most active speculative neighborhoods. On the other hand the parcels on Eighth Avenue in the forties, were on the margin of the best speculative region, and the high prices which they brought was an evidence of excellent judgment on the part of their purchasers. There is probably more money to be made in buying corners which carry themselves on Seventh, Eighth, Fourth and Lexington avenues, than in any other single class of Manhattan property. During the next ten years it is these centrally situated avenues which will obtain the greatest advantage, not only from the growth of the city, but from the readjustments, which will take place as a result of the shifting of population and business. Between Twenty-third and Fifty-ninth Streets business will be obliged to spread farther east and west than it has done south of Twenty-third Street, and the avenues named above will receive the chief benefit from this lateral expansion. There can be no doubt, also, that of late the general investment value of real estate has improved enormously compared to the investment value of railroad stocks and bonds. Ten years ago real estate was in bad repute among investors, because of the uncertainties which attended its ownership. But now the uncertainties attending the ownership of railroad shares are far greater; and real estate will reap the benefit of the attacks which are now being made upon railroad properties. The demand on the part of investors will, in the future, be persistent; and it should mean a ready market for all real estate owners, who are willing to sell their property at a fair price.

AT THE public hearings in Albany during the past week some very telling points were made against Governor Hughes' "Public Utility" bills, so-called. Mayor McClellan was quite right in objecting to the appointment by the Governor of the local commission; and he was quite right also in objecting to the payment by the city of all the expenses of the local commission and a large share of the expenses of the State commission as well. If the local commission is, as the Governor claims, necessarily a State Board, let its expenses be paid by the State. As a matter of fact there is no reason why the functions, which are to be conferred upon the Public Utility Commission of the first district, should not be conferred upon the Rapid Transit Commission. The Rapid Transit Commission is responsible for its work to the Mayor and people of New York City, instead of to a Governor elected by the votes of people living north of the Harlem River. If its functions were enlarged, its membership would have to be changed, because many of the existing commissioners could not afford to give to the work of the Board the necessary time. But an alteration in the membership of the existing Board would be an excellent thing, because the Rapid Transit Commission has of late years in some measure lost the confidence of the public. It has in many respects served the city well, and it is entitled to crown its work by letting the contracts for the new subways; but its members have not accepted the recent amendments to the Rapid Transit Act in a loyal spirit. They have not advanced in their ideas beyond those prevailing ten years ago, and they employ as counsel lawyers who notoriously represent the interest of the corporations. The membership of the commission should consequently be changed, but as a body it should persist and should be granted the additional powers which the Governor proposes to confer on the new State Board. A commission appointed by the Mayor would undoubtedly work much more harmoniously with the Board of Estimate than will a commission appointed by the Governor. In another respect also is the Public Utility Bill defective. There is no good reason why the merger of transit companies should be forbidden. If there is one truth which has been established by the experience of the past twenty-five years, it is that competition among companies holding transit or lighting franchises is neither economically possible nor in the public interest really desirable. Combined ownership and operation affords better service. These services are natural monopolies and should be operated as monopolies under public supervision. The exact and searching public supervision proposed by Governor Hughes' bills is desirable and indispensable, but it makes unnecessary a rigid prohibition of the merging of such corporations. The Board should have the power to prevent the adoption of a policy by the merged systems which would be inimical to the public interest; but any absolute prohibition is founded on a false idea of the effect of such mergers on the public interest.

New Subways and Abutting Property.

The possibility of extensive subway building in New York City in the near future at once brings to the minds of the owners of property fronting the new lines the thought of how much they may be made to suffer during its construction so that this great work may be prosecuted rapidly. While the theory of the greatest good to the greatest number is doubtless a basic principal of municipal economics, nevertheless, owners of property along the proposed subway routes cannot help but recall with considerable misgiving 4th av with its closed shops, 42d st with its impassable streets, Park av with its wrecked houses, and heartily wish that the inconveniences and perhaps pecuniary losses coincident with subway building existed in memory rather than in anticipation.

The Rapid Transit Commissioners have profited by experience, and it is hoped they will no longer permit the contractors to open the streets as much as was permitted under the first subway contract; but while the specifications under which the contractor will work have probably improved, the human nature of the average contractor remains about the same. It is more than likely property owners will have the same old controversies with the contractor in the endeavor to compel him to live up to the letter of his contract.

The contractor has also profited by the experience gained in previous subway work, and realizes that he can be held responsible for damage to the rental value as well as the physical value of property. As a result, he now invariably has his representatives carefully examine all property previous to construction, so that he is at once in a position where the property owner has to produce authentic evidence of the initial condition of his building before construction work began, in order to prove that the damage was the actual result of building the subway.

The average owner of property has neither time nor opportunity to investigate the intent of the specifications and contracts so as to inform himself of the rights he does possess, and the protest of a single property owner does not carry sufficient weight or influence to be of much effect. As a consequence of many technical difficulties which confront property owners, they have recognized the advantage of employing an engineer to relieve them from the responsibility and worry of the situation. The engineer examines the property before construction begins and watches it while the work is in progress, and the good he can do in the interest of property owners is also shown by the modifications of the plans that are possible.

A slight variation of the thickness of the wall will often save a vault, and the relocation of a stairway will often increase the rental value of a building. Owners not being in touch with the plans, are often made to suffer where, if the conditions had been known in advance, the damage probably would not occur.

The utility of an engineer was particularly demonstrated on lower Broadway during the construction of the subway. A number of the most important buildings were cared for by Mr. Joseph Caccavajo, of the firm of Caccavajo & Pruyn, consulting engineers. The good results of Mr. Caccavajo's work on Broadway led to his being retained by the Fulton Street Protective Association, of Brooklyn, where among other things, the change from a two to a four track subway was largely due to his efforts.

Management of Downtown Buildings.

A lecture delivered before the West Side Y. M. C. A. (West 57th st) by Mr. E. A. Tredwell, deserves all the space it would need to reproduce it, since it touched upon a department of business whose importance is being newly emphasized—"The Management of Downtown Buildings." Conditions downtown are peculiar—too many tenants for a limited amount of space. There must needs be erected elsewhere in the city buildings of the downtown type, in Mr. Tredwell's opinion. Most important of all the factors in a modern building is light. Its absence means the absence of dividends, and the lecture, as stenographically reported, strongly urges that prospective owners be advised against the error of putting many thousand dollars into a comparatively small structure without some security of permanent light.

Regarding the general policy of the management of buildings, Mr. Tredwell holds that the principal thing is the production of income:

> Expenses take care of themselves, generally. Certain expenses are fixed. You can take half a day figuring whether you can save 5 cents a gallon on oil while you lose a $1,000 tenant for an office. So, I continue to assert—knowing there are agents who follow a different practice; and, I want you to understand this is an individual opinion—I say, the basis of the management of property is the production of income; the economy of management is a secondary matter. Any man who starts in the business finds himself confronted with two courses—how shall I manage this property? What shall I do to satisfy the owner, the tenant and myself? If he has an empty loft or an empty office he has got to economize to the point of niggardliness, to the point of inefficiency, to the point of decided economic loss, to make up what he loses by the vacancy of one office, if it be of any size. And, if I could say one thing to you as to the management of property; if there is one thing that I have kept entirely before me—it has been to try, always—I have not always succeeded—but it has been my effort always to keep property in my charge full to running over.
> Now I do not preach an undue liberality and expense—to go and buy coal, paying $5.50 a ton, when you can get pea for $3.50 and buckwheat for $2.90 or $3; but, having bought your pea or buckwheat for $2.90 or $3, to spend days of time to get 5 cents off the ton when you might use that same energy to the production of income, that would be of infinitely more benefit to the owner of the property, is worse than foolish. That seems to me a mistaken viewpoint. But, I realize that there are economical agents in this town whose minds tend entirely to the production of an economy, that is—well, it is heartrending and it is economic loss. The ultimate balance sheet showing the net profit is what counts: that is the story.

Regarding the financing of an office building, Mr. Tredwell says it consists mainly in prompt collections, prompt reports and promptness always. Owners' management, as a rule, is too liberal. Management by trustees is the same.

The Dust Problem.

The rebuilding of lower New York has increased both the vehicular and foot traffic to a great extent and the greater height of the buildings gives new conditions to deal with. The increased amount of coal burned causes the delivery into the atmosphere of large quantities of flue dust, which is, in its nature, exceedingly disagreeable. The influx of large quantities of building material and the constant opening of streets also add very much to the dust problem. It is added to because of the ashes which blow from the receptacles when it is being emptied into the cart and because of the dust piles left on the street between the time of their accumulation by the sweeper and the time of their collection by the cartmen. We see the effects on our hats and clothes. Both require more frequent brushing than in former years. This dust nuisance is the most interesting subject treated in the Annual Report of the Street Cleaning Department. The extent to which the building trades are responsible is thus referred to:

New York has not only increased in area, but also in height; that is, where formerly stood a 3 to 4-sty residence or office building, with a half or full basement, there now stand in a great many cases 20 to 24-sty buildings, with from three to four basements. The larger coal consumption for the heating of the larger floor space has augmented greatly the output of ash. The increased number of offices and small manufacturing establishments has increased largely the amount of paper waste, etc. This growth of floor space has not only multiplied the foot passenger traffic, but also the vehicle traffic.

The burning of an increased quantity of coal throws into the atmosphere much more foul gases than formerly, carrying with them a considerable amount of fine ash. This fine ash, though not visible, is perceptible everywhere. The increased traffic grinds and pulverizes the sidewalk and street pavments. From these two causes alone we have a greatly augmented dust nuisance.

The New Hoe Avenue Section.

The block between 167th and Home sts has partly determined on the character of dwellings for Hoe av, which is manifested by a number of frame and brick structures already erected thereon. Four years ago all this region was an almost unbroken estate. The changes that have come since the day when lots were sold at auction are thus described:

At the southeast corner of 167th st and Hoe av is the crypt of a projected cathedral, the exterior finish consisting of granite.

The northeast corner of the same avenue and street is ornamented with a fine 3-sty and basement light brick private dwelling, the basement story being of granite stone. The house is surrounded with a large plot, enclosed with a high iron fence in keeping with the other unique improvements erected thereon.

On Hoe av, midway betwen 167th and Home sts, on the west side, stands a double flat, five stories in height, with the apartments situated front and rear. The rents are from twenty to twenty-five dollars for five rooms and bath, with all improvements and tiled bathroom floors. There are also four stores, two large and two small, which rent at fifteen and twenty-five dollars each. The existing vacancies were caused by some alterations which were deemed advisable to make in order to further improve the property.

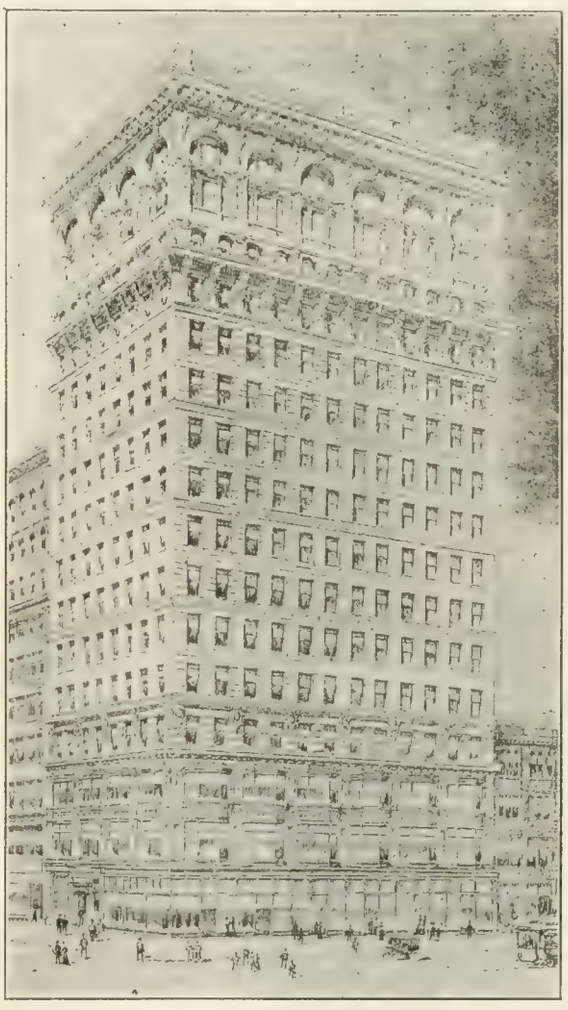
Directly opposite is another 5-sty apartment abode just completed, which is said to be waiting a permit from the building department to open. There is also a row of five 3-sty frame, 3-family houses on the west side of the avenue, near 167th st, having all improvements, and for the most part individually owned by its occupants.

Near the corner of Home st, west side, is a neatly built private structure with an ornamental glass canopy extending over the front door approach which lends to the completeness of the edifice. There are also a number of frame dwelling houses abutting this. Excavations are under way in Freeman st, near the station.

Interspersed here and there other improvements are also to be observed in course of operation. On the west side of Vyse av are twenty-one 3-sty brick dwellings.

Pressing for the Torrens System.

Under the auspices of the Real Estate Board of Brokers a meeting will be held next Monday at 156 Broadway to lend support to legislation designed to introduce in this State the Torrens system of registering land titles. This meeting will select a committee to attend a hearing on the Prentice bill at Albany, Wednesday, April 3, 1907.



It is said that under the Torrens system the recording of an ordinary sale or mortgage of registered lands can be closed in "an hour or two" without the need of any abstract of title, and the cost will be but $3, thereby saving the larger part of the expense now inevitable in making any such mortgage or sale under the existing system. Further, a registered title, because of the rapidity and cheapness with which it can be handled, is practically as merchantable as shares of stock or Government and other registered bonds, and registered titles are sometimes accepted in sale and mortgage transactions by real estate and mortgage firms.

The law provides for a simple proceeding to be brought in a court of competent jurisdiction. The only pleading required is the application signed and sworn to by the owner. The Register's office will furnish printed blanks for the purpose. The application is referred by the court to one of the examiners of titles. If the applicant's title is found good a certificate of title is issued, which completes the registration. After two years, no person, whatever may be his claim, may question the validity of the title.

First Skyscraper for Fourteenth Street.

(With Illustration.)

Work will begin about May 1st for the new mercantile structure (stores, salesrooms and offices) which the Van Schaick Realty Co., owner, will erect at the southwest corner of 5th av and 14th st, to be ready for occupancy by January, 1908. The building will have sixteen stories with basement and sub-basement, and will front 73.4 feet on 5th av, and 107 feet on 14th st. The three lower stories will contain stores and have elaborate show windows. The upper exterior will be of light brick and terra cotta, with copper trimmings. There will be six electric elevators, high-pressure heating, and an electric power plant.

FIRST SKYSCRAPER FOR 14TH STREET.
Van Schaick Realty Co., Owner. Buchman & Fox, Architects.

The Lexington Avenue Company (S. E. Jacobs and M. Morgenthau) is the lessee. Messrs. Buchman & Fox, No. 11 East 59th st, the architects, are now receiving bids on the general contract. The estimated cost of site and building is in the neighborhood of $1,800,000.

One of the features of the building will be the studios on the roof, behind the cornice. These will cover about half the available roof space. All of the woodwork in the building will be fireproofed, and, wherever practical, metal will be used. It is said that the store and basement will rent for $70,000; 2d floor, $15,000; 3d floor, $12,000; 4th floor, $10,000; 5th to 9th floors, each $8,000; 10th to 15th floors, each $9,000; and the 16th floor, $10,000. An entrance will be provided in 14th st for the retail portion of the building.

The structure will be the first of its class in 14th st, but has predecessors near by on 5th av.

The Ideal Hotel.

Hotel building is a brand of the architect's profession to which more and more attention is being devoted each year. This is a logical outcome of the growth of our cities, and the peculiar problems which confront us in large centers. Architect Frank M. Andrews, of Dayton, Ohio, who has an office at the Waldorf-Astoria, devotes most of his time to the building of hotels, with the whole country for his field.

"I have not yet despaired of designing the ideal hotel, in which every room shall be an outside room—it's almost as difficult a task as squaring the circle," says Mr. Andrews. "A hotel must be a handsome building, with an interior that in luxury and appointments would put some of the palaces of the Old World to shame; it must be hot in winter and cool in summer, and there must be plenty of room. The man who grapples most successfully with these elemental problems is the man who gets the most hotels to build."

Points on the Material Market.

Prices on bolts, nuts, rivets, washers, etc., were reaffirmed at a meeting of manufacturers last week.

An advance in T and strap hinges is announced. It is represented thus far only by a change in base discounts to jobbers.

Lath are much easier for builders than a year or more ago. Cement is no higher than a year ago, and compared with five years ago, prices are low.

Spirits of turpentine quotations have advanced to a point where purchasers are taking only small lots. The linseed oil trade is not very snappy in March.

Hudson River bricks were quoted on Thursday of this week at $5.75 to $6.25 per M. for hards, which is lower than last week's market. This is the manufacturer's price by the cargo, afloat to dealers at the wharf. The river is open to Rondout, but no cargoes have yet arrived from north of Haverstraw Bay. Bricks are about $5 per M. cheaper than a year ago at this time.

If Wall Street is discounting any depression in general trade, we can only say there is nothing of that kind apparent in construction lines. Mr. William P. Corbett, of the Alsen American Portland Cement Works, 45 Broadway, says conditions are excellent in the cement line as far as he can judge from his own business and from what others report. "We see only good times ahead and hope for a reasonably steady market for the present and near future," he added. "The situation abroad is especially good, and the most prominent works, such as Alsen's, Dyckeroff, etc., are practically sold up for the year, and at prices averaging something like thirty cents a barrel over last year."

A Hundred Mansions in One House.

One hundred commodious homes under one roof—this will be the unique feature of William Waldrof Astor's "Apthorp" apartments, on upper Broadway. John Downey, the general contractor, has the steel frame completed, and the stone walls have risen to within a story of the capstone course. It will be a model of unburnable construction. Writes one of the contracting firms:

Covering an entire block with a ground area of 49,000 square feet—more than an acre—and with a height of 13 stories, the Apthorp apartments will be larger than the St. Regis Hotel or the 26-sty Hotel Belmont, each of which has a ground area of 20,000 square feet. Its total floor area will be 11½ acres, equaling the 32-sty City Investing Building, which is expected to be the largest skyscraper office building in the world. This space would provide standing room for 300,000 persons.

The steel work will be surrounded by terra-cotta hollow tile blocks, and the floors, partitions and ceilings will be of porous terra-cotta. So thoroughly has the scheme of fireproofing been prepared that nearly 1,500,000 square feet of tile will be used in various parts of the building. The terra-cotta partitions alone, if placed in line, would reach nine miles.

Thousands of tons of steel, valued at half a million dollars, have gone into the structural framework. The steel columns and beams for the floors, if placed end to end, would reach 25 miles.

New Trolley Stimulates Building Activity.

The recent granting of a certificate of necessity and convenience by the State Railroad Commissioners to the West Shore Traction Co. to build a high-speed electric road along the West Shore from Tomkins Cove southward to the mouth of the McAdoo tunnel, a distance of forty miles, will do much toward enhancing values of real property on the Palisades by furnishing speedy communication with Manhattan. Practically all the municipalities north of the Paterson Plank Road will be benefited by the operation of this new line of transit, including such places as Woodcliff, Hudson Heights, Grantwood and Palisade, in the State of New Jersey, and Tappan, Piermont, Nyack and Haverstraw in the State of New York. It is said that several of the large land companies operating in the zone affected by the proposed undertaking are already making preparations to erect a number of dwellings in anticipation of a pronounced demand for homes upon the completion of the line. The traction company has a capital of $250,000, and is being promoted by Searing & Co., bankers, of 7 Wall st, Manhattan.

The Growing Skyscraper.

Perhaps the most prominent feature in the construction of office buildings is the tendency on the part of owners to increase the height of structures of this character and to make provision for more space than heretofore. This not only adds materially to the cost of construction, but calls for the expenditure of larger sums of money in the purchase of building sites than was formerly required, thus making recent operations, on the whole, exceedingly expensive undertakings.

While many had misgivings, from a rental standpoint, as to the wisdom of erecting mammoth buildings of this type, particularly since several were to be in sections not generally regarded ripe for office structure purposes, all doubt has been dispelled by the rapidity with which applications for space have been coming in, and this notwithstanding that rentals are nearly as high as obtainable in the busy Broadway office building section. It is interesting to note that the majority of applications come from old firms at present quartered in the less modern and smaller office structures. Many of the new tenants have leased whole floors and are enabled by so doing to concentrate heretofore scattered departments in a manner both satisfactory and economical.

Jerry Building.

No doubt a vast amount of skimped or "Jerry" carpentry is being done in the building of cottages. The "balloon" style of frame—condemned at the outset by the best builders on account of its lightness and deficiency in bracing—has been growing steadily lighter and more unsuitable. "Carpentry and Building" quotes with silent approval a criticism of present-day carpentry which alleges that practically the whole framework of many houses is now composed of light 2x4 sticks; and studding, joists, and rafters are placed farther and farther apart, "to save timber."

"Struts, ties and braces are often omitted where formerly deemed indispensable. Inch boards are replaced by ¾-in. ones. A carpenter not long ago said of a wooden house, built 20 years ago, that it contained fully 50 per cent. more material than would be put into most houses of like size built to-day. So, when a wooden house is claimed, in the face of the present enormous prices for lumber and moderate prices for brick, to be 'cheaper,' the man who is to foot the bills will be wise if he looks into the specifications and learns 'what sort' of a wooden house he will get. Beyond question, when many of the light structures now going up shall be 20 years old, they will be far more dilapidated than the more solidly built ones which will then have stood 40 years. It is utterly impossible to combine skimped construction with durability."

This criticism is followed by some remarks on the soundness and dignity of brick and stucco as structural materials. But there are other points involved as well. One thing to be overcome is force of habit. Frame construction is yet the most natural expression of suburban architecture. Here in the city people do not build the houses they live in, but buy them ready made and with slight opportunity for choice or for the exercise of individual taste. Taking what they can get, they know nothing of the durability of the structure, though they pay enough for the best workmanship.

When closed both sashes lock, one below the other, in the same vertical plane, so that a locking device for the meeting-rails is dispensed with, and the entrance of rain, snow, frost and dust between the meeting-rails is effectually prevented. Each sash can be readily lowered, tilted inwardly into the room and conveniently cleaned.

Cabinet Built Fixtures—A New Industry.

The continued national prosperity that has affected practically every branch of trade and manufacture throughout the country has also had its affect upon the cabinet making industries. In fact, only now is the full harvest in sight for those engaged in the interior woodworking branch. The reason for this is that fine cabinet work, both for domestic and business purposes, has been more or less of a luxury, and mercantile industries in general having reaped the benefits of the prevailing prosperity are now commencing to evidence this by spending considerable sums for high class cabinet work in equipping offices and show rooms.

This is to some extent a new industry, having received its principal impetus from the cause above given; although the advent of the great elaborately fitted up department store has had a considerable influence in increasing the demand for this character of cabinet work.

The rich, hardwood fixtures installed by the large stores were soon imitated by their smaller competitors, and the attempts of these retailers to outdo each other in elaboration of interior furnishings has created such a demand for original and artistic ideas that several large concerns have gone into this construction work almost exclusively, with the result that they have become specialists in an entirely separate branch of the cabinet-making trade.

The requirements for successfully engaging in this branch are considerably greater than those of the ordinary cabinet maker. In addition to being competent and practical woodworkers, a wide knowledge of the decorative arts is needed, and also a familiarity with the practical needs of each separate line of business, such as the weight and bulk of the merchandise to be displayed in relation to the space to be allotted for showroom purposes. Thus, the fittings for a ladies' wear showroom must differ essentially from those of a men's furnishing establishment, and while an architect could completely design a decorative scheme for such interiors, his knowledge of the details of utility would, as a rule, be lacking.

The business fixture builder being a specialist, has mastered nearly all of these details, and for that reason has the advantage of the average architect in designing woodwork for mercantile use. Quite a number of architects, noting the growing requirements of the business world, have given considerable attention to this new field, not desiring to leave it entirely to the firms who design and also build the work. To give an idea of the scope of business done in this line, it may be mentioned that one firm, Wm. Kleeman & Co., have been doing so large an amount of business since engaging in this branch exclusively that they have in five years increased threefold the output of their factory.

Novelties in woodwork finishes are constantly being called for by progressive mercantile houses, until almost as many different shades of color are made in woodwork as are used in textiles. This, of course, entails an exact knowledge of color mixing and wood polishing which was an entire separate trade until absorbed as a part of the interior fixture business.

Thus the necessity of having half a dozen contractors on the competitively small job of fitting up a business interior has been obviated by the store fixture builder, and considerable time and expense is thus saved to those requiring work of this character.

To Protect Art Treasures from Fire.

Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan has announced his intention to demolish the old Dodge mansion, for which he recently paid $500,000, in order to make his art museum absolutely safe from fire.

The museum, which stands on the same block, bounded by 36th and 37th sts, Park and Madison avs, is a magnificent building, erected at a cost of $2,000,000. The museum itself is a thoroughly fireproof structure, built throughout of terra cotta hollow tile bricks, and is considered practically immune from flames. It is a storehouse of priceless art treasures, which constitute one of the most valuable private collections of paintings, tapestries, ivories, etc., in the world.

Mr. Morgan evidently realizes the danger to these treasures that might arise from a burnable structure adjoining the museum. His idea is to secure an open space all around it, by removing the Dodge mansion, which covers the middle of the block on the Madison av side and stands between the museum and the avenue. The area thus secured will be turned into a landscape garden, to beautify the side approach to the museum; this half-million dollar "Garden" will have a frontage of 67 ft., with a depth of 167 ft.

Almost the whole block in which the museum stands is owned by Mr. Morgan, who recently bought the Phelps mansion on the 37th st corner of Madison av for $600,000, and presented it to J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr. Mr. Morgan himself and his daughter, Mrs. Satterlee, occupy the mansions on the 37th st corner. Just beyond this is the entrance to the museum, protected from fire by a wide, open space.

Architects' Directory and Specification Index."

William T. Comstock, publisher, 23 Warren st, New York, has issued his "Red Book" for 1907. This is the eighth edition. (One 8vo vol.; red cloth. Price, $3.) The whole work comes out in handsome shape, and will be appreciated in the building, structural material and allied trades as a reference to the names and addresses of architects, landscape and naval architects, professional societies, architectural schools, periodicals, building departments and all the varied interests connected with architecture. We note:

The general list of architects shows an increase, and the change of addresses and of firms has been very considerable during the last year. The activity in building has evidently resulted in many rearrangements among the members of the profession.

The Specification Index for this year has evidently received special attention, being more complete, and will be found a valuable reference for architects in writing specifications, as well as for the use of builders and contractors in getting estimates on materials.

Instruction Book for Reinforced Concrete.

The acknowledged merits and vogue of reinforced concrete for fireproof structures has prompted the Trussed Concrete Steel Co., of Detroit, Mich., to issue a handbook of instructions for the general use of superintendents and inspectors to guide them in regard to material and workmanship. The book should be useful where the Kahn system of reinforced concrete is intended.

"Specifications for Wood Finishing."

This is the title of a neatly printed and bound little volume, made up in the form of a pocket book, recently issued by Emil Calman & Co., 100 William st, New York. Instructions which are thoroughly practical and explicit are given in clear language. Every class or grade of finish is included, interior or exterior, without prejudice. This is a manual which ought to be treasured by the "up-to-date" architect. It may be obtained gratis by sending a post card for it to the publisher.

Liming of Soils.

Lime is used not only in building construction, but in large quantities for increasing the productiveness of the soil. As a considerable part of the product of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Company goes to farmers, the company has issued a practical treatise in pamphlet form on the subject of "Liming of Soils and Spraying," which has been carefully prepared for the use of farmers, gardeners and crop specialists. [Thirty-two pages, illustrated; Rockland-Rockport Co., Flatiron Bldg., New York.]

Good enamel like the sterling character will pass through hard weather and the manifold trials and tribulations of time and hard usage unscathed. Such are the enamels manufactured by Emil Calman & Co. They have been gradually improved during many years and have now reached perfection—or as nearly so as enamels can reach it. Leading architects specify Emil Calman's paints, varnishes or enamels because they do not fade or deteriorate in any way.

The substitute for San Domingo mahogany, which is now a thing of the past, appears to be East India mahogany. Ichabod T. Williams & Sons have an almost unlimited supply of this wood in about seven different shades and figures. Specimens will be sent on request to their New York offices, 25th st and 11th av.

Sandusky Portland Cement Co., Sandusky, O., is furnishing "Medusa Waterproof Compound" to Cranford & McNamee, of Brooklyn, who are using it to waterproof concrete mortar in the Rapid Transit tunnel job between Manhattan and Brooklyn. We learn that this compound has also been specified in the new Olympic Club building at San Francisco, and that it is being used in the extensive concrete work being done by the Standard Steel Car Co., of Hammond, Ind., where machinery foundations, elevator and belt pits are being waterproofed.

A plea for a more general consideration of somewhat neglected feature of our houses and buildings is contained in "Rumford Fireplaces, and How they are Made," by G. Curtis Gillespie. With nearly two hundred illustrations, including the original Rumford drawings, diagrams for fireplace construction and designs of ancient and modern mantels. Count Rumford is perhaps better known by his essay on "Proper Fireplace Construction" than by any other of his works. While the system of house-heating has changed, the fireplace with its delights and comforts as a home centre has not progressed, and the Rumford methods of construction still remain the best. Price, postpaid, $2. William T. Comstock, publisher, 23 Warren st, New York.

CORRESPONDENCE

The McBean Method of Tunnel Building.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Mr. McBean's suggestion in regard to Highway Tunnels, as given in his letter last week, raises the question, what was the plan followed in the Harlem River tunnel construction. Can you explain it in a few words? COMMUTER.

Highwood, N. J.

When Mr. McBean started the contract for building the subway tunnel under the Harlem River, he put into practice an idea in tunnel building entirely new to the engineers of this and other countries. A notable acknowledgment was that of the Queens College of Canada conferring the degree of LL.D. on Mr. McBean for what they termed "one of the most notable achievements in subaqueous engineering." The Harlem River tunnel is a double track tunnel, and instead of being two single tubes, is of a type now known as the twin-tube. A twin-tube tunnel is a drawing of two intersecting circles of equal diameter, whose centers are less apart in distance than twice their radius. The McBean method is to dredge out, as in ordinary dredging, a channel or trench, within ten or twelve feet of the total depth required for the structure. Into this channel are driven rows of piles, afterward cut off on a level with the center of the tunnel and capped, virtually making a submarine trestle work. On each side of the trench, longitudinally with the tunnel, are driven heavy timber sheet-piling, also to be cut off under water, true to grade and leveled with the center of the tunnel when completed. The sheeting is held in place by braces and wallings, just as in similar work done in the open air. Coincident with this preparation of the river bed, a section 100 feet long, comprising the top half of the twin-tube tunnel, is built complete in a floating wooden box. The ends of this section are temporarily closed with steel plates, a sufficient volume of air being thus enclosed to give just enough buoyancy to float the section of the tunnel. The box is then filled with water, one end of it removed, the balance of the box pulled out from under, then the section of the tunnel is floated over its site and lowered to its true and final position, resting on the sheeting and trestle above described. A chamber is thus formed, the top half of the twin-tube tunnel making the roof and the sheeting the sides. The river bed is then filled in outside the chamber to a level with the top of the tunnel. Compressed air is now turned into the chamber, the excavation is then completed to the full depth required, and the masonry forming the bottom half of the tunnel is built therein, the piling spoken of, is cut off level with the sub-grade, furnishing an unyielding foundation for the masonry.

A highway bridge across the Hudson would be exceedingly costly, but a highway tunnel on the McBean plan might be financially practical, as well as mechanically so.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Dear Sir: This association is in receipt of information to the effect that two men, pretending to represent this organization, are going about soliciting advertisements to be placed in a journal to be used by this association on the occasion of the entertainment and reception on April 16, 1907, at Terrace Garden.

We would be grateful if you would give this matter such publicity in your columns as will protect the friends of this association and the public generally against these fraudulent canvassers.

A Novel Architectural Competition.

The Association of American Portland Cement Manufacturers invites designs for several classes of suburban dwellings, and offers prizes for the successful designs in accordance with the following program:

All designs will be judged by a committee consisting of Edgar V. Seeler, architect, Philadelphia, Pa.; Louis H. Gibson, architect, Indianapolis, Ind., and Sanford E. Thompson, civil engineer, Newton Highlands, Mass., whose awards will be final and binding upon competitors and upon the association. Designs are to be for two classes:

Class A—Single or detached dwellings, three sizes, to cost two, three and four thousand five hundred, respectively.

Class B—Twin or semi-detached dwellings.

In both classes the use of cement and concrete is desired, wherever practicable. Walls are to be constructed of hollow concrete blocks of plain, paneled or bush-hammered face, but not of rock-face; or they may be of monolithic construction. If hollow blocks are used, interior plastering will be applied directly to the blocks; if monolithic construction, wall furring will be required. Wooden floor joists and roof timbers may be used; roof coverings may be of cement, tiles, slate or shingles. Concrete block partitions, at least for the lower story, are preferred. Chimneys are to be of concrete blocks or brick; the use of cement for posts, cornices, porch railings and other details of simple design is suggested.

A prime requisite of domestic architecture, whether palace or modest dwellings, is that it should possess beauty, charm and appropriateness. The exterior finish of concrete walls has rarely been handled in a way to produce artistic results. The fault does not lie with the materials, as it lends itself to a great variety of textures and colors.

The Clay Tile as a Building Material.

The use of the baked clay tile as a building material is becoming each day more and more general in this country, and before long the tile will be almost as universal in its application in America as it is in Europe. The advantages of the clay tile are threefold in character. They are extremely hard and durable and last virtually forever. In fact baked clay is far harder than marble, slate or any of the natural stones. It is likewise fireproof. Its excellent sanitary qualities are due to the fact that it is non-absorbent, germ-proof and easily cleaned. As the clay tile can be baked in almost any color, form or design, the artistic possibilities of tiling are almost limitless. Its decorative qualities and extreme durability make the clay tile relatively one of the cheapest of the building materials.

The tile was formerly regarded as a luxury to be enjoyed only by the wealthy, but now it is generally looked upon as a hygienic necessity in many parts of modern buildings. The same sanitary conditions which made the tiled floor and walls of the bathroom an absolute essential, are bringing about the introduction of tiling into the kitchen, laundry and butler's pantry. Tiled walls are already regarded as a necessity in the modern hospital, and a tiled floor is looked upon as the nearest approach to the ideal hospital floor. In order to attract the public by their sanitary arrangements, drug stores, butcher shops, dairies and lunch rooms are now being built tiled throughout. Tiled or ceramic mosaic floors are met with to-day in hotels, railroad stations, theatres, banks and public buildings of all kinds.

The tiled or faience fireplace and mantelpiece is now a regular institution in our American architecture. As a fire-resisting material which suggests warmth, tile work is the most appropriate around a fireplace; and the decorative feature of tiling and faience are making these materials take up an ever greater proportion of the wooden mantel. While formerly the wooden mantel might be said to have contained a few tiles as facing, to-day the tiled mantel may be said to contain a little wood as a shelf, as columns or as finishings.

Like most of our American infant industries, the tile industry is growing rapidly: but it is the utility of the product which commends it in the increasingly permanent character of our structures, as against the more temporary nature of older structures.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

The number of transactions reported in the private sales market were 165, of which 133 were in Manhattan, 57 being in the section south of 59th st, and 76 north of that thoroughfare, the remainder, 32, representing the number of sales in the Bronx. This exhibits a slight increase over the volume of trading for the preceding week. With the exception of a tendency on the part of investors toward the acquisition of private dwellings south of the Circle, the purchase of a plot on lower 5th av, and the sale of a small parcel in Dey st, the market was otherwise devoid of any distinctive movement.

Herbert R. Snyder, real estate broker, and connected with one of the title companies for some years, has opened an office at 51 Liberty st. Mr. Snyder will make appraisals of Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn property exclusively.

A title company, with headquarters at Hackensack, recently found it necessary to increase its title searching force in order to cope with the increasing business. The company was nearly two months behind on its orders for searches.

Many brokers in Manhattan and the Bronx report things quiet in realty circles, although strong hopes are entertained and confidence manifested in an active spring market. Some of the larger companies believe that good business will prevail well into the summer months.

Saengerbund Hall, Smith and Schermerhorn sts, Brooklyn, will on Monday night, April 1, be the scene of festivities, as the Madison Club of the Eighteenth Assembly District of Kings County will give a concert and ball under the auspices of Hon. John H. McCooey, Deputy Comptroller of the City of New York.

When "Big Bill" Devery was asked by the Sun what was the principal requisite for a real estate man in New York, he said "Pipe dreams!" In elucidating this, another real estate authority—presuming that Big Bill is one—remarked: "If any of us belong to the class of dreamers whose dreams don't come true at certain times, we don't win out. You have got to see a mental picture and make it reality."

The Board of Estimate has requested the Corporation Counsel to make application to a Special Term of the Supreme Court for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and of one Commissioner of Assessment, and to take the necessary proceedings to acquire title to the lands, tenements and hereditaments that shall or may be required for the purpose of opening and extending West One Hundred and Sixty-third street, between Amsterdam and St. Nicholas avenues.

Since organization the N. Y. Mortgage and Security Co. has sustained no losses and owns no property acquired by foreclosure. Edgar J. Levey is president, Charles T. Barney, John D. Crimmins and Clinton R. James are vice-presidents, Cyril H. Burdette is secretary and William M. Harte is treasurer. On March 1 the company had a surplus and undivided profits of $509,528. The net profit last year was $146,986. Capital stock, $1,000,000. Messrs. W. H. Chesebrough, Ashbel H. Barney, William E. Harmon, Oakleigh Thorne, Warner Van Norden and William F. Havemeyer are directors.

Jacob and Philip Kronenberger, of 1353 Boston road, Bronx, have assumed charge of the two new-law 5-sty apartment houses at 1146 to 1152 Intervale av, between 169th and Kelly sts. The flats are divided into apartments of three and four rooms and bath, with the latter and halls steam heated. One house is laid out for six and the other for seven families on a floor, which rent from $13 to $18 each per month, six of which are already rented, although not ready for occupancy. There are six ground and four basement stores, also steam heated. The Arch Realty & Construction Co., of 258 Broadway, is the builder.

The Surprise of the Week.

The result of the sale of the holdings of the Doherty estate emphasizes the fact that there is no dearth of investors to support the market, and eloquently refutes the statements recently made by several operators that a limit in metropolitan valuations had for a time been reached. Many of the properties knocked down by Auctioneer Joseph P. Day brought surprisingly high figures, and it is interesting to note that less than a half a dozen of the 37 Manhattan parcels were secured by operators.

Perhaps the most remarkable incident of the auction was the purchase by the Shanleys of the gore lot at 1563 Broadway. Bidding on this parcel started at $30,000, and after a spirited contest it was finally knocked down at nearly a record price, $96,200, or about $117 per sq. ft.

The total sum realized at the sale was $1,913,600, of which amount $1,806,400 was for the estate's holdings in Manhattan, the remainder representing the sum secured for the Bronx parcels. The figure exceeded by $325,000 the valuation placed on the whole offering by a number of experienced appraisers.

In commenting on the sale the Times observes that when "Mr. Doherty bought these properties sixty years ago it was not with the idea of creating a fortune for his descendants. It is related on trustworthy authority that his purchases were made chiefly to provide cheap and convenient dumping places for material excavated further downtown."

The Herald notes that such "an assemblage veteran real estate men say they had never seen before. The result was that the speculator and operator were put to flight, leaving the investor in command of the situation, and they piled up new records for 8th av properties in a magnificent way."

Record Breaking Lease in 34th Street.

Frank M. Widner, Jr., of Alvan W. Perry's office, has leased for Minturn Post Collins, president of the Bankers Investing Co., the easterly portion of the store in the Century Building at No. 1 West 34th st. to the Mirror Candy Co., Mengo L. Morgenthau, proprietor, for a period of 21 years, from May 1, 1907, at $18,000 per annum straight. Plans are being drawn for remodeling the front of the building and dividing the present store into two stores, with separate entrances. The space leased in the store is about 1,600 sq. ft. and the rent is over $11 per sq. ft., which is a record price for an inside store in the 5th av district.

Rapid Growth of Hasbrouck Heights.

Reports from Northern New Jersey indicate that Hasbrouck Heights is highly popular with New York business men, and is having both a choice and a rapid growth. A photographic view in this week's New Jersey Commerce and Finance discloses wide shaded thoroughfares, with grass sward on either side of the concrete sidewalks, and lines of shade trees between the walk and the gutter. Trimmed hedges mark the property lines, and the cottages are like those in Flatbush. Special information:

The town can be reached from West 23d or Chambers sts, also West 129th st (Fort Lee) Hudson River line trolley. Commutation rate, eighteen cents a day. The new high school recently finished at a cost of $60,000 is a credit to the town. New York department stores deliver to the resident's door free of charge. Special shoppers tickets are issued on trains at certain hours for thirty-five cents round trip, the regular fare being fifty cents.

Downtown Store Rents.

There is absolutely no basis for store values in the downtown district to-day. Certain classes of business, like merchant tailoring for instance, are being driven off the street, as they can't afford to pay the rent. The "between streets," like Warren and Murray—between Broadway and Church—are to be hereafter probably retail business streets, where store tenants will pay from $2,800 to $4,000 a year.

"There is no chance for them to get anywhere else," said an estate manager. "A store paying $4,500 in my neighborhood was vacated through a failure, and the landlord rented it for $6,500. A store a block away that every real estate man in the neighborhood said wasn't worth over $8,000 was rented for $15,000.

Future of Westchester Av. and Southern Boulevard Junction.

E. B. Boynton, representing the American Real Estate Company at their Bronx office, situated at the corner of Westchester avenue and Southern Boulevard, reports that all the stores in the new buildings at the northeast corner of the avenue and Simpson street have been rented, although the structures are not yet completed nor ready for occupancy. Inside stores rent for about $2.00 per square foot, while the corner store, which has 1,021 square feet, averages $2.50 per same measure. This corporation is planning to build five more 50-ft. apartment houses on Southern boulevard abutting those on Westchester avenue; to be equipped with passenger elevators, as well as stores.

PRICE REASONABLE

Seventeen out of twenty of the new 3-sty 2-family brick houses on Faile street have been sold, there being a uniform price of $13,500 each on them. Mr. Boynton remarked that the remaining three dwellings could have been sold if the owner would have consented to shade the prices.

Great hopes are entertained for the future of this section, as it is suggested that the proposed rapid transit service will intersect the present Interborough road at Westchester avenue and Southern boulevard, and that if this new line is leased to the present subway company, an agreement will be required whereby passengers will be enabled to transfer to and from these roads by an elevated passage without extra charge.

New Jersey Real Estate.

Because of the imminence of new means of communication, New Jersey real estate is becoming a much more important matter of consideration with New Yorkers. Our homeseekers truly are facing around that way. Thus far this year, generally speaking, most sales have been of acreage property to large syndicates, and mostly for speculative resale, but a few for development. Neither business nor residential property has quickened yet in Newark, but in Englewood, Ridgefield Park and other places northward a decided building movement began last year. For many authorities the Oranges are the most attractive localities in the Jerseys, and in the course of an extended review number we note that the New Jersey Finance and Commerce remarks:

The consensus of opinion still points toward the Oranges as the ideal community for the suburban dweller whose business compels him to travel back and forth to New York daily. The eastern slope of the Orange Mountains seems to be the focus of all eyes. Real estate men that handle that property are already doing considerable business. To them the prospects seem very bright. When this section becomes thoroughly developed by the laying out of wide streets, well graded and paved, and the transit facilities are further perfected, there is no doubt but property values will be greatly in excess of what they are to-day.

Personal.

A dinner in honor of Hon. John T. Meehan, of Park row, celebrated as a caterer and as a politician—also known in real estate circles—given at the Hotel Knickerbocker, was attended by President McGowan, of the Board of Aldermen, representing the Mayor; Comptroller Metz, Justices Hendrick and Dowling, of the Supreme Court; little Judge John Henry McCarthy, Police Capt. Brennan, Assistant Secretary of State Michael A. Fitzgerald, John F. Ahearn, Superintendent of Buildings Edward S. Murphy, Charles J. O'Brien, the Record and Guide printer; Commissioner John F. Cowan, Justice Olmsted, City Chamberlain Keenan, Park Commissioner Moses Herrman, Fire Commissioner Lantry, and many others, a notable company, and a high compliment to Mr. Meehan. The city postmen presented him with a silver service.

Legislative Digest.

Senator Cordts, of Ulster, has introduced a bill providing that the State shall reopen the Delaware and Hudson Canal and obtain a direct route to the anthracite coal fields. That route it is contended will help to break up the combination of the coal-carrying railroads and make coal cheaper in the State.

There seems to be practically no opposition to the proposed amendments to the mortgage tax law introduced by Senator Page and Mr. Wainwright. We are informed in special correspondence that:

The Allied Real Estate Interests of New York State are behind the measures and have been active in their support, so much so that it is probable that the amendments will be enacted substantially as proposed. The provision permitting old mortgages—that is those recorded prior to July 5, 1906—to come within the provisions of the recording tax law and secure exemption is almost universally demanded and unopposed. Old mortgages therefore will be allowed the right of exemption and will be placed in the same class with mortgages recorded under the recording tax law.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & C. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Cliam deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existingg ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.

The most desirable class of tenants are those who can afford to pay a good rent. They usually wont unless the store has all the modern improvements. If it hasn't Luxfer Prisms it is not up-to-date. Make your property more valuable by increasing the amount of real daylight into it. Let us explain matters to you either by mail or personally.

WALL STREET is feeling more hopeful this week. The perennial money question is temporarily settled in any case until the early summer. The rate went below 1% on call and time money was also lower. Stocks are stronger, largely owing to the announcement by the Secretary of the Treasury that he will refund $50,000,000 of 4% bonds due in July and pay cash for the others. Naturally the railroad situation in connection with what may be called Washington politics is still a disturbing factor, and there is also anxiety as to the outcome of the controversy between the President and Mr. Harriman. It is thought, however, that while the echoes of trouble may be heard for some time, they wil grow fainter and fainter and will soon be forgotten. In other words, it is said that the recriminations exchanged in the dispute will have no effect on legislation regarding either trusts or railroads. On the other hand there are several favorable features in connection with the market. Among them may be mentioned the action of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Co. in declaring a semi-annual dividend of 3% per annum. In 1906, this road earned more than 12% on the common stock, and it is likely to be greater this year. Another event that is construed as favorable to Wall Street securities is the defeat of Mayor Dunne in Chicago on the municipal ownership issue and the election of the Republican candidate. The effect of this victory was immediately felt on the stock market, especially in public utilities securities. Chicago, the second city in the Union, thus shows that it is not yet prepared to adopt the altruistic doctrine of municipal ownership. As a set-off to this, European stock exchanges were generally weak, although the present ease of money, owing to Secretary Cortelyou's action, will undoubtedly stop gold imports from the other side and will thus afford relief to foreign markets. Money conditions, in short, have brought about a feeling of security which Wall Street has not known since the disastrous break in the middle of last month.

THE report of the Mayor's advisory commission, pointing out the necessity for severe economy in planning new municipal improvements merely calls attention in a more emphatic way to a condition which has long been apparent. The debt margin is so narrow that it will be impossible for the city to finance all the improvements which are now upon the boards. During the next five years its capital expenditures must be restricted to less than $50,000,000 a year. This appears to be a large sum, but it is not large enough for all the new subways, bridges, tunnels, docks and school-houses which have been planned ;and inasmuch as the prosperity and growth of the city depend upon a liberal policy of municipal improvement the commission recommends an amendment to the State constitution providing that the money spent upon remunerative improvements such as subways and docks shall not hereafter be estimated in the total of the municipal debt, to which the ten per cent. limit applies. Thus the financial advisers of the city have reached a conclusion which the Record and Guide predicted as inevitable many years ago. When the real estate assessments were raised during ex-Mayor Low's administration for the purpose of adding to the borrowing capacity of the city, we insisted that the measure was only a temporary expedient and that the necessity of dealing in a more radical way with the problem was merely postponed thereby. If a successful attempt had been made to amend the State constitution at that time the city would not be in financial straits at the present time, and indispensable public improvements would not have to be indefinitely delayed. As it is, at least three years and probably as much more time must elapse before the too long and precarious process of amending the constitution can be brought to a close. In the meantime all but the most necessary municipal improvements must be held up, and the Board of Estimate is confronted by the important practical question of selecting among these improvements the ones which can best be delayed. It looks, for instance, as if the much needed county court-house would have to be among the plans which would have to be placed upon the shelf. But if such should be the case, something should certainly be done to make the existing court-house more convenient and healthy for its distinguished occupants. Whatever improvements, however, are advanced or postponed, the property-owners of Manhattan and the Bronx should insist that the proposed new subways should not be neglected. Just what money will be necessary for this purpose cannot be ascertained until after April 25th, when the nature of the bids will be known; but in any event the Lexington and Seventh Avenue routes must be constructed. Any delay in providing for new and better means of communication would strike a vital blow at the prosperity of the city during the next five years.

MR. EDWARD HARRIMAN has been much in evidence during the past week, and among other conspicuous actions has bought from Mr. F. G. Bourne part of the old Langham Hotel property at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-second Street. The purchase is interesting, because of the indication it affords of the future of that part of Fifth Avenue. It is stated that Mr. Bourne decided against building, because he feared that Fifth Avenue as far north as Fifty-ninth Street was destined to be wholly a business thoroughfare. Apparently Mr. Harriman does not share this opinion, and the Record and Guide imagines that Mr. Harriman is nearer right than is Mr. Bourne. Of course no one can tell what will happen in New York real estate at the end of thirty years; but certainly for a long time to come the development of Fifth Avenue for business purposes is not likely to extend north of Fiftieth Street. It will be stopped by the influence of the Vanderbilts and of the several rich men who have of late years bought and built in that neighborhood. At the present time the property is really more valuable for residential than for business purposes, and this fact will have a decisive influence upon the immediate future of the avenue. On no other avenue in Manhattan are there any important shops situated north of Forty-second street, and it is not to be expected that the transformation of Fifth Avenue in this respect will push far ahead of the other important avenues to the east and the west. On the contrary it is probable that Broadway and Seventh Avenue between Long Acre Square and the park will precede Fifth Avenue in its occupation by shops which can afford to pay big rentals. In the long run doubtless there will be fewer private residences in New York south of Fifty-ninth Street, but this result will take a great many years to accomplish. There can be no doubt that Fifty-ninth Street is destined to become one of the most important cross-town thoroughfares in the city, and that it will have to be widened for that purpose. Neither will this result be postponed more than ten or fifteen years. But Fifty-ninth Street itself will develop faster than the intermediate blocks south thereof, and it is entirely possible that Fifth Avenue from Fiftieth Street north will be more valuable as a site for residences than for stores during a practically indefinite period.

WILL the new authority soon to be lodged in the Police Commissioner be sufficient to accomplish the reform of the Police Department? The Record and Guide fully hopes that such will be the case, and it congratulates the Mayor and his commissioner on the hard and successful fight they have undertaken on behalf of an honest and efficient conduct of the department. But we very much doubt whether even with his new powers Mr. Bingham will be able to exercise effective control over his subordinates. It must be remembered that the existing system is of many years standing, that it is enormously profitable to its beneficiaries in and out of the department, and that it is supported by powerful "political" allies. During the next few years the corrupt element in the department will probably be low in the hope that its friends can elect a Mayor in 1908. In the meantime it will keep its organization, and pretend to be "good." But in reality it will only await the opportunity which the vicissitudes of New York politics may well in the end bestow upon it. We doubt very much whether the Police Department will ever be reformed except by a radical but gradual change in its membership. What Ne wYork needs is a body of police officials who have had no experience of grafting and who perform their duties in a wholly different spirit. We doubt whether such a body of men can be found in the present department, and whether it will ever be collected until the power of dismissal is granted to the Commissioner. Whether or not, however, this opinion is well founded, the result of Mr. Bingham's experiment will be watched with the utmost sympathy and interest. He and the Mayor deserve the support of all public-spirited citizens in the reform they are attempting, and if they cannot entirely do away with police transgressions, they can, at least, bring it about that the way of the transgressor shall be hard.

Greater Condemnation Plan

THE recent report of the New York City Improvement Commission has called attention to one matter which should receive the immediate attention of the city authorities, and that is that the city should acquire for park purposes the lands along the slope of the North River and the Harlem River and in the Borough of Queens. They could be acquired at the present time at a comparatively small expense, but if not acquired now will in the future, after building and development has gone on, become almost prohibitory in price.

These lands are suitable principally for park purposes and their acquisition would be of great benefit to the city, especially in the Borough of Queens, where the park system is substantially entirely undeveloped, and it is essential that the city should have additional park area.

It would not be necessary for the present to expend a large amount of money upon these properties. They could be allowed to remain very much in their present condition until the time came for their improvement into parks. The only expense, therefore, to the city at present would be the amount necessary to pay for acquiring them. If the present opportunity is neglected, it will undoubtedly result in a great detriment to the city, as in order to secure the area which will ultimately be necessary it will have to pay vastly larger sums.

It is fair to estimate in regard to these properties that any building that would be put on any lot would at least equal double the value of the land, and in cases of the lower priced lots a larger percentage, so that each building put on any lot before the city takes the property will at least treble the cost to the city of acquiring such lot. This accentuates the importance to the city of proceeding quickly.

Another matter to which the report of the Commission calls attention is the question of giving to the city the right, in connection with any proposed improvement, to condemn not only the property to be actually physically used, but a certain amount of adjoining property and by resale after the improvement has been done at the enhanced value due to the improvement recoup a large part of the cost and expense. This is a very important matter, as the price of real estate in New York and the cost of labor is so great that unless some method of this kind is devised, the making of adequate improvements will throw upon the taxpayers a very heavy burden.

This method of keeping down the cost of improvements has been adopted with success in many cities of Europe and in England and, to a limited extent also, in Boston in connection with the park system. It is the only efficient means by which the cost of improvements can be met. Assessment on adjoining property owners for betterment has not proven efficacious. It has not given the full benefit to the city, and, on the other hand, has in many instances been very unfair to the abutting property owners, as often the assessment is fixed and made a lien on the property before the enhanced value due to the improvement has been realized.

The recommendation of the Commission in this matter deserves very serious attention. The following is an extract from its report on the subject:

Although the expenditures necesarily required by any proper plan of development must be large, they can in many instances be greatly reduced if the city had the power exercised in many European cities of condemning more than the area actually required, so that the city might reap the benefit to be derived from the enhanced value of neighboring property, and, in the judgment of the Commission, steps should be taken to secure such changes in the constitution or legislative enactments as may be necessary for the purpose. This method of taking more land than required, with the object by resale at an advance of recouping part of the expenses, has been applied in various large cities of Great Britain and the Continent, where extensive alterations have been undertaken for securing architectural effects, remedying sanitary conditions, or improving the city generally, and it is questionable whether many of the improvements would have been otherwise accomplished. Objection to giving the city such power has sometimes been raised on the ground that it might be abused or injudiciously exercised. In these times, however, of increasing municipal activities, when so many more extensive powers are constantly being entrusted to those charged with the administration of the city's affairs, such objection can scarcely be considered necessarily fatal or conclusive, if proper safeguards and limitations are imposed.

Further reflection has convinced the Commission that the necessary power should be given to the city by appropriate legislation to carry out the above plan, and the Commission recommends that immediate steps be taken on behalf of the city government to effect such result.

Many of the improvements herein suggested will prove very expensive and require the city to take and pay for large areas of expensive properties, and by reason of the very improvements the value of adjoining properties will be largely enhanced. There is certainly no reason why individual property owners should realize this increment, due exclusively to the expenditure of the public moneys.

The argument so often used of the danger that such powers may be abused by the city officials would apply equally to almost any form of improvement. The truth of the matter is that somebody must be trusted, and powers must be vested somewhere if we are going to do anything at all. If nobody is to be trusted or vested with large powers, it simply means that the community must stand still and do nothing.

Another recommendation made by the Commission is that the city should have its own repair plant for keeping the streets in repair. Under the present system streets and avenues are paved by contract, and there is no regular method of making small repairs by the city as the necessity becomes apparent. In many instances as part of the contract for pavement the contractors agree to keep the streets in repair for a certain period of time, but there is always great trouble as a practical matter in the efficient enforcement of these contracts. In addition to this, there is so much tearing up of the streets for various purposes in New York, that keeping the pavement in repair under the present system is very difficult. If the city had a repair plant of its own in connection with its street cleaning department and did all the repairing, charging those with the cost at whose instance the streets were opened, the responsibility of keeping the streets in repair could be readily placed, and would be a vast improvement over the present system of divided responsibility.

Views of Mr. Barney.

Mr. Charles T. Barney, who has heretofore been quoted by the Record and Guide as in favor of this "greater condemnation plan," further remarked this week:

I believe the acquisition of more land in condemnation proceedings than that actually needed is a very wise and essential thing. I have advocated for over thirty years an intermediary avenue between 5th and 6th avenues. When I first advocated it, it could have readily been done. The cost of doing it now would run into figures so enormous that they would make it practically prohibitory. The adjoining property would never stand sufficient assessments for increased value, to meet any appreciable percentage of the cost. My own belief, however, is that should additional lands be acquired and held until the improvement is completed, then the proportion of the cost ultimately reimbursed would be very large. The relief to traffic would be tremendous. And it would be well worth the money the city would still have to pay, after it had reimbursed itself by the sale of lands over and above what it actually needed for the highway.

If the lands were condemned to a distance 100 feet from the projected highway, the value of that land would easily be doubled, as it will then face on a magnificent avenue. A comparatively small amount of this doubling in value could be obtained by assessment for benefits; and it would go far towards not only paying for the existing improvements on the lands condemned, but would, to a considerable extent, meet the cost of the lands condemned for the benefit of the avenue itself. This improvement, which would be of vast benefit to the city, could never be faced except by such a method as the one proposed above. And the same is true in my judgment of all proceedings in condemnation. That any additional lands taken would go much further to reduce the cost of the operation than could be obtained by any method of assessment for increased values.

Resolution by Influential Bodies.

The New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects held a special meeting on the evening of April 4 at the Engineering Building, to which meeting the Chapter had invited city officials and other distinguished citizens, also the members of the Fine Arts Federation, namely: The National Academy of Design, American Water Color Society, the Society of American Artists, the Architectural League of New York, the American Fine Arts Society, the Society of Beaux Arts Architects, the National Sculpture Society, the National Society of Mural Painters, New York Water Color Club, Brooklyn Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, Society of Illustrators, and the officers and executive committee of the Municipal Art Society of New York.

The drawings submitted with the report of the City Improvement Commission were on view, and afterwards the audience was addressed by Mr. Francis K. Pendelton, Mr. Jacob A. Cantor, Mr. Frederick Crowinshield and Mr. Walter Cook. The meeting unanimously adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That the plan proposed of providing by legislation or constitutional amendment that the city of New York shall have the power, in connection with any public work, of acquiring sufficient adjoining property to enable it by resale of the portion of the property as acquired in excess of that actually essential to the work to recoup the expense or cost of the improvement be, and the same is hereby approved, and the officers of the city government and all members of the Legislature are hereby urgently requested to forward the same by all means in their power.

How to Appraise Real Estate

THE subject of appraisals is one that must necessarily be of the greatest interest and importance to everyone who is in any way brought in touch with the real estate business. To the broker particularly it is not only a subject of interest, but also a source of great satisfaction, for we venture to say there are few who can keep from feeling a certain thrill when they realize that it is upon their judgment that the disposition of a considerable sum of money rests. In countless instances, in all branches of the business—sales, leases, exchanges and loans—the word of the appraiser is the decision of the highest court of appeals. In a lecture before the Real Estate School of the West Side Y. M. C. A., in West 57th st, Manhattan, on this subject, Mr. Charles Griffith Moses emphasized the wisdom of specializing in this department. By concentrating all of his energies on a special section of the city, the real estate man would soon find himself master of the knowledge and means necessary to qualify as a competent appraiser in that section.

"You will be thoroughly familiar with its physical aspects," says Mr. Moses, "so that you can call to mind instantly the condition and appearance of each street. You will know what transactions have been made, what buildings are projected, what loans have been made, what operators and investors make in their field of activity, and why they do so, and so there will never be in your mind any question as to values that you cannot answer with authority."

Besides this positive personal knowledge of a locality there is another thing that aids the appraiser, though he may not know in what proportion. This is called "real estate sense," which Mr. Moses describes as "a certain something" that comes to most real estate men after more or less experience, and is developed in some men to a remarkable degree. No doubt there are men who if suddenly placed on the planet Mars could tell almost instinctively the value of land there. But Mr. Moses gives this caution:

While this sense of values is a very useful and convenient adjunct to the appraiser, I do not wish to be understood as advocating the placing of too much reliance on it. After all is said and done, the foundation on which a proper appraisal rests is just plain knowledge; in other words, the "know how." The appraiser must know the property he is appraising, its surroundings, its past and its possibilities in the future. If vacant, its physical conditions as to surface and sub-surface facts, and how much these conditions affect value, street situations, grades, assessments and their probable amount, the character of the neighboring improvements, and the possible or likely improvement of the plot in question, plottage and a host of other circumstances. If improved property, in addition to land value, the appraiser must know if the building is a suitable improvement, how much it adds to the value of the land; if it is well built or not, and something of the cost of reproducing it.

I don't want you to infer from this that the value of a piece of improved property is the value of the land plus the cost of reproducing a similar building. For sometimes a building adds its full cost to the value of the land, and frequently it does not, especially if it be an inappropriate structure and not in keeping with the neighborhood. For example, a private dwelling that costs $50,000 to build would not add a cent to the value of a lot at the corner of Wall and Broad streets, nor to a lot in a tenement neighborhood.

It is almost impossible to lay down general rules for the appraisal of property, because it is rarely that the same conditions prevail in connection with several different parcels. Even if some general principles seem so logical and patent as to be useful for hard and fast rules, you will surely find some state of facts that will upset them completely. For instance, it would seem at first glance that lots lying 15 feet above the grade would be worth less than adjoining lots on grade by just the amount it would cost to remove that 15 feet of earth and rock and bring the lots to grade. Well, ordinarily that would hold good, but there are certain locations where this very physical condition, that ordinarily would be a detriment and tend to lessen values, proves to be an advantage to the land—as, for instance, on many parts of Riverside Drive, especially north of 158th street, where the westerly side of the Drive is in private ownership and where land on the easterly side of the Drive lies above the grade and can be improved by buildings that will overlook ordinary buildings on the westerly side, thus retaining the view and outlook over the Hudson River, which is certainly an important element of value of land thus situated.

We note that Mr. Moses took occasion to illustrate the danger of set rules in valuing real estate, and to emphasize the importance of judging each case by itself, using, of course, facts that may have developed in similar cases as criterions:

While the basis of previous sales of surrounding and similar property may prove a pretty fair and usually conservative method of basing values, it is not altogether reliable, and incidentally it is a system that is very difficult to keep up accurately in these days of nominal considerations, unless the appraiser confines his attentions to a more or less limited territory and investigates the actual consideration of each sale within its confines.

Values are so prone to quick changes, especially in active or boom times, that most systems fail, and only being in active touch (and, so to speak, part of the market oneself), enables the appraiser to be up to the times and accurate. Many real estate men do nothing but appraising, and, of course, have reputations as experts; but it has always seemed to me that the best appraiser was the active broker, who comes personally in daily contact with the buyers and sellers and has his finger constantly on the pulse of the market and knows absolutely what can be done with a piece of property and how much it can be sold for. For, after all, the salient (though not the only) test of value is, what will it sell for?

I cannot urge you too strongly in making appraisals, and particulafly written ones, to be most full and explicit. Do not hesitate to mention any particular state of facts which in your mind has an important bearing on the value of the property in question. And, above all, never make an appraisal without a personal inspection. No matter how familiar you may be with any piece of property, and no matter how recently you may have seen it, when you are called upon to value it, go and examine it again. I have often been surprised to find upon careful inspection how different my impression of a parcel was from its actual condition. I have always kept an accurate duplicate of all the written appraisals made in my office, and have always kept a complete record of those made orally, and have found these records most useful as a source of information.

Mr. Moses brings out still another point which it is important to mention. "It is essential to the appraiser to have a good working knowledge of the cost of building, excavating in rock, the probable charges for street improvements, such as the building of sewers and paving." "The cost of building is deemed the most important subject an appraiser should be conversant with, next to the value of land, and hence it was necessary for the appraiser to keep himself well informed as to the prices of structural materials and labor." This point is sometimes neglected, we fancy, and in times when there are violent changes in the prices of labor and materials, the factor in the cubical contents rule of computing may have become inaccurate.

John M. Thompson, in an address in the same place, some time previously, expressed the opinion that "capitalization" is the most accurate means of ascertaining values, though he did not wish to be understood as saying it is the only means. Mr. Thompson gave this rule at that time:

The average ratio of rental to fee value differs. Generally in an office building it is 8 per cent. gross; in an elevator apartment house, 12 per cent.; in a flat or tenement, 10 per cent.; in a residence, 7 per cent. Of course, these ratios may vary. There are many cases where there is no revenue, as in the case of residences occupied by the owner, or business buildings occupied by the owner. It is then the duty of the appraiser to ascertain the rental of similar buildings in the same location. Sometimes the value can be arrived at by a certain cost per cubic foot on different classes of buildings, but I do not consider this a good method of appraising, and would only advise its use when it cannot be avoided; for it is a return to a structural value, and I think should only be adopted where the building is used for a specific purpose and the rental value is unattainable.

To Cure a Defect in the Mechanics' Lien Law.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

We have again secured the introduction in the Legislature of a bill to amend the Mechanics' Lien Law, relative to the cancellation of a bond given to discharge a lien. The bill was introduced at the last session and was passed by the Assembly, but was not voted upon by the Senate before adjournment. Believing that it is a matter which affects the interests of all contractors, material men and builders who have recourse to this branch of the law, we take the liberty of addressing you to explain briefly the purpose of this amendment.

As the law now is, wherever a lien has been dischaged by the filing of a bond, and no action has been commenced to foreclose the lien, within the statutory period, there is no way of getting rid of the liability on such a bond, though the statutory period of limitation for a foreclosure suit has elapsed, and upon an application to cancel such a bond it has been intimated by the courts that the liability on the bond cannot be extinguished unless by suit, short of the twenty-year period. For example, if a sub-contractor has filed a lien, and a bond has been executed by the owner to discharge it as permitted by statute, and the lienor then fails to commence suit within a year in the ordinary case, or ninety days in the case of a lien for a municipal improvement, the bond which has been substituted for the property or funds will not be cancelled, nor can it be formally cancelled, failing the termination of an action to determine the validity of the lien. There is an obvious defect in the law in this respect, which has frequently been called to our attention, as well as to that of other lawyers who have had experience in dealing with the subject of mechanics' liens.

The bond should manifestly be released in the same manner as the lien itself, where no suit has been brought, but the statutory limitation is now held not to apply where the lien has been bonded. (114 App. Div. 29.) A hardship is frequently worked in such cases because the owner refuses to pay the contractor in full, and holds back an amount equal to the amount of the lien, i. e., he will not pay in full until the bond is cancelled and discharged. In this manner, a sub-contractor refusing to consent to the cancellation of a bond, can tie up the money due to the contractor, to his disadvantage, until the determination of a suit upon the bond which may be commenced presumably at any time within twenty years.

It is proposed to amend Sec. 3417 of the Code of Civil Procedure and to add a provision to the Lien Law (Laws of 1897, Chap. 418) providing for the discharge of such a bond. Faithfully yours,

THOMPSON & WARREN.

THE REALM OF BUILDING

Builders and Apprentices.

SOMETHING is in a fair way of being done for the American boy, who, desirous of learning a trade, finds the door closed. The average American boy in this age is to be pitied, unless his family has the means of educating and starting him above the ordinary crowd. The old apprentice system gave every deserving lad a chance, but under the new order of things it is difficult for him to get a foothold in any calling that will give him a fair return. Not only this, but we find various trades asking for special legislation to the end that no one shall practice therein without a license. The real object of this is too clear to name.

At the recent convention of the New York State Association of Builders more attention was given to this subject of apprentices than to any other, and it was the sense of the body that it is the imperative duty of every master builder in every State in the Union to employ all the apprentices his capacity will allow. Further, as stated in a formal resolution:

> And having engaged these apprentices to expend every effort in seeing that the boys are given a thoroughly practical and mechanical training, to the end that the American tradesman shall be the peer of those of all other countries. Further, be it resolved, That we urge upon our city governments the need of giving the young men in our schools the opportunity of taking a mechanical training course; to this end mechanical training should be included in all school work.

Points on the Material Market.

Trade in Portland cement is so heavy that the mills cannot get enough cars. For the rest of April a still larger business is assured, owing (1) to the beginning of spring building, and (2) to the fact that freight rates will be advanced on May 1, which causes both buyers and shippers to anticipate future needs.

Brick arrivals this week have been naturally heavy. Between March 25 (when the first tow arrived), up to Thursday, April 4, the number of cargoes received was 150, and at the latter date there were 35 remaining. Prices have slipped down under these large shipments from a maximum of $6.25-$6.50 to $5.25-$5.75 At these prices there is little or no money in the game for manufacturers, under the existing schedule of costs for production.

It may be thought a paradox, but the present status of the real estate business is unfortunate, in the estimation of builders and structural material firms. How this can be so in the midst of general prosperity and with the strongest market ever known, may not be discernable at first. Nevertheless, extreme real estate values have helped tight money to choke the stream of speculative building, and this class of work is much diminished. Because (1) the money lenders will not recognize extreme valuations (2) builders cannot pay the prices asked for lots and make a profit on the building. While these circumstances more particularly characterize new sections, the consequences are widely distributed. The year has been wonderful in Brooklyn for plans filed, but not for buildings started. Material dealers say that only a small proportion of the plans filed are being executed. But the speculative building situation is subject to quick changes.

Spilling the Paint.

Conditions in the painting trade are brought to notice by a half-hearted strike when all other trades are at peace. From various reports, this line of business is singularly in need of the application of the principles of a Rooseveltian "square deal" all around, for property owners, as well as for employers and journeymen. In a paper which was read before the New York State Convention of Master House Painters at Elmira, and which we find reproduced in the current number of the B. T. E. A. Bulletin, Mr. John Beattie, of New York City, says that "if the employers were all straightforward, square men, the employees would have had fewer opportunities to assert themselves and inflict the injuries they have in the past." The unimportance of the present eruption may be judged from Mr. Beattie's further explanation:

> It has been perfectly absurd the claims that have been made by the unions that they control the situation. In our own city with over 20,000 journeymen there are not 25 per cent. who pretend to recognize the union and obey its requirements. Scarcely eighty shops out of some 2,000 are recognized and controlled to any extent by the union, so it can be readily seen the impossibility of meeting the union requirements while the condition exists. The mistake made by the unions was in not interesting and enlisting the sympathy of the employer at the outset. If an employer asserted his manhood he was made a mark of attack by the leaders of the union with the result that no sympathy or harmony existed between the two forces.
> There are many things that might be said, but it is not necessary to lengthen this paper. The situation is simply this: The labor unions in our line have never been able to control the majority of the employers, nor of the men, and while this condition exists there will be nothing but turmoil and unrest, and injustice done both to the employer and to the employee whenever the opportunity presents itself.

Quick Work on the Plaza Hotel.

Ten thousand tons of structural steel is contained in the new 18-sty Plaza Hotel, at 5th av, 58th and 59th sts, all of which was erected in seven months by a working force of about one hundred men, using seven guyed derricks, which assembled it in position at a maximum rate of two stories, or 750 tons, in six days. All floors are constructed with hollow tile, about 578,000 sq. ft. of which were furnished by the National Fireproofing Co.

The building covers an area of approximately 25,000 sq. ft. In the upper stories each of the three main wings is arranged with a central corridor parallel to the front or side wall, and with rooms having exterior windows on both sides of it. There are in the structure about 230,000 ¾-in. field rivets driven by Chicago pneumatic hammers operated with compressed air from machines driven by electric motors. In the second story there are fourteen 16-ton girders.

Henry J. Hardenbergh is the architect, and the Geo. A. Fuller Co. is general contractor. The steel work was fabricated by the Carnegie Steel Co. and erected by the Fuller Company.

NEW BRITAIN.—H. Wales Lines, of Meriden, made application for a permit to build the new factory for the Union Mfg. Co., in Church st.; 3 stories, brk, 94x126.—Traut & Hine Mfg. Co. has filed an application for a permit to build a 5-sty brk building, 65x 104, roof of gravel.

BRIDGEPORT.—Union Metallic Cartridge Co. is about to spend $250,000 for new buildings. Permits will be sought within a short time for two large brk buildings on the south side of Barnum av. One will be 3 stories high, 100x50 ft., and the other 4-sty, 200x50 ft. The 4-sty building will take the place of four smaller brk buildings, which will be torn down. During the summer work will commence on a new office building, to cost $50,000.—The Locomobile Co. of America will soon ask permission to build a 4-sty factory building at Seaside Park, at a cost of $50,000.

BRIDGEPORT.—Work will be started at once on the new plant for the Van Auken Motor and Machine Works, who will remove here from Yonkers. Building will be 45x200, 1 story, with an ell at each end, of concrete blocks and gravel roof. Lewis F. Shoemaker & Co., of New York, will furnish and erect the steel frame, and the other work will probably be done by the day.

BRIDGEPORT.—From plans of Architect C. T. Beardsley, Jr., the general contract for the new power plant for the Bridgeport Malleable Iron Co. has been let to Casey & Hurley. The Berlin Construction Co. will furnish the steel work, the W. P. Kirk Co. the metal sash, and the Power & Mining Machinery Co., 52 William st, New York, the gas producer plant and gas engines.

Product and Appliance.

Nothing Better in Its Field.

Much of the credit for the enormous increase in popularity of Interlocking Rubber Tiling is due to the Pennsylvania Rubber Company of Jeannette, Pa., which entered this field with a new and simplified arrangement of interlocking rubber tiles a few years ago. Appreciation of the wide variety of uses to which this material could be successfully applied, led the company to exploit its product vigorously, with the result that at present there is scarcely any class of building in which it is not found.

Some idea of the scope of its usefulness may be gathered from the fact that it may be seen npon the floor of one of the finest cathedrals in the country, and in one of the largest of the public art galleries, and at the same time in many kitchens, vestibules and bathrooms of the well-to-do. The advantages claimed for this interlocking rubber tiling are so many and general that space does not permit their enumeration, but it is said to outwear even marble, to form an absolutely waterproof surface, and to be so easily applied that any workman of ordinary skill can lay it successfully, though he may be previously inexperienced with it.

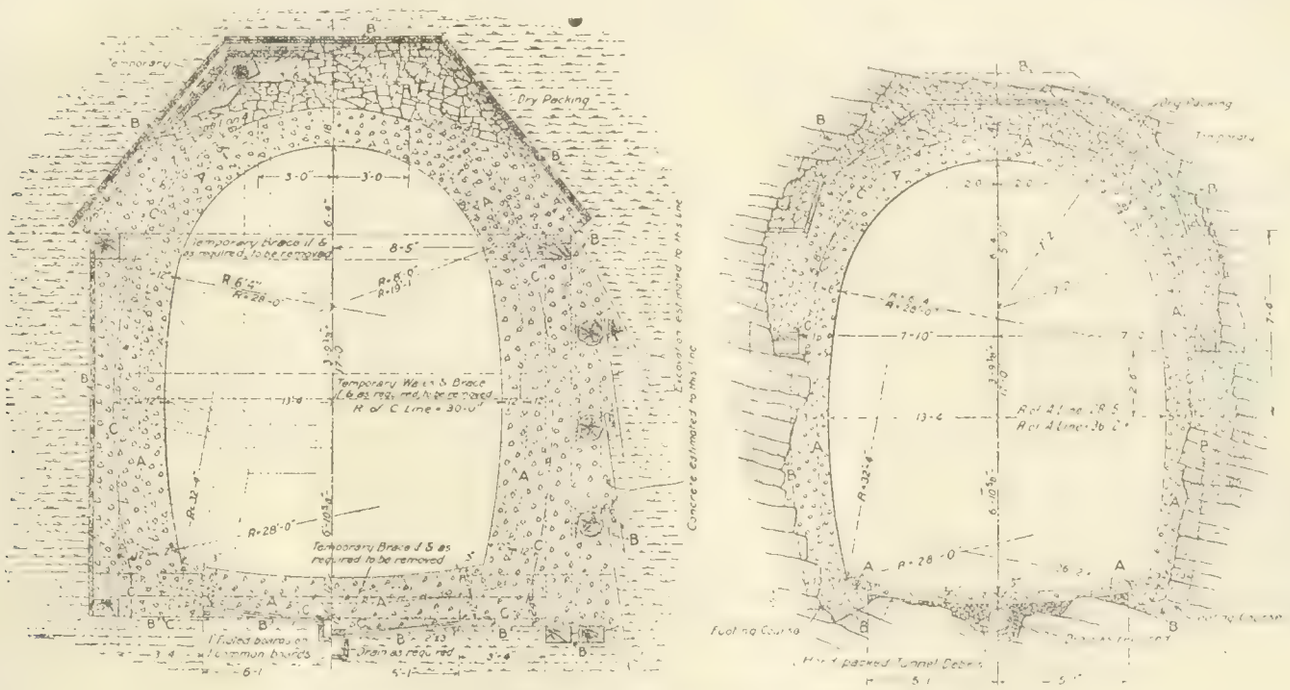
"Concrete Construction About the Home and on the Farm."

(Published by the Atlas Portland Cement Co., 30 Broad st, New York.)—Among architects, engineers, contractors and mechanics there is a keen desire to keep informed upon all the developments of concrete construction. To these no work will be more welcome than this volume. As its names implies, it does not deal with the heavy work, but with the less known though widely applicable uses of concrete in connection with domestic structures. These structures, in a surprising variety, are treated in this book in a very complete and intelligent manner.

Illustrations, plans and specifications are given of sidewalks, floors, stairs, walls, foundations, piers, posts, chimney-caps, cisterns, troughs, tanks, piazzas, pens, chicken house, ice house, greenhouses, hotbed frames, box stalls, silos, stucco finishes, etc. Of special value are the illustrations and description of the interesting group of buildings on Gedney farms, White Plains, N. Y., and of that other unique group on Brookside farms, Newburgh, N. Y.

A striking illustration of the wonderful growth of the Portland cement industry is afforded by the history of the publishers of this work, the Atlas Portland Cement Co. Commencing in 1892 at Coplay, Pa., with a capacity of 250 barrels a day, the production of the company has now reached more than 32,000 barrels each 24 hours, or 12,000,000 barrels a year.

Charles Warner Company, Wilmington, Del., has just issued a booklet on "Waterproof Concrete and Portland Cement Lime Mortars." This booklet contains a series of tests made by the Henry S. Spackman Engineering Company, using varying mixtures of hydrated lime and Portland cement. These tests cover the tensile strengths and permeability of a great number of mixtures, the object being to determine the most economical mixture to be used to meet any particular requirements in building construction. The use of a dry hydrate of lime mixed with Portland cement is becoming quite general owing to the many advantages and economies, and to the great facility with which the two elements can be exactly proportioned and mixed dry. The hydrated lime used in these tests is "Limoid," which the Warner Co. has been manufacturing as a standard commodity for five years, and under special processes giving thorough hydration and preparation.



The officers of the Ferro Machine & Foundry Co. announce the removal of their eastern sales offices to the building occupied by Henry C. Squires & Son, the dealers in sporting supplies, at 44 Cortland st, New York City. The Ferro offices will occupy the second floor, and by special arrangements ample display space has been secured in the store of Henry C. Squires & Son on the ground floor of the building for the latest models of Ferro marine engines.

The elastic enamel paint which was used throughout the Metropolitan Building was supplied by the J. L. Mitchell Paint Co. The "Nonalyke" paint is durable, elastic, non-porous and non-poisonous.

Details of the Catskill Aqueduct, New York.

Through the official publication of plans and specifications for a portion of the Catskill aqueduct, it is now possible to form some idea of the details of this great conduit. It will begin at Ashokan reservoir, in the Catskill Mountains, and run to Kensico reservoir, near White Plains, and thence to Hill View reservoir, in Yonkers, its total length being about 82 miles. The portions comprised in the first contract are in the Peekskill division of the Northern Aqueduct Department, and lie east of the Hudson River in the towns of Cortlandt, Yorktown and Phillipstown. The work includes 41,880 ft. of trench and embankment conduit, three tunnels having lengths of 2,350, 11,430 and 900 ft., and 210 ft. of experimental reinforced concrete pipe at an inverted syphon across a brook. The contract also includes the reconstruction of about three miles of roads, and the building of fences, culverts, blow-offs, manholes and many other minor works.

In open trench and on embankments the aqueduct will be constructed of Portland cement concrete and be 17 ft. high by 17½ ft. wide inside. The lining of the tunnels, whether in earth or rock, will be of the same material and be 17 ft. high by 13 ft. 4 in. wide in the clear. The reinforced concrete pipe will be 11 ft. in diameter inside and about 8 in. thick. Foundation embankments will be required under less than half a mile of the aqueduct covered by this contract, but cover embankments will be needed over all parts not in tunnel. In general the cover will be 15 ft. wide on top and 3 ft. deep over the top of the conduit, with side slopes of 1 on 1¾. In deep cuts, the filling may take the form of an embankment over the aqueduct in the center of the excavation, or the contractor may be required to refill some parts of the trenches to the original surface of the ground. The central portions of embankments on which the acqueduct rests are to be built of carefully selected earth containing no stones larger than 3 in. and placed in 3-in. layers, watered and rolled. The layers of earth outside this central portion will be 6 in. thick, watered and rolled, unless the engineer considers them sufficiently compacted by teaming over them. Refills and embankments may be made largely of rock from the excavations, if the engineer permits.

TWO TYPES OF GRADE TUNNEL SECTIONS IN EARTH AND ROCK.

The general method of construction to be followed in the cut-and-cover portion of the aqueduct is that the invert of the section will be laid in one operation and the side walls and arch in another.

The sections of the invert are to be not over 15 ft. long, with a keyed joint between adjacent sections. The portion of the aqueduct above the invert will be built in sections of a length equal to some multiple of the length of an invert section, but in no case over 75 ft. After a section has been once begun, the concrete work must be carried on continuously and the contract stipulates that an interruption exceeding a quarter of an hour may be deemed sufficient cause for the rejection of the whole section. Temporary manholes are to be left not more than a quarter of a mile apart.

Rule for Valuing Fractional Lots in Manhattan.

The rule for valuing fractional lots in Manhattan Borough prepared by Henry Harmon Neill, has been printed by The Record and Guide, with Mr. Neill's permission, on a large sheet of cardboard, suitable for framing or hanging on an office wall. Copies will be sold at 25 cents each. Apply at either office of The Record and Guide, 11 to 15 East 24th St., 14 and 16 Vesey St.

Architectural Competitions.

A necessary evil seems to be the judgment entered against open architectural competitions in the profession. A young man with few friends and little influence, however large his ability, can seldom see an opportunity for an important commission except through these open competitions, even with their many objectionable features.

At the last meeting of the New York Chapter an animated discussion arose in relation to competitions in general and open ones in particular. The main point at issue was whether the chapter should recommend to the committee of the institute now having the subject in charge the recognition of the open competition. When the discussion was over nothing was done, some believing that the open competition had so many evils that it should not be recognized at all, and others contending that it was a necessary evil and that attempts should be made to regulate it, not to exterminate it.

Sand Hogs in Jeopardy.

The McAdoo management of the engineering work of the Church street terminal of the Hudson Tunnel Companies has met with a somewhat serious setback. In the small hours of Thursday morning a fire started in an oil room above the low-pressure air plant, near Fulton st, and destroyed the room and also the quarters of the physicians, who look after the caisson workers or "sand hogs" alongside, which contained the hospital air chamber. The engineers at the compressors were driven from their posts by flames and the machinery was left unattended.

Two alarms were sounded for the fire, which ran beneath the wood framing from Fulton to Cortlandt st, and was finally stayed just north of Cortland st. The general superintendent of the engineering work under the McAdoo regime is George F. Seymour, formerly superintendent of the foundation work of the Seligman bldg., for the Foundation Company. The damages will amount to about thirty or forty thousand dollars and the work will be retarded several weeks.

Labor Questions.

Relative to the work of setting register faces, a matter that has been in dispute between several trades, the General Arbitration Board has decided that the attaching of register faces in connection with heating and ventilating shall be done by sheet metal workers, and the cutting and fitting of woodwork for the installation of register faces shall be done by carpenters.

The General Arbitration Board will continue to be in the Townsend Building after the headquarters of the B. T. E. A. are moved to the Gorham Building, and will be in the west wing of the twelfth floor. A lease has been signed.

The following decision has been rendered by the executive committee of the General Arbitration Board: The painting of all exposed iron work shall be done by painters. The applying of shop coats, or priming coats, whether put on at the shop or at the building in process of erection, whether roughly applied with large brushes or long-handled brushes, and intended for the temporary protection of steel or iron work to be enclosed in the course of the construction, is unskilled work, which may be done by non-painters, apprentices or laborers.

—The Star Expansion Bolts will fasten the heaviest and lightest materials or fixtures to brick, stone, tile, cement or masonry as easily as to wood and much more firmly. There are single and double expansion bolts and they make quick, easy, dependable fastenings.

Up to the Landlord.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

"A" is party of the first part and "B" is party of the second part. A gives B a lease of a tenement house for a term of five years. The lease is a plain one. Party of the second part agrees to do all repairs inside and outside at his expense. There is nothing mentioned in the lease as to who will have to comply with alterations ordered by the Tenement House Department. Question "1": Who is to comply with alterations ordered by Tenement House Department? Question "2": If house is vacated by Tenement House Department for non-compliance of said orders, what redress has the party who was not to do the work?

Answer.—(1) The landlord, if any one, certainly not the tenant; and it may be neither, as it sometimes occurs that the particular alteration is unauthorized, or only necessary to comply with in part. (2) We do not think he has any redress. He certainly has none if the necessity for such alteration was apparent at the time of leasing.

Henry W. Fedden & Co. announce that they have opened a general real estate brokerage business at No. 626 East 146th st.

Edwin Vaughan, Jr., is now manager of the Bronx office of the Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Co., vice Walter E. Phelps.

H. H. Cammann & Co., 51 Liberty st, will move about April 20 to their new offices in the Royal Insurance Building, 84 William st.

An ideal home in West End section of Long Branch is for sale. Over 2½ acres, 14 rooms. See advertisement in Wants and Offers.

Webster B. Mabie, real estate broker and agent, has removed his offices from 41 West 33d st to the Hicks Building, northeast corner of 28th st.

Many brokers throughout the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx continue to report market conditions in real estate circles as somewhat quiet.

The announcement of a new building to be erected at 5th av and 14th st inspires the remark that the reimprovement of lower 5th av has moved southward, instead of in the usual direction—northward.

Lexington av is getting its first thrills from the New York Central terminal improvements and the proposed subway. A number of negotiations are under way.

One real estate broker, with an office in the twenties, "near Broadway," reports that he was kept busy well into the latter part of August last year with lease transactions.

The Liberty and Church Street Co. secured a loan of $250,000 from the Farmers Loan and Trust Co. It covers the old Church St. Police Station recently purchased at auction for $330,000.

August Brakman and Marcus Moses, together with twenty-nine others, have entered into an agreement to restrict the buildings at 101 to 131, 102 to 128, 138-40 and 174 to 178 West 137th st against negro occupation for ten years.

Advertiser in Wants and Offers desires a number of experienced men who can make good. Also wants renting man capable of organizing and managing renting department. Such a man can have interest in profits of his department.

Mr. J. Clarence Davies considers that the success of the Doherty estate sale has already had a marked effect on the realty market. He is having more inquiries on the part of bonafide buyers, and manifests great confidence in a good spring market.

At a meeting of the Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers, Mr. J. Clarence Davies asked his hearers if they knew what a "brain-storm" cocktail was. His definition was: First take a clean glass and half fill it with water; then chop ice sufficient to fill the remainder—then let it "thaw."

A prominent operator says that the rapid incursion of business below 59th st is largely responsible for the increased demand for upper West Side dwelling property, which latter he believes to be the best speculative class of investment on Manhattan island. He particularly advises the purchase of dwellings south of 110th st.

Real estate brokers say that while the Doherty sale undoubtedly furnished proof of the stability of the realty market, its success in a measure has had a tendency to cause property owners to mark up a few points more the excessive prices which they have been asking for their holdings. A well known broker in this connection said that the auction referred to had already caused him the loss of several sales which were practically concluded until upset by the Doherty auction.

The committee of one hundred, together with citizens, taxpayers and residents of the Borough of the Bronx, held a meeting in the auction room, at 149th st and 3d av, on Monday evening, to elect officers and organize for the purpose of demanding and obtaining better transit facilities forthwith. Resolutions were adopted favoring the following: (1) The third-tracking of the 2d and 3d av elevated roads from the Battery to the farthest north terminus. (2) To force the Rapid Transit Commission to advise immediately the Westchester av extension of the subway, the White Plains extension and the Jerome av extension. (3) Favoring the four-tracking of both branches of the subway above 96th st. Joseph A. Goulden was elected chairman of the committee; John Bambey, vice-chairman; Wm. S. Germaine, secretary, and J. Clarence Davies, treasurer.

Brokers' Boards and Torrens System.

Three real estate boards of brokers have taken action in favor of the legislative bill that would permit properties to be registered under the Torrens system, and we have heard of none in opposition. The registration officers of Brooklyn borough were speakers at the meeting of the R. E. Board of Brokers of New York on Monday, thus giving countenance to the movement. The hearing at Albany on Assemblyman Prentice's bill providing for the Torrens system of title registration has been adjourned to April 17. The Bronx R. E. Brokers passed the following:

Whereas, there is now pending in the Legislature a bill for the registration of titles, known as the "Torrens Bill," and whereas, said bill will simplify to an enormous extent the sale of real estate and practically make it a quick and ready asset instead of an uncertain and slow asset, thereby greatly improving its status as an investment, and making it more favorably considered by the public, and assist in increasing its value, and helping the municipality and all building and dependent industries; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Auctioneers' Association of the Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers, after full consideration, earnestly request and endorse the bill now before the Legislature, known as an act to provide for the registration of titles.

At a public meeting on Monday afternoon at the rooms of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, 156 Broadway, Manhattan, the Torrens system of registering titles was explained and resolutions were unanimously passed supporting the Prentice bill. The speakers were M. J. Harson, Sidney V. Lowell, of Brooklyn; Sir Daniel O'Connor, former Postmaster General of New South Wales; Jos. L. Buttenwieser, Deputy Registrar G. W. Thompson, of Kings County, and Registrar Alfred J. Boulton. In referring to the Torrens system Sir Daniel said:

"It is the most honest, most secure, most inexpensive manner of making real estate titles. To you New Yorkers, who do more business in one month than the world's three other largest cities together do in three months, it ought to be indispensable. But you are in too much of a hurry here. You are too busy. You go to lunch and return in five minutes. With you everybody's business is nobody's business and you go along with a title registration system which is not even mediaeval—it is antediluvian. The world admires your mental greatness, but where is it if you persist in your old title system."

Jos. L. Buttenwieser alluded to conditions in 1905 when title companies were refusing much business, saying that they were physically unable to cope with the large volume that was offered. He called attention to the great need of a simpler method of registration and said that title companies would also profit by an improved system in this direction.

Deputy Registrar Thompson said that although the registrar's office of Kings County was now in new quarters these would soon be inadequate. Under the Torrens system there would be no accumulations, as old records could be destroyed. Before concluding his address the deputy registrar passed around for inspection a copy of a printed certificate of title and explained many interesting features of the system.

Growth of Fifth Avenue Values.

Recent sales have brought out the fact that lots on 5th av in the year 1818 were worth $2.13 each, but were sold by the acre, as farm land, and not as city lots. And there must have been a time when land was worth even less. More interesting is a comparison with fifty years ago, to indicate how families who then possessed lands on the avenue and were financially able to meet the taxes and costs of holding them, might have become rich. In a paper of the year 1858 the following interesting estimate of values of vacant lots on Fifth avenue appeared:

At 125th st, $1,000. At 124th st, $800. On 123d, 122d and 121st sts, there are no Fifth av lots, as the sts are all included in Mount Morris Square, consequently no price is given. At 120th, 119th, 118th and 117th sts, Fifth av lots between these sts are worth $600 and corner lots $850.

At 116th st, Messrs. Bleecker & Son sold corner 116th st and Fifth av, at $1,500—inside avenue lots, $1,200. This street is 100 ft. wide and graded from East River to Eighth av. The street lots adjoining Fifth av may be quoted at $800.

At 115th, 114th, 113th, 112th, 111th and 110th sts—as sold by Bleecker & Son, lots brought from $385 to $525 on the streets adjoining the Fifth av. On the Fifth av the corner lots brought, on 109th st, $1,600; inside lots, $1,025. On 111th, 112th and 113th sts, the Fifth av corners sold at $1,400, and inside lots on the avenue, $1,025 to $1,115.

At 109th st, lots on the streets adjoining Fifth av, sold as low as $485 to $500, while corner of Fifth av and 109th st, sold as high as $1,600, and the inside avenue lots as low as $1,025 to $1,060. At 108th and 107th sts, the average was much the same, excepting that the corner lots sold as high $1,650, and inside lots $1,100, on the Fifth av.

At 106th st—this is the north boundary of the Central Park. No auction sales on this street have been made; but private offers are made, which make it conclusive that lots on this street will bring to-day $2,500 and upwards, and the corners on Fifth av $2,500—provided the park is not to be extended to 110th st, which will probably be done.

We now come to 59th st, which is the southern boundary of the Central Park. On this street lots have sold at $7,000—25 by 100.

Lots on Fifth av, between 52d and 58th st, on Fifth av, are worth, of good grade, $5,000.

Personal.

Mr. Theodore Starrett, of the Thompson-Starrett Company, is spending a period at San Francisco.

Gen. George Moore Smith, of Candee, Smith & Howland Co., recently returned from a month's camping trip in North Carolina.

Mr. Alfred Daybill, president of Miller, Daybill & Co., Brooklyn, has been elected president of the House Movers' and Shorers' Association, to succeed Mr. Alfred J. Goodwin.

After a long stay Mr. Moses Barnett, of No. 11 East 125th st, and a party of friends, among whom were Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City; Coroner Brewer, of Brooklyn; Tax Commissioner Edward Fry, of Jersey City; Coroner's Physician Emil F. Hartung, of Brooklyn; Judge Lorenz Zeller, of the Court of Special Sessions, and School Trustee B. Walter Barnett, of Manhattan, have just returned to their northern homes, much impressed with the thriving condition of the South. In speaking of St. Augustine Mr. Barnett says it has just seen one of the most successful seasons in the history of the place. Hotels were crowded to overflowing. Mr. Barnett predicts a great future for Florida as a farming country. Heretofore, in the northerly portion of the state, where it is too cold for growing tropical fruits, the country was permitted to remain in a primitively wild condition, but now there are beautiful farms where seeds may be sown at any portion of the year and a lucrative crop gathered in four or five months. While in St. Augustine, the party were the guests of Mr. Everitt I. Matherson, of Narragansett Pier, Rhode Island, and spent a great deal of their time hunting and fishing.

No Building Loans.

More moderate prices are being asked in Brooklyn for dwellings, and consequently there is a better market. It is not unfair to say that values in some popular sections have had "exaggerated ego" for at least a year. When building loans will be easier to obtain, more "home-seekers" may be transformed into "home builders." Regarding the money situation the Herald quotes Mr. Bailey, of the T. G. &. T. Co., as saying:

"Yes, money is scarce. We are receiving many applications for loans that are not approved. Everybody seems to want money. No building loans are being made at present. If we do not have a better market for the sale of mortgages by the middle of April we won't have it this year. I believe we will have a better market and that conditions will improve."

Example of Concrete Construction.

REINFORCED CONCRETE is a material, not like structural steel, something that must be veneered or covered up; it is itself capable of giving architectural expression, which although necessarily in plain terms, may nevertheless be just as truly pleasing as the expression of brick and stone.

The new 8-sty building of Rogers & Pyatt, at 34-38 Fletcher st, designed by Ludlow & Valentine, is an attempt architecturally to make interesting without expense a loft building which is being constructed entirely of reinforced concrete. The surface of the arcaded base is tooled or hammered, exposing largely the crushed bluestone and giving a rough texture of blue gray tone. The rest of the wall surface is left very much as it comes from the forms, except for a heavy brush coat of LaFarge cement. The general color effect is a gray base, grayish white superstructure, and light green copper cornice, brackets and window fillings.

THE ROGERS & PYATT BUILDING.
34-38 Fletcher Street. Ludlow & Valentine, Architects.

When the building was first projected, the usual question arose as to the most suitable materials and methods of construction. Reinforced concrete was favored, however, because 15 per cent. was saved in the cost. The character of the owners' business required also a structure that should be as fireproof as possible; and structural steel could not be delivered under three months.

No wood is used in the building, except for the cores of the fire underwriter doors; all of the window sash and frame are of hollow metal; the glass is wired; and all openings, both doors and windows, are automatically closed in event of fire.

The claim is made by many that reinforced concrete is a treacherous and dangerous material to build with, and they instance the numerous failures that have been part of its history. It is a dangerous material for the man who wants to put up a "cheap" building. The recorded failures have been due almost invariably to the fact that certain builders, thinking that reinforced concrete is the coming thing, have rushed into this kind of construction without proper knowledge and, through ignorance, carelessness or wilful skimping, have invited disaster.

Reinforced concrete work should be entrusted only to experienced and absolutely trustworthy builders, and it is almost needless to say, there should always be an architect in charge of the designing and superintendence, for no matter how careful and conscientious the builder, his calculations, measurements and construction should be checked by a second party, not financially interested. The first and last words in reinforced concrete are, incessant superintendence, the very best of materials, methods, and men, and constant care.

This form of construction does not lend itself readily to elaboration, except as combined with other materials, nor is its use particularly economical for buildings of considerable irregularity of plan or wall surfaces. Its increasing use will doubtless, therefore, tend towards symmetry, plain wall surfaces, and effect produced by beauty of proportion rather than ornament.

We have much to learn yet in the matter of surfacing, coloring and even of constructional possibilities, but the growing scarcity of wood and the wholesome desire for more permanent materials will doubtless lead to the use of reinforced concrete, not only for the factory and loft building, but for residences, public buildings and other structures of considerable architectural pretension.

City Sells Buildings for Bridge Terminal.

Controller Metz sold on Monday the buildings 80 to 96 Park Row, 6 to 20 Chambers st, 5 to 15 Chambers st, 3 to 7 City Hall pl, 24 Reade st, 12 Centre st, and the triangle between Centre, Reade and Duane sts, being the first of the buildings which are to be razed to make room for the new Manhattan approach of the Brooklyn Bridge. All of the buildings sold must be vacated by May 1st and the ground cleared within 30 days thereafter. No. 12 Centre st brought $450, and the sum of $300 was secured for 8, 10 and 12 Chambers st. The average price per parcel paid for the balance of the buildings was about $430. The sale was conducted by Auctioneer Bryan L. Kennelly, and the majority of the purchases were made by D. Davis, a professional house-wrecker of Brooklyn.

—The bill to change the legal definition of a tenement house to mean one containing "more than three families" is being opposed by the Charity Organization Society, whose influence defeated the bill last year, as they claim that it would remove from the jurisdiction of the Tenement House Department some 22,000 existing three-family houses. Moreover, the bill is saddled with certain impossible provisions. (See Record and Guide, Feb. 16, page 356.) Commissioner Butler himself is formulating amendments to the law which will be introduced in the form of a bill in a few weeks, and these are understood to be in the direction of simplification both of the mandate and the procedure.

Landlord and Tenant.

The relation does seem to be one as provocative of mutual jealousy and recrimination as that of capital and labor, and of course for much the same reason.

Each expects to get as much out of his value given as possible, and his "quid" always worth two of the other fellow's "quos." Each really knows the relation to be one governed by dollars and cents, by supply and demand, yet is ever reaching to exact an equivalent, more often reaching to the level of a charity sought than a right—but just as vehemently demanded as if the latter rather than the former. At least so this question must ever appear in the eyes of a third and unprejudiced observer.

In early days, and more particularly under the old feudal regime of England and the Continent, the tenant was more of a vassal and follower of the lord of the land, from whom the term landlord is derived. To the eye of the twentieth century observer, the positions seem somewhat to have changed, if they have not been reversed.

From the existing conditions of early days in New-York, when the landlord leased to who would take, such building as he, the landlord, might chance to own, for such rental as the tenant or some one else might be willing to pay—a condition best illustrated in the much fought over Trinity Church tenements, where the tenants could only get a supply of water by going down to the pump or main in the back yard—up to the modern Harlem flat, where, with one month's free rent thrown in beside as a bonus, the laboring man may, or could till recently, get for $20 to $25 a month a flat of four or five rooms with bathroom, cold and perhaps even hot water attachments in every flat—the change in favor of the tenant has been great.

But all this has been fair and legitimate; a pursuit by the landlord, who was many, to cajole and catch the tenant, who was few, comparatively. But it has been greatly to the advantage of the tenant; and though the man who may (or more probably his wife may) desire to live on 5th av, fronting the park, still has to pay rent way up in the thousands for the privilege, yet the housing conditions have changed beyond possible expectation in favor of the average tenant, and at a constantly decreasing figure, as co-operative rent sharing through the apartment house system has been developed.

It is true the carpet on the stairs may become torn, the halls dusty, or the back yard clogged with empty food-cans and other objects of virtu, which in the enforced absence of goats from their native habitat, the upper part of the island, has come to accumulate, but this condition is rarely the act of the landlord; and if it were, or by his neglect, yet we have rarely heard of a New Year's good resolution by the tenants of a flat-house to abstain from throwing empty cans and other debris into the back yard or down the dumb-waiter shaft, which would not have been met by the landlord with a rebate of rents for keeping respective halls and stair flights in good order, or the appointment of a more capable janitor for the same object.

We think on the whole, the tenant, at least among the masses, has been pretty generally improving in his condition, so far as rent-paying and its product goes, and his opportunity, if so disposed, of getting square with the landlord, if feeling himself aggrieved, by the hurling about of a few buckets of dirty water and the careless use of a hammer on moving from the flat, have never been surpassed.

One real grievance he undoubtedly has had, the attempted supply by the landlord of a system of heating adequate to the need, an attempt we regret to say, more often honored in the breach than in the observance.

The latest phase of this exasperating subject has been an action for damages brought by a tenant against the landlord for damages for the death of a child, resultant as was claimed from a failure to supply a promised degree of heating to the leased flat.

The court in dismissing the action held that such a catastrophe resulting from a failure by the landlord in his contractual relation, was too remote to have been in the contemplation of the parties entering into the lease, and that the landlord was not an insurer.

Meeting of Governors of New Exchange.

The Board of Governors of the newly incorporated Real Estate Exchange of Long Island held a meeting at the Exchange offices, 5th av and 34th st, on Tuesday afternoon, at which a broad plan of action was mapped out to conserve Long Island realty interests. Among matters discussed was the Torrens system of title registration, which was indorsed by the board. President McKnight pointed out that this system would increase the volume of real estate sales and would add to the ease as well as to the safety with which transfers are effected.

A Comparison With Assessed Values.

The Globe finds that in the case of the Manhattan parcels disposed of at the Doherty sale the difference between the sale price and the assessed value averages 56 per cent. The heirs realized $700,000 more than the assessed value. One of the possible explanations, in the view of the Globe, is:

It may be that the Tax Department, without having stated it as a definite policy, is working on the theory that the level of real estate values, speaking broadly, is higher than it should be. If this is so, it is readily seen that, with the 10 per cent. debt limit figured on a basis representing speculative valuations, a reaction in prices, for whatever cause, would mean that the city was counting on tax levies that it could not collect.

Strong Demand for East Side Tenements.

Realty conditions in the lower East Side tenement section have never been brighter for owners than at the present moment. So great is the demand for investment properties on such thoroughfares as Norfolk, Essex and Suffolk sts that speculators are raising their asking prices to almost prohibitive figures. A well-known East Side operator, in referring to the earning capacity of tenements in that locality, said that it was a poor investment of this nature that did not yield a return of 12 per cent. on the total cost of land and building. At this rate a $55,000 tenement should produce a gross rental of $6,600.

Marked Activity on Jersey Shore.

The Hudson City section of Jersey City is already beginning to feel the effects of the many vast transit improvements rapidly nearing completion. As stated, values there are now taking an upward trend.

With the opening of the spring season, the Realty Company of New Jersey is resuming work on its sixty-acre tract in the Greenville section, known as Greenville Heights.

A Much Needed Improvement.

The recent purchase by The Fruit Auction Company of a plot 87x123, containing 10,700 sq. ft., at the northwest corner of Franklin and Washington sts, Manhattan, was brought about by the growing necessities of this branch of the produce business. The new 6-sty building which is to be erected on the plot will contain many conveniences. The cellar of the structure will be available for display purposes, having outside light by the first floor being on a 3-ft. level from the sidewalk. The first floor will be given up to showing green and dried fruits, with a special auction salesroom. Three passenger and freight elevators will be installed, besides a telegraph and central telephone station. The offices of the company will be on the second floor, and will occupy space from the west end of Franklin st to within about 50 ft. of Washington st. At this end of the building will be an amphitheatre and the main auction salesroom. Three electrically operated tables will lift from the cellar such products as will be displayed. The remaining floors will be divided into offices.

The Reason.

The Doherty dispersal was an epoch-making sale, and many learned reasons have been given for the high prices obtained, but after all is said, and aside from the auctioneer's work, the fundamental reason was the favorable terms of sale. Seventy per cent. can remain on bond and mortgage. The offering appealed to a far larger number of men than if the terms had been more difficult to meet. With the same terms offered, the coming auction sale of the Ogden estate, situated in the best part of the Bronx, is likely to be another proof of the saying.

$1,250,000 Lease.

Sidney S. Cohen and George Brettell & Son leased for Louis Houpner to Harry Levy the southwest cor of Lexington av and 125th st, a 2-story building, 35x100, for sixty-three years. The property adjoints the site of the new Harlem Savings Bank and is at a proposed subway station.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & C. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Cliam deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existingg ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

March 29, 30, April 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Transformation of Kingsbridge Section.

WITH the subway in operation to 230th st, and the prospects of an additional spur to 246th st by May next, the residents of the suburbs along this route are being brought to a realization that they have at last become a part of the great metropolis of the City of New York.

The Island of Marble Hill is well built up and prettily outlined with artistic cottages. Just across Spuyten Duyvil Creek, to the north, can be seen another and older colony of dwellings. These front on Tibbett and Corlear av, between 230th and 231st sts, and contain five or six rooms and rent for $13 to $16 per month.

A little farther up there are more frame houses with the same number of rooms, but somewhat larger, that rent at $18 to $25 a month, the only improvements being water and gas. I. G. Johnson & Co., manufacturers of steel castings, employ a large number of hands, many of them residing in the aforesaid premises. The work of grading Broadway has been very slow, the severe winter weather helping to retard matters.

Valuations throughout this section are somewhat difficult to classify, there being scarcely any comparisons, with all kinds of prices. Mr. A. O. Whaley, with an office in 230th st, opposite the Kingsbridge Depot, said that he had been engaged in the real estate business in this vicinity for seventeen years. In quoting figures, he pointed out a full city lot on the west side of Broadway, midway between stations, being several feet below grade, which is held for $20,000.

On the south side of 234th st (not yet opened), with 100 ft. on Broadway, running through to Kingsbridge av, stand three old frame buildings, having seven to ten rooms each, for which an offer of $55,000 has been refused.

Among the largest estates in this region are those of Joseph Delafield and August Van Cortlandt. A row of eight 3-sty brick flats has just been completed on the east side of Bailey av, south of 230th st. Many of the apartments are still vacant.

Victory for Brokers.

A decision of importance to brokers has been made in the Supreme Court, in which Weiderman & Co. and Louis Majud as brokers, negotiated an exchange by Charles Katz of certain property of his for a lot at 147th st and Dater av, and also the sale by Katz of this lot to one Lomonte. The commissions were fixed at $900, but Mr. Katz would pay but $200, at the making of the contract, and as to the balance of $700, an agreement was made with the brokers that it should be payable only when Lomonte should pay a $10,000 purchase money mortgage to be given by him on taking title.

On the day set for closing, Lomonte having assigned his contract to one Glasser, Katz gave title to this Glasser, who gave back the above purchase money mortgage. Lawyer Jacob Friedman, of 302 Broadway, for the brokers, contended that in giving title to Glasser and taking his purchase money bond and mortgage instead of Lomonte, Katz had been guilty of a breach of contract with the brokers, which entitled them to their commissions, regardless of whether the mortgage was paid or not.

Counsel for Katz showed that Lomonte, while not taking title, signed the bond together with Glasser. Nevertheless, Lawyer Friedman's view of the law was accepted by Judge Truax, who directed the jury to find a verdict for $700 and $21 interest. The judgment has been paid without appeal.

This decision is of importance to brokers, because it frequently happens that when the deal is all made and the broker has really earned his commissions, he is compelled to sign an agreement making his commissions payable only on certain conditions.

This decision holds that in that event, the dealer must live up strictly to his agreement with the brokers, and any departure thereform, entitles the broker to his commission, notwithstanding that the conditions imposed on the broker never transpired.

Description of Matheson Garage.

The Matheson garage, at 748-750 7th av and 1618-1620 Broadway, of which Marvin & Davis, 1133 Broadway, are architects, will be a reinforced concrete building, with concrete walls, piers, girders, beams, floors, etc., five stories and basement in height, and absolutely fireproof in all parts. The foundations and walls are to be arranged so that an addition of three stories may be made at any time hereafter. The upper floors will be arranged for repair and stock room, with ample skylight, as well as light from streets and windows. Three intermediate floors will be used for the repository or garage, and be capable of accommodating approximately 150 cars. The first floor on the 7th av side will be the main entrance for the automobiles. In front of this on the Broadway side will be a magnificent show room about 36x48 ft. in size, with an ornamental bronze balcony across the rear, acting as a mezzanine with office. This mezzanine will be carried around the 7th av entrance and will be used for a locker gallery, where each patron will be permitted to have a locker 24x36-in. x 7 ft. high, for storing any supplies or clothing, etc., he cares to leave at the garage. The basement is arranged for trucking department with repair pits, oil storage, etc., complete. The building is designed with two large elevators having a lifting capacity of 12,000 lbs. each, with a turntable on each floor, for the convenience of handling cars if required.

The walls and ceilings will be decorated throughout; the show room at the Broadway entrance will be elaborate; the floors will be of white oak laid herring-bone and finished in wax; the wainscot will be 11 ft. 6 in. in height running around the room. This will be in Flemish oak with dark green burlap panels. The architects have taken pains in arranging reflectors and lights in this room to make it a show room to properly exhibit the magnificent cars. The columns and pilasters will be of Scagliola marble, supporting the mezzanine floor and a plaster ceiling, all decorated in a handsome manner. Off the show room will be a ladies' retiring room, also one for gentlemen, with necessary lavatory and toilet conveniences. The show room and main 7th av entrance will be separated by a vestibule to screen the noise of the motors from the sales room. Over the front doors will be a marquise of wrought-iron and glass, which will harmonize with the rest of the front. The building will have cement floors throughout, with carriage wash, gasoline, oil and mop closets on each floor. It will be equipped with compressed air for inflating tires, etc., throughout. The chauffeurs' rooms on the 7th av side of the builing on the second floor have been arranged with all necessary conveniences. Each chauffeur will have a metal locker and access to shower bath and other luxuries, which are provided with their quarters. The general offices of the company will be on the second floor, just over the show room on the Broadway front. It is expected to have the building completed about the first of the coming year, if the weather permits, and business established in the new home before the Automobile Show, which takes place in January.

The most desirable class of tenants are those who can afford to pay a good rent. They usually wont unless the store has all the modern improvements. If it hasn't Luxfer Prisms it is not up-to-date. THIS week's stock market has been, strictly speaking, a professional one. Stocks have gone up and down without any apparent reason, although alleged reasons were as plentiful as blackberries. Operations for foreign account were in light volume and were conducted on both sides of the market with no marked result. There were periods of strength, but prices failed to hold and reactions came with unremitting regularity. Undoubtedly, neither the party operating for higher prices nor the party operating for lower had any positive conviction as to the future or a decided programme to carry out. There is still unquestionably considerable concern as to what may be the outcome of the differences existing between the Chief Executive and the notable railroad magnate and his associates. No one can say what would happen should these gentlemen, at the instance of the Interstate Commerce Commission, be called upon by the federal courts to answer questions as to which they had pleaded privilege. This matter hanging over the market was just as good an excuse as any other to account for its dulness and irregularity. The lower prices in copper metal quotations on the New York Metal Exchange acted as a damper on copper stocks and securities. Since March 15 it has fallen about two cents a pound. Although holders of Amalgamated Copper have repeatedly proclaimed that there would be an increase in the dividend at the next meeting of the directors, it is said that although there is plenty of money in the treasury to put the rate on a ten per cent. basis, the existing rate will still be retained. Attacks on certain stocks like Erie and Southern Railway issues have continued without any justification, according to those who control these properties. Moreover, the bear element have been doing their best to get up a crop scare, with so far little result. Money on time and call still continues easy, the latter at about 2 per cent., and general railroad earnings are in the highest degree encouraging.

IT is refreshing to find on the part of a prominent real estate owner and operator views as to the future development of New York as enlightened as those of Mr. Chas. T. Barney. He sees clearly that the property-owners themselves suffer more than any other class in the community from the inconveniences of the existing city plan, and that the bestowal on the municipal authorities of the power to condemn more land than that actually needed for an improvement is a condition of any improvement of the street system of New York. If a larger proportion of the owners of real estate understood the importance of street improvements as clearly as does Mr. Barney there might be some chance of securing for the city officials the necessary powers; but the amount of general public interest provoked by the idea is still comparatively small. The friends of the improvement of New York in conveniences and in good looks should recognize the fact that the obstacles in their path are at the present time so formidable that they cannot be overcome without the assistance of a much larger and more vigorous body of public opinion. Nothing of any importance in this direction can be accomplished until at least two amendments to the State constitution have been passed, one dealing with the debt limit and the other with the power of condemnation, and we all know how much agitation is necessary before constitutional amendments can be passed. In the meantime the plan of the City Improvement Commission must remain a dead scheme because the city authorities, on those occasions when they are obliged to plan a new or widen an old street will be obliged to adopt the cheapest arrangement which will serve the purpose. Only last week the financial advisory commission pointed out that the city could not borrow enough money during the next five years to meet its most pressing necessities; and the consequence is that the plans for a new Court House and new parks are already being abandoned. The available money will have to be spent on such necessary improvements as schoolhouses, subways, docks and the like. It can be argued that certain street improvements are quite as necessary as new subways, and a good deal can be said in favor of such a contention, but such is not the general or official opinion. If a new or widened street is absolutely necessary, as it will be for a better approach to the Blackwell's Island Bridge, the Board of Estimate will not be able even to consider the liberal plan of the City Improvement Commission, which provides for the condemnation of several entire blocks. It will be obliged to adopt the cheapest possible means of providing for the increase of transverse traffic. It is a short-sighted policy; but what can be done? In spite of the enormous wealth of New York, its municipal resources are very much smaller apparently than its municipal responsibilities.

THE number of projects for building coöperative apartment houses are constantly increasing. A new one has recently been announced for the corner of Park Avenue and Seventy-seventh Street, which makes the sixth building of this kind which is being or is about to be constructed. It is to be remarked that these projects are intended less and less for the accommodation of artists. The studio, extending through two floors, which was an essential part of the plan of the first buildings, is becoming incidental in the plans of the latter buildings; and this change obviously increases the appeal of the buildings for a vastly larger number of people. These studios were indispensable to painters, but they are a mere waste of space to a layman. It may be expected that in the course of a few years the studio feature will entirely disappear, and that the coöperative buildings will contain a certain number single or duplex apartments of the ordinary type. So far the coöperative building projects have been uniformly successful, and unless the market is over-stocked there is no reason to suppose that they will not continue to be successful. They assuredly enable a subscriber to live on Manhattan Island more comfortably for less money than in any other known way. An apartment that costs from $16,000 to $18,000 in the building just completed at Sixty-sixth Street and Lexington Avenue will rent anywhere from $3,000 to $3,500 a year. This shows a very handsome margin of profit, so large, indeed, that speculative builders are asking to obtain their share of it. Several of the newer projects have been organized by speculators who are seeking to squeeze as much as possible of the profits into their own pockets, and this is the chief danger which threatens the increased popularity of these coöperative schemes. Subscribers, before putting their money in such ventures, should be very careful as to the conservatism of its financial scheme and as to the distribution of the profit.

GOVERNOR HUGHES certainly gains upon acquaintance. As the Record and Guide predicted, he has been forced to bring pressure to bear upon the Legislature, in order to secure the adoption of his bills, and both the spirit and the matter with which he argues his cause are admirable. His defence, for instance, of the provision in the bills which makes the new commissioners appointable and removable by the Governor was admirable. By no other means can full responsibility, coupled with independence, be secured. If the commissioners were elected, they would become the creatures of the political machines, and their responsibility would be obscured by a hundred other questions concerning local and state politics. But if they are appointed by the Governor and removable by him, they cannot avoid their responsibility to the Governor. Neither can he avoid his responsibility to the people. The Governor, as chief executive, should possess complete authority over all subordinate executive officials, and just in proportion as these officials are responsible or only remotely responsible in the exercise of their duties, just in that proportion will the state be inefficiently served. The Governor, in insisting upon the principle of centralized executive responsibility, is standing for one of the most valuable principles in American politics; and his attitude is all the more commendable because that principle is not so popular as it deserves to be. The Record and Guide most emphatically wishes that the local commissioners were going to be appointed by the Mayor instead of by the Governor; but we would rather have them appointed by the Governor than elected by popular vote. The multiplication of elective officials merely confuses the voters and makes it difficult for them to express a decisive opinion; and it is far better to have one chief executive responsible to the people for executive appointments and the rest of the officials responsible to him for executive behavior. It should be remarked, also, that the Governor has consented to the amendment of his bills in several important respects; and every amendment is by way of being an improvement. In the first place the expenses of the local commission are to be paid partly by the state, which is only just inasmuch as it is a state commission, and inasmuch as all the fines and fees collected are deposited in the State Treasury In the second place, the commissioners are to be paid $17,500 a year instead of $10,000, which will enable the Governor to secure the service of a much better equipped and abler body of experts. Finally, the prohibition contained in the bill against the acquisition by one corporation of the capital stock of another corporation which owns an extension or a "feeder" is to be removed, as it certainly should be. The state has no interest in preventing a railroad from acquiring any proper facilities for doing a larger business.

The Federal Government and the Railroads.

THE recent liquidation in Wall Street may be traced to a great many causes, some of which are exclusively financial and economic. But it is evident that the lack of loanable capital, compared to the great needs of the railroad companies, and the probability that their earnings will not continue to increase during the current year, are not sufficient to account for the great fall in prices which has recently taken place and the panic-stricken condition of the stock market. More important than the exclusively economic and financial reasons for the decline has been certain reasons derived from political conditions. The whole existing railroad management of the country has been, of late, attacked with the utmost vigor by the press, and these attacks have been seconded by acts of manifest hostility on the part both of the Federal and many State governments. There is a disposition in Wall Street to make President Roosevelt responsible for these attacks and to concentrate on him the blame for all the losses which have been suffered by the holders of railroad securities all over the country. In fact, denunciation of Roosevelt has become a positive mania with the average inhabitant of Wall Street. He is charged with having unloosed upon the railroad companies the hail-storm of hostile state legislation. The fact is recalled to mind that only a few months ago, Secretary Root was sent to New York for the purpose of declaring either that the States must live up to their duties in preventing corporate aggrandizement, or else they must pass this duty on to the Federal government. It is claimed that the State legislatures have simply taken this warning to heart, and have been trying to treat the railroads within their jurisdiction in the same fashion that President Roosevelt has wanted to treat the interstate railroads.

It is undoubtedly true that President Roosevelt's campaign against the railroads has stimulated hostile legislation on the part of the State legislatures. It is also true that much of this hostile State legislation is unwise and unjust, and will be ineffective. But what is the inference to be drawn from these truths? Is it merely that President Roosevelt is a bad man and has been pursuing a false policy? Is it that the railroads are injured and innocent corporations, which have done nothing to justify public reprobration or to warrant a larger amount of public control? Is is that President Roosevelt should chide the State Legislatures for their wicked conduct, and ask them to stop their persecution of the good railroad companies? All of these inferences are frequently drawn, but none of them can make any appeal to a clear and disinterested intelligence. If Mr. Roosevelt made any mistake in instigating Secretary Root's speech in New York, it was the mistake of not asserting more emphatically in the speech that the State governments were not really competent to regulate effectively corporations doing an interstate business. The proper inference to be drawn from the whole incident is that the task of regulating the large corporations in the public interest should be bestowed upon the federal authorities. The federal authorities alone are competent to establish efficient regulations, and are in a position to realize a national policy in respect to railroad and other large corporations at once conservative and reformatory.

That the owners and managers of the large corporations in this country have never appreciated the necessity of allying themselves with the Federal government is a flagrant exposure of their political unintelligence. No doubt they benefited greatly from the lax corporation laws of certain of the States, and no doubt they liked the comparative freedom from effective control which they obtained either by local legislative incompetence or else by the exercise of corrupt or semi-corrupt political influence. But they should have understood that the American democratic self-respect could not continue to watch the spectacle of corporate aggrandizement without eventually protesting in the most vigorous manner; and they should have understood that if there was to be regulation, the regulation by the Federal authorities was likely to be less injurious to their interests than regulation by the authorities of the separate States. Hostile and unjust State legislation is not a novel or an unprecedented thing. For years the railroads have been appealing to the Federal courts against rate legislation by certain of the State governments, which was claimed to be confiscatory. It is the Federal constitution which is the great stronghold of American propertied interests, and the corporations could confidently expect from the government organized under the Federal constitution equitable treatment. Their bitter opposition to the first proposals in the direction of Federal interference and responsibility is a sufficient indication that they really did not want fair treatment. What they really wanted was an indefinite continuation of their enjoyment of unfair privileges; and what they chiefly resented was any attempt to deprive them of the illicit opportunities of which they had, up to that time, been possessed.

The present desire of Mr. Harriman and other railroad presidents to "coöperate" with the Federal government simply means that they have more to fear from hostile State than they have from hostile national legislation. But whatever the motive of this change in attitude, it unquestionably is a change in the right direction. An increase of Federal power in the regulation of corporations engaged in interstate commerce will be a change in the public interest; but it will be equally a desirable change in the interest of the corporations themselves. The big corporations have been in the past alternately the beneficiaries and the victims of State legislation. Their whole legal standing and their policy in respect to the public was determined by the fact that they were really bigger and more powerful than the public authorities which were supposed to control them; and this matter of comparative size stimulated both blackmail and corruption. But the big corporations are not big enough to corrupt the Federal government, and the Federal authorities occupy positions of such responsibility and publicity that blackmail is out of the question. Coöperation between the large corporations and the national government might lead to the gradual adoption of a body of Federal corporation law, that would at once regulate and confirm the existing economic organization of the country. What the large American railroads and industrial companies need are laws which will emancipate them from arbitrary and unintelligent control, and which, while protecting the public interest, would leave them free to complete the efficient economic organization that has been commenced. Such laws they might get from Congress after a sufficient campaign of education; but the corporations will never get them from a group of irresponsible, semi-responsible, or semi-corrupt State Legislatures. Their one chance of obtaining a satisfactory legal framework for their economic purposes and activities is that of welcoming Federal control, and securing from the Federal government a body of corporation laws conceived in the spirit of a national economic organization.

Appraisers and Brokers.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The remarks by Mr. Charles Griffith Moses published in your issue of April 6th, on the subject of the essential qualifications of an appraiser, were read by me with great interest, and as a member of that profession, I trust that your well-read pages will afford space for a slightly dissenting view.

I agree on the wisdom of specializing, but am not so sure that the broadest and most perfectly balanced judgment of the appraiser can be developed by specializing as to a given section, he must also give attention to the tendency of other localities which may bear upon its future, in other words, the broader the field covered by him the more accurate his judgment. I do not think that this rule applies to brokerage, for, as Mr. Moses suggests, the more thoroughly a broker specializes as to a given section, the greater his efficiency. Unquestionably the agent and broker's office is the field or school of the appraiser for his initial work, and if this can be supplemented by a fairly broad experience on the other side of the question, for instance, by representing the financial interests of one of our larger institutions or title companies in the real estate field, and this is made available by a complete set of records such as executors, trustees and the courts must accept, then I would consider the preparation for the entering upon the profession of appraiser fairly complete.

At this point, I take issue with Mr. Moses. The actual participation in brokerage work does, as he suggests, tend to specialization in some localities, and this may cause the broker-appraiser to loose sight of the effect on his own district of a development in another section outside of his immediate experience, which may finally determine the future of both.

Then, too, there is always a possibility of a confusion in the mind of the broker-appraiser as to his real duty: as a broker he feels bound to do all he can for his principal and employer, and as an appraiser he feels bound to hold the scales evenly balanced; and, if the result is sometimes a compromise between these two tendencies, although it may be an unconscious one, or one that is deliberately made with the intent to be perfectly fair to both interests, it is always undesirable.

Several transactions of considerable magnitude which have been recorded quite recently, and which it is not necessary to specifically mention here, will suggest themselves to your readers as cases in point, and sustain my contention that an appraiser should absolutely refuse to act as broker at any time.

There is a further reason why the two occupations are not entirely compatible. The mature and evenly balanced judgment requisite in the appraiser's work cannot be entirely reconciled with the optimistic enthusiasm and zeal for his client's interests so essential to the broker's best efforts and results, and so entirely foreign to the office of the appraiser. Yours truly,

HERBERT R. SNYDER.

Title Companies and the Torrens System

President Kelsey Has No Fear That the Title Companies Will Be Driven Out of Business.

CONCEDING that the Torrens system is desirable, is there any possibility of its being applied to conditions of today in Greater New York? All the real estate boards of brokers in the several boroughs have declared for the system, and, theoretically, it would in some respects at least be a fine thing if real estate could be transferred as readily and cheaply as stocks and bonds. Parenthetically, there are some objections even to this availability, for if real estate could be whisked away and put out of sight in a moment, ownership of real estate might no longer be the soundest basis for credit or the most stable investment for oneself or his children—if there is any fear of it being spent when in liquid shape.

As the title companies had not yet contributed to the present discussion, President Kelsey, of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, was asked yesterday for an expression of his views, and at the risk, as he said, of being accused of bias and actuated by self-interest because of the supposed menace of the Torrens bill to the business of the title companies he ventured to state some of the facts which seem to him to be left out of account as immaterial in discussing the application of the system to New York City conditions:

"The system is considered reasonably successful in Australia, where it was put in operation practically as soon as the land began to leave the Crown and go into individual ownership. So it would have succeeded if old Peter Minuit had established it when he bought Manhattan Island from the Indians for $24. It may succeed in the Philippines, where the land records are to commence de novo. It has not succeeded in any State of the Union, in spite of the impression that the advocates of the system have attempted to create. In the nature of things, it cannot succeed. To be constitutional it has to be made a court proceeding; in fact, a lawsuit between the man who thinks he owns the property and anyone who may think he has a claim on it. Even after the lawsuit is decided and the decree entered it does not become conclusive until a statute of limitations, generally of two years, has run against all unknown claimants.

"Imagine the business of New York being transacted under this system. In Chicago, where the system has been in operation for eight years, they have succeeded in registering 2,000 titles, or at the rate of 250 per year. In Massachusetts the limit of the capacity of the court for the whole State is stated to be 400 cases per annum. The Title Guarantee & Trust Company closed last year more than 24,000 separate titles. There were probably closed in the whole city fully 100,000 separate titles. How would New York like to slow down to 400 titles a year? Would the boards of brokers who are passing resolutions endorsing the merits of the Torrens system find business better under such conditions? Or would they have the court big enough to dispose of its 100,000 lawsuits a year? If so, how big would the court have to be and what would the system cost?

"This question of cost has not been discussed, so far as appears, by any of the advocates of the system, but either the owners who register their titles will have to pay the State more than they now pay the title companies, or else the general body of taxpayers will have to stand a great burden of expense to enable the State to register titles for little or nothing for the benefit of the active speculators. The Title Guarantee & Trust Company employed last year 1,466 persons to examine and close its 24,000 titles, and the expenses of the company in doing the work were 70 per cent. of the fees collected; and that is the best record of any title company, some of them spending as much as 90 per cent. of their total fees in doing the work. As a matter of fact, most of this profit comes from the extra fees in making mortgage loans, and if these were eliminated it would be found that there was practically no profit on the title examination and insurance.

"But, considering that there is an average profit of 20 per cent. to the title insurance companies on all their business, is that an excessive one, considering that it has to pay for the risk? And if, with the best skill and the most careful supervision, corporations, organized for selfish profit, can make no better showing, what is it likely to cost the State on the known basis of expense of all such intricate work when done by city or State departments? If it were right to establish the system, it could not be done without adding largely to the expense, and the burden would fall on the individual buyer if he paid the full cost, or on the general taxpayers if he didn't. But if it were not wasteful, and if it were not so slow that it is practically impossible, is there any reason why the State should undertake to do it? It has put it off so long and titles are now so long and complicated, that to make sure of a title is work requiring great professional skill and labor. Should the State assume the particular professional burden rather than any other, like medical service or engineering service, or should it assume the risk any more than the fire or life insurance risk? Not all require medical service; not all title examination service; not all require life insurance or title insurance. Why should all—that is the State—pay for the comparatively few who do require the one or the other?

"The title insurance companies understand their business and have no fear that they will be driven out of it. They found the real estate owner burdened by an extremely tedious and expensive system. They, at great risk originally, attempted to establish a better one, and succeeded. They have cut out much of the delay and much of the expense. When once they have guaranteed a title it can be transferred now readily in forty-eight hours for a small charge. The advocates of the Torrens system, when they are forced to admit the inevitable slowness with which titles can be registered the first time, look forward to the time when they can be transferred afterward in an hour's time. But when you consider that at the rate at which the Massachusetts court can transact business it will take 200 years to get the titles of Greater New York all registered; and consider what the cost of that operation would be? Is it worth while to make the experiment?

"Does anyone think that the title companies, with the magnificent service they are now rendering, are likely to be run out of business by any such system as that? Does the public have any desire to undertake the job and pay the bill for the benefit of the few who grudge the title companies the margin of an average profit of less than 20 per cent. on the fees collected for carrying the risk and furnishing the facilities and protection which they do?"

Explanation from the Real Estate Board.

We are indebted to the Real Estate Board of Brokers of New York for the following explanation of the Torrens system:

The Prentice Bill provides that land titles be registered by the county in which the land lies, that once it has been determined in whom the title now vests a certificate to this effect shall be issued to the owner and thereupon the work done in investigating the records regarding that particular piece of property and that particular owner shall be regarded as done, and as to be taken for granted in all subsequent transactions. From now on every new transaction cancels the previous one, and there is no more dragging along of "dead wood."

The machinery necessary to carry this out is of the simplest. Bonded county clerks, and, in the counties of New York, Kings and Westchester, bonded registers are to be registrars of title.

And two or more bonded attorneys, appointed for each county by the Supreme Court are to be examiners of titles, and legal examiners to the registrars.

Persons claiming title are to file applications containing usual legal data in the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court, or of the County Court of the county. Thereupon notice is sent to all who may have any interest in the land that they may have the opportunity of opposing the application or filing cross applications. If then there is no opposition, the court may confirm the title and order it registered. Incidentally, too, the court may determine in whom the title is really vested, and may remove clouds from titles, the decrees so made being conclusive. Persons, however, who, through some irregularity, have been deprived of their just rights, may bring objection to such a decree within two years, and if sustained may recover their monetary interest in the land.

The court having given its decree, the clerk signs a certificate giving the effect of this decree and files it with the registrar, who registers it. Every certificate of title bears date of issue, seal of registrar, the sequence number of the title, the particulars regarding himself, regarding incumbrances on title, as stated by the owner in application.

Original certificates are kept on file, duplicates given to owner against receipt. The tide then takes effect as of the date of the decree ordering registration. Title to registered land by length of possession is precluded. Registered land is subject to the same burdens and incidents attaching to unregistered land. Transfer of land is made simply by filing instrument of transfer in the registrar's office. One-tenth of 1 per cent. of the value of the land, as determined by the registrar, is to be paid on the issue of the certificate of title, this money to serve as an indemnity fund to reimburse any person wrongfully deprived of his interest in the land through a mistake of the registrar.

The action in such an event is to be brought against the treasurer of the county within ten years of the date of the registry of title. Additional fees are $5 clerk fee on filing the petition, $15 on referring the application for initial registration and $2 for granting and registering the title. On registering a transfer of title a fee of $3 is charged. The time necessary for the initial registration is about thirty days, the time for transfers of property six hours.

The Board of Examiners and the Building Department.

A CONTROVERSY of several years' standing between the Superintendent of Buildings in the Borough of Manhattan and the Board of Examiners was brought to a determination by the Corporation Counsel, William B. Ellison, in an opinion rendered by him on Tuesday last, in which he sustains the action of the Board of Examiners in a typical case and reverses an opinion of former Corporation Counsel Rives, rendered in 1903. The Board of Examiners recently approved of three appeals made to it, each being a case of a proposed alteration to an important building, and each had been disapproved by the Superintendent of Buildings for the Borough of Manhattan. The Board issued its certificates of approval, but the Superintendent refused to recognize the right of the Board to pass on the questions involved, and the usual approval of the Bureau of Buildings was withheld in each case. After some clamoring by the applicants for their "permits," the Superintendent of Buildings requested an opinion from the Corporation Counsel as to the right of the Board of Examiners to pass on these applications. In answer to that request the Superintendent was advised by Acting Corporation Counsel Sterling that the Rives opinion of 1903 correctly construed the statutes as to the relative powers of the Superintendent of Buildings and the Board of Examiners.

It coming to the knowledge of the Board of Examiners that the old opinion had been repeated, the Chairman of the Board promptly requested the Corporation Counsel to open up the question and to give the Board a hearing. Mr. Ellison acceded to this request and appointed a time for the hearing. The hearing was given by Mr. Ellison in person. The Superintendent of Buildings for Manhattan was invited to the hearing and was present. The argument made by the Board of Examiners was to the effect that the apparent meaning of Sections 410 and 411 of the Greater New York Charter is to confine the Superintendent of Buildings to administering the building laws and ordinances in accordance with their exact text, and these sections confer on him no sole discretionary power to vary or modify the Code in any particular whatever. In one class of cases, to wit, where there are practical difficulties in the way of carrying out the strict letter of the law—this class of cases frequently arising and being for the most part unimportant—a Superintendent of Buildings (Section 410) may vary or modify any existing law or ordinance, but before such modification is granted a certificate therefor must be issued, and the same shall be countersigned by the President of the Borough. In all other cases (Section 411) authority to vary the law or ordinances relating to buildings is vested solely in the Board of Examiners. If this be so, and the Superintendent of Buildings believed that the three applications submitted to him were not in accordance with the laws and ordinances, it was his duty to reject them, as he did. The final determination of these cases rested with the Board of Examiners and with the Board alone. After the Board had acted affirmatively in these cases it became the duty of the Superintendent of Buildings to issue the usual form of permit and to include by proper reference therein the action of the Board of Examiners.

The Board also called attention to the Rives opinion of 1903, wherein the word "or" was construed to mean "and," thus practically defeating the intent of the Charter in conferring on the Board of Examiners more extended powers over the subject matter of appeals than was provided in the Consolidation Act of 1882 as amended in 1885. The word "or" is a connective that marks an alternative, while "and" is a conjunctive or conjoining word that signifies that a word or part of a sentence is to be added to what precedes it.

In the course of the hearing the Corporation Counsel raised the question as to the intent of the Charter to give the Board of Examiners the right to review an affirmative decision of the Superintendent of Buildings. In reply it was stated that the Board believed that in any case where a Superintendent grants a permit to carry out work that is unlawful the Board can, upon a proper presentation of facts to it, review the act of the Superintendent in issuing an unlawful permit, with the final result that such permit would have to be revoked. It was stated that no such case had been presented, and until one was presented the Board did not care to cross that bridge.

At the close of the hearing Mr. Ellison directed that Appeal No. 6 of 1907 be taken as a typical case, and that a brief relating thereto be submitted to him. Accordingly this was done and a decision quite promptly followed. Mr. Ellison says, in part, as follows:

After a very careful re-examination of the whole controversy, I am of the opinion that the true intent and meaning of the change made by the Charter of 1897, Section 649 (Revised Charter, Section 411), in the matter of appeals to the Board of Examiners from a decision of the Superintendent, is that in addition to the two cases provided for in Section 540 of the Consolidation Act, an appeal may now be taken whenever a Superintendent of Buildings rejects or refuses to approve the mode, manner of construction or materials proposed to be followed or used in the erection or alteration of a building or structure.

I am therefore constrained to hold that the word "or" which precedes the old matter in the charter should be given its ordinary disjunctive meaning.

There may arise questions contemplated by the charter, which are broader than the two instances found in Section 504 of the Consolidation Act.

I therefore advise you (the Board of Examiners) that you acted within you powers and jurisdiction in entertaining the appeal No. 6, 1907, and your decision therein is final and should be carried into effect by the Superintendent of Buildings.

The importance of this decision to owners, architects and builders can scarcely be overestimated. An appeal board is a very necessary provision for the proper administration of building laws. The building laws or ordinances in every large city in the United States contain such provision, and nowhere is the right of appeal from an adverse decision of a Superintendent of Buildings more necessary than in New York. The opinion rendered by Corporation Counsel Ellison finally establishes the powers and jurisdiction of the Board of Examiners as was intended by the Charter makers, and the benefits therefrom will become more and more apparent as time passes.

Extortionate Charges.

Complaints have been coming in from property owners and agents on account of excessive charges of the plumbers who get the work of installing water-meters on the Water Department's order. These artists have been known to spend a week on a job that could be done in a day, and their bills are nearly always exorbitant. The Comptroller himself has now taken up the matter and has issued an order that will afford property interests some protection:

I am going to request the Commissioner of Water Supply to notify this department in every instance where he gets an order to install a meter, and I will then have a practical plumber give an estimate as to what the job is worth, and will not pay the bills rendered by the city's plumber until the owner has his chance to protest, in case they are too high. I will see that he gets this chance before the bill becomes a lien on the property.

"This system of extortion is most annoying," said a member of a firm of East Side operators, "and while in most instances the hardship falls on the property owner, the bills are not unfrequently paid by the tenant, who, under the terms of his lease, is often obliged to liquidate charges of this nature.

"A feature of the system against which I most vigorously protest lies in the laxity of the Water Register in not giving reasonable notice to the owner. We recently entered one of our buildings and found plumbers at work making connections, and upon making a complaint were informed that proper notice had previously been served upon the janitor, who denied it. The method employed by the department is unjust because it does not allow us an opportunity to secure outside bids."

Hiram Rinaldo, of 233 Grand st, said that the main objection to the meter system could be traced to the excessive charges which owners have been obliged to meet. It also appears that attempts are made to install more water-meters in a building than conditions warrant.

THE REALM OF BUILDING

Building Status.

ONLY about half as many buildings have been projected in Manhattan this year so far as were planned last year in the same time, and according to our report of last week the Bronx has arranged for only 413 buildings this year, as against 590 in 1906. For both boroughs the aggregate estimated cost of this year's projects is about one-half of last year's, or in round numbers about twenty-three million dollars. Even so, this is three million dollars ahead of the record for the corresponding period in 1904, though it is thirteen millions behind the 1905 record, which was the best building year on the whole we have ever had. The total amount of money loaned on mortgages in Manhattan, so far as mortgages filed may tell the story, has been $120,000,000 approximately, as compared with $87,000,000 last year, but in the Bronx the mortgage loans for the two periods, as represented by the filings, are almost equal.

It is undeniable that there is less color and distinction in the building situation than was hoped for at this time. While yet too early for construction work to be fairly started, it is not too early for better terms from Capital, and more willingness on the part of the public at large to buy real estate mortgages. After all, the public itself, meaning the people of the whole country having money to put out, is responsible for the building situation here. Knowledge of the extreme valuations that have been put on New York suburban property has spread throughout the country, and bankers and investors are not buying the real estate mortgages offered by our title companies in as large amounts as they otherwise would. Our tax-exempt mortgages ought to be well thought of, but the plenteous flow of money which was to spring from the Recording Tax law has not yet arrived.

Points on the Material Market.

Laths are dropping back to old figures.

Copper prices are being shaded from the high marks of last winter and fall.

Since the first of the year business from this territory for structural steel has been quiet. During March the American Bridge Co. booked 42,000 tons.

There is a good volume of business in engines and electrical equipment for small power plants, designed for use in office buildings and hotels, and there are indications that the trade in that line this year will be unusually heavy in this vicinity.

Hudson River brick quotations have not been so low in eight years, as are the current wholesale prices in this market. When good bricks are obtainable for $5 or less per M., and Light Hards are fetching a figure so low that manufacturers are ashamed to name it, it is unnecessary to say that all the starch is out of the market. Unwarranted shipments from the works have raised such a surplus that dealers are getting all but the very best material at their own valuation. Five dollars and a half was the topmost quotation on Thursday. The Hudson River Brick Manufacturers' Association will meet in the Palatine at Newburgh next Tuesday, William K. Hammond presiding. Robert T. Boyd Secretary.

Success Promised for Building Bureaus' Ball.

Everything promises a flattering success for the third annual ball of the Associated Employees of the Building Bureaus, representing the department attaches in all five boroughs of the city, which has been set for the evening of April 16 (Tuesday next), at the Lexington Avenue Opera House, in East 58th st. The association officers have invited the heads of the various city departments to help them enjoy the good time they have planned for. The ball will open with a special vaudeville show by professional entertainers in the decorated ballroom, and a reception of city officials and special guests will follow. Superintendent Murphy and his aides, Deputy Superintendent Joseph Gordon, Chief Inspector Bernard J. Gorman and Private Secretary Billy Colihan will be honor guests of the Manhattan attaches.

The Associated Employees constitute a mutual benefit organization, which is in a flourishing state, and the officers are sanguine that the ball will materially enrich the relief fund of the association. The ball will be under the management of this committee:

Development of Office Buildings.

FIVE years ago no single office building, other than the large buildings of life insurance companies, rented for as much as $500,000 a year. Fifteen years ago there was no steel skeleton office building at all in New York. Forty million dollars' worth are under construction this spring, and some of these will have a rent roll of over a million a year. Mr. Robert E. Dowling, president of the City Investing Company, which is putting together one of these giant houses, says in an article in "Building Management" that the increase in rent rolls are not due to higher rates, but to higher buildings:

For while rentals of lofts, stores, dwellings and apartments are very much higher now than they were five years ago, office rents now are practically the same as they were then. The rates in the new buildings are from two dollars to four dollars per square foot per annum for space above ground floors, and the ground floor rates are from four dollars to fifteen dollars per square foot.

To make place for the new buildings, several older type office buildings were this year removed, causing many persons to express surprise that such strong and apparently serviceable structures should be demolished. In every instance it was done because the older building was economically inefficient; it was carrying out the same law of progress that casts aside the old type of locomotive, replaces the light rail on the railroads with a heavier one, puts 50-ton freight cars in place of the 20-ton cars, and puts in commission the 20,000-ton steamship in place of the 5,000-ton vessel.

Since April 1 the Bruce & Banning Company, advertising agents, known in the building material trade, has become "The Banning Company." Offices will be in the Brunswick Building after May 1.

Notwithstanding the inclement weather, work on the Hendrik Hudson apartments, now in course of construction at northeast corner of Riverside Drive and Cathedral Parkway, is progressing rapidly. The brick and stone facing is nearly completed and the structure will soon be completely enclosed.

Easterman, of Chicago, has the plastering of our U. S. Custom House nearly finished. He used Rockland-Rockport lime for the scratch, brown and finishing coats, all hand-made and mixed on the job. The new police headquarters is nearly ready for the plasterers, but so far this contract has not yet been awarded.

The work of excavating for the new building to be erected at 30 to 34 West 32d st and 29 to 35 West 33d st, by Chas. T. Wills for the Bankers' Construction Co., 10 Wall st, Manhattan, is practically finished. The building will be 12 stories in height, containing lofts and offices and will be the largest of its kind in the immediate neighborhood.

The buildings in course of construction on the lower West Side represent the highest type of office structures in the world; they are not only large, well planned, splendidly equipped and finished, but several of them are considered by competent authorities to be the most architecturally beautiful commercial structures ever erected in this country.—Robert E. Dowling.

The offices of the Estate of William H. Nolte, manufacturers of interior trim, have been moved to the firm's new 4-sty building at Seigel, Bogart and Moore sts, Brooklyn, where they will be able to handle with promptness anything in the woodworking line. This move was caused by the large increase in the business, which is conducted by William C., Edward A. and Frederick J. Nolte.

W. W. Smith, of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Company, died at his home in Ossining recently, aged 63. Until six years ago Mr. Smith was connected with the plaster trade, in which he was almost a pioneer, as he started out with the old Hudson River house of W. R. Brown & Co., and was for many years in the employ of its successor, the Higginson Plaster Co., and latterly of J. B. King & Co.

A card index will be found an invaluable thing in the office of a builder, architect or material dealer. In the offices of real estate brokers, appraisers and operators the card system has been in general use for years. It is the greatest "life-preserver" ever invented for a business office. Editors of papers, technical and otherwise, are frequently in receipt of letters asking when an article or information of some sort was published, and it may mean a search of hours to follow the indistinct clew. The subscriber who does not keep a card index does not get full value out of his paper.

Additional indication that the business centers of San Francisco will be located in the same districts as they were before the fire is offered by the decision of the Mutual Life Insurance Company to repair and occupy their building at the corner of Sansome and California sts. The lower stories will be occupied by the Canadian Bank of Commerce and the upper stories will be occupied by the Mutual Life Insurance Company. The architect for the alterations and repairs is Mr. Nathaniel Blaisdell. The contract for this work was recently awarded to the Frank Gilbreth Company on the cost-plus-a-fixed sum basis.

Herbert A. Sherman, auctioneer, will sell at auction Thursday, April 18, 12 o'clock, noon, at Exchange Salesroom, 14 Vesey st, trustees' sale, absolutely without reserve, estate of Samuel E. Lyon, deceased, 50 lots on Southern Boulevard, Wales av, Concord av, Robbins av, 142d st and St. Mary's st; 80 per cent. may remain on mortgage, 1, 2 or three years, at option of purchaser at 5% interest or 70% at 4½% interest. Purchaser to pay recording tax of ½ of 1 per cent. See advertisement in Record and Guide.

On April 23 John L. Parish, auctioneer, of 149 Broadway, Manhattan, will sell at auction at the Vesey st salesroom, several desirable parcels of realty situated on Washington Heights. The sale includes two desirable corner properties, a block front on Wadsworth av, and other well located offerings in close proximity to the Broadway subway. All the properties are ripe for improvement, and as the terms announced are easy, it is likely that the sale will attract a large attendance. See notice on another page.

The week has generally been a quiet one in the brokerage branch of the market. Trading below 59th st developed nothing of special interest with the exception of the resale of 71-73 Murray st. Among the eighties there was evidence of a growing demand for dwellings, and in upper Harlem the sale of a block of apartments furnished the chief topic for comment. Up in the Bronx a change in the ownership of a large block of lots on the Southern Boulevard was perhaps the most interesting transaction in that borough, as it foreshadowed another building operation. The total number of private sales reported was 127; 46 below 59th st, 57 north and 24 in the Bronx.

The greatest absolute sale of lots in history of New York will take place Wednesday, April 24, and Thursday, April 25, beginning 9 a. m., at Exchange Salesroom, 14 Vesey st. Joseph P. Day will offer for sale 1,500 lots of the Ogden Estate. This sale is absolutely without reserve, being a Supreme Court Partition Sale, and opens up a part of the Bronx which for years has been kept intact by the Ogden Estate trustees. Property is situated on a ridge on east side of Harlem River, extending from below High Bridge to beyond Washington Bridge, and from the river east to Shakespeare av, including lots on Plympton, Nelson, Ogden, Merriam, Boscobel, Underhill, Commerce, Sedgwick and Lind aves, the intersecting streets and the river front. There are car lines on Sedgwick and Boscobel avs, and the proposed Lexington and Eighth av subways (to connect with a Jerome av extension) will have stations near the property. The standard size of lot is 25x100. (See advertisement for further particulars.)

REAL ESTATE NOTES

This week's auction business at the Vesey street exchange amounted to $1,447,042.

John L. Parish and P. J. Murray have been elected members of the Real Estate Board of Brokers.

The offices of the Mishkind-Feinberg Realty Co., real estate operators, have been moved from 135 Broadway to the Presbyterian Building, 156 5th av.

A large percentage of brokers doing business in the middle West Side of Manhattan say that the demand for private dwellings is largely on the increase.

As a result of the Doherty sale a well-known 23d st broker has been instructed by several clients to withdraw their properties from the market until further notice.

Voorhees & Floyd, now at 51 Maiden lane, announce that about April 15 they will move to larger offices in the new Royal Fire Insurance Co. Building, 84 William st.

J. Edgar Leaycraft was chosen a member of the board of governors of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, to take the place vacant owing to the death of John R. Foley.

Wm. H. Hoyt & Co., real estate brokers and agents, who make a specialty of country property, have moved their offices from 15 West 42d st to 311 Madison av, south of 42d st.

Hiram Rinaldo, 233 Grand st, believes that the present high prices now being obtained for property on the Lower East Side are doing much toward strengthening the market for realty in that locality.

Louis Schrag, 142 West 23d st, Manhattan, says that rentals of private houses in 21st and 22d sts, between 6th and 7th avs, have greatly increased, and he attributes the reason to the invasion of business.

The Prudential Insurance Co. loaned the McGraw Realty Co. $400,000 for five years at 4½ per cent. on its 12-sty reinforced concrete building north side 39th st, between 7th and 8th avs. The building covers plot 126.4x98.9.

Cyrille Carreau, 796 6th av, Manhattan, in speaking of conditions along that thoroughfare, said that owners were unconsciously retarding enhancement in property values by not exercising care in their selection of tenants.

A preliminary association of real estate brokers has been organized in Flushing to prevent the practice of splitting commissions, both with the buyer and seller. It is understood that the organization will ultimately develop into a real estate board of brokers.

A report of a sale giving virtually no particulars except the broker's name, is of much less interest and value in the trade than one giving all the specifications that can be reasonably expected, in transactions of importance. The Record and Guide hopes to be favored in this superior manner.

In asking the present New Jersey Legislature to extend the time for further investigations and for an additional appropriation of money to carry on its work, the commission, which is acting with a similar body from the State of New York, argues that the six tunnels in course of construction will afford only temporary relief and that bridges will be a necessity in the immediate future.

In speaking of trading on the West Side, Alfred E. Touissaint, 400 Columbus av, Manhattan, said that there is a large demand for dwellings west of that thoroughfare, but that the supply is becoming limited. He further remarked that while present prices are higher for this class of property than it brought ten years ago, the figures obtained compare favorably with the period preceding.

The Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers has called a public meeting to discuss the Torrens System of registration of land titles, at the Brooklyn Real Estate Auction Room, 189

Montague st, Brooklyn, on Monday, April 15th, at 5 o'clock, and also to consider the bill now before the joint judiciary committees of the Legislature. At that meeting prominent speakers will present different aspects of the measure.

The announcement that the American Real Estate Co. will erect a row of 5-sty flats on the block front on north side of Dongan st, between Simpson and Fox sts, Bronx, in a measure disproves the idea that there is still an overproduction of flats in that locality, and will doubtless have the effect of encouraging other and similar operations before the passing of the present season. Real estate men say that so far the activity in this direction has not come up to expectations, but now that the Bronx is offering transit facilities equal to Washington Heights they predict an increasing demand for property of this description.

In the Wants and Offers column a fine country plot, situated at the intersection of two main roads, with a large house thereon, equipped with all improvements, and a large barn about 150 ft. from the house, is noticed as for sale. This residence has its site on an elevation, with a choice orchard containing abundant fruit trees. To the east, in the grounds, flows a brook of pure, clear water, and the Palisades are just beyond. The landscape is superb, and must be seen to be appreciated. Owing to circumstances (which can be better explained upon a personal interview) the entire holdings can be bought for $12,000, there being about ten acres in all. It is actually worth over $17,000.

To Further Consider Torrens Measure.

The Board of Governors of the Real Estate Board of Brokers has called a mass-meeting for Monday, April 15, at 3.30 P. M., to further consider the Prentice bill. The meeting will be held at the Exchange Salesroom, 14-16 Vesey st. Among the speakers will be Sir Daniel O'Connor, New South Wales, Australia; Jos. L. Buttenwieser, M. Jos. Harson and John L. Parish. It is expected that many civic societies will send delegations to participate on the occasion.

Revised Route of the New York and Portchester Railroad.

Mr. Oakleigh Thorne, who is now the principal figure in the consolidated and "Westchester" and "Portchester" electric railroads, states that it has been practically determined to build along the line laid out for the New York, West Chester and Boston Company. This includes not only the main line, but a branch to the East River shore at the end of Clason Point.

A map has been filed in the County Clerk's office and another copy with the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The terminal will adjoin the Harlem River stations of the New Haven Railroad and the Willis av. bridge. The company has delegated the construction work to the Millbrook Company, of which Mace Moulton is chief engineer. Construction plans are now being prepared. Marsden J. Perry has been elected president of the New York and Portchester Railroad Company, to succeed William C. Gotshall. Mr. Perry is connected with various electrification enterprises in and around New York.

The route to be now followed, beginning at Unionport rd, between Mianna st and Burchell av, runs across Oakley st, between Mianna st and Sagamore st, thence across White Plains rd at or near the intersection of Sagamore st, thence across Brown av and Sagamore st, at or near their intersection,thence across Hunt av and Bear Swamp rd at their intersection, thence across Lincoln (Holland), Jefferson (Wallace), Madison (Barnes avs) sts, Bear Swamp rd or Bronxdale av and across Bronx and Pelham Parkway at Williamsbridge rd, near their intersection, thence across Saw Mill lane between Williamsbridge rd and Eastchester rd, thence across Eastchester rd near its intersection with Syracuse av, thence across Cedar, Oak and Walnut sts, between Kingston and Syracuse avs, thence across Chestnut st, near its intersection with Kingston av, thence across Ash st, thence across Boston rd and approximately parallel with Boston rd and across Schieffelin lane, 5th or Dyer av and to a point in the northerly line of the city near Dyer av, between the old White Plains rd and 5th av.

Hudson River Building Status.

Hudson River towns lost heavily in the recent Wall Street "killing." For years the valley has been drained of its wealth by bucket-shops and through investing in gold mines, oil wells, Western irrigation schemes, national building and loan companies and other financial bric-a-brac, either quite worthless or essentially fraudulent. Genuine local opportunities in building and real estate have for many years been utterly neglected until there is a dearth of dwellings and apartments in all the cities and towns, and the newspapers are discussing the advisability of organizing building syndicates, seeing that individual builders are backward. The situation in the city of Hudson is thus depicted in the Morning Republican:

Real estate agents report they are entirely unable to furnish houses or apartments renting from $15 a month upward. . . . . The Republican is not given to advising its readers how to invest their money, but it does feel free to say that if the money lost by Hudsonians in the recent stock tumble had been invested in real estate and homes, everybody would be a deal better off. Here is a source of assured income in tangible form. If no single Hudsonian will go into the scheme it can be done by a company. If it isn't done either by the individual or by a company, outside capital will come in and make the money which rightfully belongs to Hudsonians. Such an investment would be much better than margins on stocks, or holdings in gold mines, and recent events have proved it.

Care of Tenement Property.

THIS subject lies close to a considerable part of that which the real estate agent has to do, and its principles are not so simple as to be commonly known. Many tenements comfortably planned and substantially constructed have, notwithstanding, failed as investments, because they never had a chance. It is unfortunate for our real estate interests here in the metropolitan district that so few investors build for themselves. Probably not one per cent. of our tenement houses are erected by parties intending to hold them. The same is true of dwellings in new sections. A little is made to go a great ways, and, oftentimes, a poor construction is made to look good for a time. A buyer's eyes are so dazzled by the granite portals, the mahogany and marble hall and the embossed plush with which the walls are hung, that he cannot see how the rest of the "job" has been skimped.

In the opinion of Mr. Ransom E. Wilcox (of the firm of Wilcox & Shelton), no man without experience should purchase a piece of improved real estate, even for speculation, without disinterested professional advice. "It costs but ten dollars to get an appraisement," and we should advise our clients oftener than we do. In a lecture delivered this season before the West Side Y. M. C. A., in West 57th st, Manhattan, Mr. Wilcox discovers that the speculative craze is at the bottom of much of the trouble:

Ground available for improvement is so high, the cost of materials and labor has so advanced, only the very skillful can use the best and make a profit. The ordinary speculative builder, paying a high price for his ground and an unreasonable bonus for his building loan, must recoup his extra outlay by scanting the weight and quality of his material, pinching his contractors to a figure where it will be impossible for them to do an honest job, glossing over the imperfections with eye-catching tricks of surface finish, and trust to the glib mouth of the salesman to palm off his product on a suffering public. Alas! that these methods succeed so well! New York is a large place. Most men make but a few investments in a lifetime, and by the time a man has learned wisdom in these things he is either old enough to die or too poor to try another venture. Here is a field in which we ought to magnify our usefulness. Let us try to educate our clients to know the difference between the good and the poor, and seek to let it be known that there is property that is absolutely worthless—houses that do but cumber the ground. Every real estate office has this kind of property offered to it. Let it be known in the trade that we are not interested in it, and that it cannot be sold to those whom we advise.

One of the essentials of success in the management of property is a skilful agent, presupposing good properties and wise owners. Men with enviable reputations in real estate circles in this great city have laid the foundations of their fortunes in the care and management of property, much of it of the tenement kind, and the advice of Mr. Wilcox to his student class was, (1) do not draw back from small tasks; and (2) consult freely with the owner. "If it is the owner's first experience he will probably sacrifice you after a year or two, in an experiment to see if it cannot be done for less money. Therefore divide responsibility with him at every step if he will permit you." More particularly Mr. Wilcox says:

Before agreeing to do some needed repair or renewing or improving some appointment of the property, get his views and his consent; show him as near as possible to what it will lead. See if he has not some man whom he would like you to employ, or who will give you an estimate. He will presently find, probably, that men will bid lower for you than they will for him. The volume of your work makes you a desirable customer. When you can underbid him and then get a good job done, which you will have him up to look at some day, you are making splendid progress. Presently he will be one of the men you will refer to when you are seeking other property.

Study the needs of your houses and get a long view of them. You may see some way to improve them. Talk with the owner about these, and make use of his suggestions. Something has been said about the tiresome and exacting detail of this business. These conferences with the owner will brace you up and prevent your tiring of and neglecting these matters that seem trifling, but that in the aggregate mean so much for the success of your undertaking. These conferences will not always be pleasant. Sometimes an owner has cause for discouragement, and possibly distrust. Let there be no situation or transaction that you are not ready to face. Have no matters that must be concealed.

In regard to the attitude of the agent toward the tenant, Mr. Wilcox believes that a prompt "No," with a fair statement of the reason, is infinitely better than a hope encouraged only to be deferred and finally denied. An agent's time and thought is too valuable to be used over and over again on small matters. Thus:

It is not impossible, it is not even difficult, to be as hard as adamant and at the same time to be wholly polite and even sympathetic. The agent has always in his dealing with the tenant one unfailing resource—the expectation and the requirement of the owner. "The owner will not permit this expenditure." "The owner says this rent must be presently increased." "The owner expects his account on the 10th, or 15th," or whatever the day may be. "The owner has instructed us most positively not to wait beyond the 20th for this rent." Often these statements are literally true; always they are substantially so.

Hydrated Lime Makes Concrete Waterproof.

A hydrated lime manufactured by the Rockland-Rockport Lime Company and named the "Pine Cone," is well spoken of in the trade. Bertram Brewer, supervising engineer at Waltham, Mass., writes concerning its use in the construction of the reservoir there:

Before drawing plans and specifications for this structure, I had several laboratory tests made for me of various materials for making concrete waterproof. Excellent results were obtained by using "Pine Cone" hydrated lime to the extent of from 5 to 10% of the weight of the cement. I therefore specified that the contractor should use a one-two-four concrete and that hydrated lime, to an amount not exceeding 10% of the weight of the cement, should be introduced as an added ingredient.

As a matter of fact, we used 5% of "Pine Cone" hydrated lime with most excellent results. The reservoir has been in use now for nearly three months and is free from leaks. Our tests and experience show that hydrated lime added to concrete does greatly increase its impermeability. On other work I should increase the percentage of lime.

The whole office floor area of the Singer Building, No. 91-93 Liberty st., N. Y. City, 14 stories high, extending to Broadway, is being entirely covered with Asbestolith sanitary base and floors, by the Asbestolith Manufacturing Co., 156 5th av.

The new electrical engineering building of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass., which is to be completed this fall, and which will be the largest one of its kind in the country, costing over $125,000, is to be equipped with a complete heating and ventilating outfit supplied by the Green Fuel Economizer Company, Matteawan, N. Y.

On May 1st the Clinton Wire Cloth Co., Clinton, Mass., will remove its New York office from 33 Park Place to 261 Broadway. At the same time the Chicago office will be removed from 237 Lake st to 30 and 32 River st. For over half a century this concern has been manufacturing wire cloth of every description, embracing woven wire fence, electrically welded wire fabrics for concrete construction, wire lath, hexagonal netting and perforated materials.

Painter's colic and other dangers, both to the man who puts on the paint and those who dwell within the painted rooms may now be looked upon as one of the evils born to lack of knowledge. It was not thought possible a few years ago to manufacture a paint which possessed all the advantages of paint containing white lead, zinc and other ingredients useful or preservatives but dangerous to health. Assiduous study and experiment, however, have resulted in a chemical achievement in the manufacture of a paint which is equal if not superior to the old paints but absolutely free from danger because it contains no poisonous matter whatever. This paint has been appropriately named "Marvelo Wall Paint." It is made on a wide range of colors and shades and suitable for every class of exterior or interior finish or decoration. The nature of the ingredients in Marvelo Wall Paint are such that atmospheric influences neither change the colors nor disintegrate the material in the least degree. The manufacturers, the Muralo Company of New Brighton, S. I., will be pleased to send specimens and otherwise prove their claims for their product.

Tips from Mr. Metz.

Comptroller Metz delivered a pithy address before the South Brooklyn Board of Trade which contained these interesting tips:

I don't believe in going around telling things that won't happen.

My stand on the tri-borough system of subways has been criticized in some places, but I think I have acted pretty wisely. Both routes will be advertised within the next four weeks.

If anybody bids on the Fourth Ave Subway (in Brooklyn) we shall go right ahead with it.

I believe in planning a great system down here so as to make South Brooklyn what it should be and ought to be; what Hamburg is to Germany, what Liverpool is to England. This is my idea of the future of South Brooklyn.

Take Second Ave, in Brooklyn. I believe that it is destined to be a most wonderful factory district. I'm going to apply for the appointment of a commission to consider a complete water-front system.

The city is not broke yet, of course, but it's just as well for us to keep ourselves within the consideration of essentials.

What we ought to do and should do is to look very carefully into the increase of values in the outlying districts. Assessments should be properly levied, and I shall try to see that that will be done.

Within twenty-five years there will be no residences in Manhattan south of 59th st.

Corporation Counsel Ellison's appointment was about the best thing that ever happened in this town.

Rebuilding Kingston.

With reference to the late earthquake and fire, advices from Kingston, Jamaica, state that from the catastrophe the people of that city have learned new lessons in building plans. Vice Consul W. H. Orrett writes thus of building plans:

The government very wisely has under consideration a building law which aims at a uniform class of reconstructed buildings to more readily stand the violence of nature or fire, and it would appear that steel with reinforced concrete will play an important part in this reconstruction of the principal business houses and banks, so that the present would, in my opinion, be an opportune time for American steel, iron, and cement manufacturers who make a specialty of such work to do some preliminary work in exploiting the situation.

The citizens having appealed to the British Government for an imperial loan of some $5,250,000 to be used for reconstruction purposes, I take it that if it is granted very stringent provisions will be made in its application, so as to insure buildings being erected as earthquake and fireproof as possible so as to safeguard the loan or grant; hence it is obvious that these buildings will be constructed principally of steel and reinforced concrete, and thus American manufacturers, from their proximity to this island, should, in the matter of freight and passage of skilled workmen, etc., have a very material advantage over European competitors. There will also be an abnormal demand for builders' hardware, cement, lumber, structural iron or steel, etc., for the next three years or more, and it will pay the American producer to study the field. The demand will be especially strong for structural steel and corrugated iron. More of the latter will be used now than ever, not only for roofing, but for sheeting or siding for buildings.

Electricity at the Jamestown Exhibition.

Following the example of all recent large exhibitions, electricity will be featured at Jamestown in a way which promises to surpass the illumination of the Pan-American. For the first time, a national exposition will be operated by electricity furnished by modern steam turbines. The Norfolk Railway & Light Company has contracted to furnish all the electricity required for illumination and power purposes. This additional "load" has made necessary a large increase in the equipment and a number of Curtis steam turbine generator units have been purchased. The exhibits will include all the latest inventions, discoveries and applications in the electrical field. The electrical equipment will be furnished by the General Electric Company, who will also be large exhibitors. The night harbor illumination will surpass anything of its kind ever attempted before.

Rents Moderating in San Francisco.

Mr. Rufus P. Jennings, of San Francisco (address the California Building), under date of March 31, in a letter to the Record and Guide, says that during the month of March building operations in his city were hindered in a large degree by rains, "but with the removal of the height limit on Class A buildings there is coming greatly increased activity," and further:

"The return of normal weather conditions during the last four days of the month brought a rush of applications for building permits.

"Hotel accommodationse have increased, as have those of rooming and boarding houses. Many flats and residences have been completed, and there is a tendency toward reduction of rents."

Title Examination Charges Reduced.

At a recent meeting of the directors of the Williamsburgh Title Company it was decided to reduce the charges for title examination to real property. Title to any house and lot in Kings County, exclusive of survey, will be examined for a fixed sum, and the purchase price will not enter into the consideration.
